FAVORS TAX CUTS EXCEEDING THOSE TREASURY URGES

Watson of Ways and Means Committee Wants Surtax Maximum 15 Per Cent.

WOULD END ESTATE TAXES

Also Repeal Gift Tax and the Publicity Clause of the Revenue Act.

PROMISES CONGRESS ACTION

He Praises the Watchfulness of Coolidge and Ability of Mellon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Reduction of the maximum surtax rate to not more than 15 per cent. and the repeal of the inheritance and gift taxes and the publicity section of the revenue law were advocated today by Representative Henry W. Watson, Republican of Pennsylvania, a member of the Ways and Means Committee which will initiate legislation in the next session of Congress in December. Mr. Watson said he felt that some of the so-called nuisance taxes could be eliminated, also.

Adoption of such a program, he said, probably would leave little surplus revenue from tax sources to be used in addition to payments received from foreign governments on their wartime debts, for the purpose of reducing the principal of the public debt of this Government.

In a recent letter to the Iowa Tax Clubs, Under Secretary Garrard B. Winston said that the Treasury Department believed sufficient revenues would be obtained if the maximum surtax were reduced from the present level of 40 per cent. to 20 per cent., and the maximum normal tax from 6 to 5 per cent., thus providing a combined maximum normal and surtax of 25 per cent.

The Treasury Department has been opposed to tax reduction which would curtail revenues so severely that it would be necessary to abandon the policy of applying a considerable sum from general revenues to reduction of the public debt. In the last fiscal year the debt was reduced about $734,000,000, and of this sum about $484,000,000 came from payments by foreign governments and other revenues which the law provides shall be used for debt reduction, and approximately $250,000,000 from general receipts.

Charges He Would Like to See.

"The Committee on Ways and Means," said Mr. Watson, "will meet in October to frame a revenue bill for Congress to enact previous to January first," said Mr. Watson. "If the present plan is carried through, the Federal taxpayers of the present year will profit by lower taxation. The maximum surtax rate should not be above 15 per cent. Two sections of the act of 1924, relative to the estate or the inheritance tax, and the gift tax should be repealed. The publicity clause also should be abolished.

"The estate tax in its nature is confiscatory, it dissolves solvent estates, is unjust to the heirs, and frequently causes the abandonment of large tax paying concerns. An inheritance tax is a state prerogative, and should be a source from which the States may derive returns. The gift tax should be buried with the inheritance tax. The purpose of the gift tax, of course, is to cover up the loop-holes by which the inheritance tax might escape.

"A gift tax is not justifiable, narrow in its conception, and unwise in its enactment. The present surplus in the Treasury is $155,272,191. This amount, however, is a necessary balance. The estimated revenue required for the fiscal year of 1926 is $3,375,000,000. When the surtax was reduced to 40 per cent. the revenues therefrom was increased by $34,000,000. It is estimated that $200,000,000 might be collected if the surtax were placed at 15 per cent., and $70,000,000 in excess thereof at 20 per cent.

"The gift tax in 1925 amounted to $7,500,000 and the inheritance tax $100,000,000.

"The year 1916 revealed 45,126 estate tax returns, while in 1923 only 14,150. The higher estate tax indicates fewer returns. There are about $14,000,000,000 invested in non-taxable securities, solid investments, but not available for Federal revenues. Non-taxable securities do not yield returns of high rates of interest. A lower surtax, however, would be an inducement for the investor to seek industrials.

"In making this statement I also take in consideration foreign loans. The total principal and interest indebtedness is $12,151,238,393; of this amount $46,099,672 has been paid on account of principal, and $275,968,405 on account of interest. It is evident, therefore, that the present revenue law, with the maximum surtax rate reduced to 15 per cent. and the gift and estate taxes eliminated with further reduction in nuisance taxes to the amount of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 for the calendar year 1927, would yield sufficient revenue to meet all the expenses of the Government as now constituted.

Strain Put on War Payments.

"Of course, the maturing obligations of the Government would have to be refunded, so that the sinking fund and payment by our allies on account of our foreign indebtedness would be the only source for reducing our present debt.

"For persistent efforts to secure all around retrenchment in the operating expenses of our Government the taxpayers are greatly indebted to the constant watchfulness of President Coolidge and the executive ability of Secretary Mellon. Our expenses for the coming fiscal year will therefore be carefully pruned by the Budgeting Bureau and the Appropriation Committee."

The "surplus" of $155,272,191 to which Mr. Watson makes reference is the balance shown by the Treasury general fund which is kept as working capital. The actual excess of expenditures over receipts for the present fiscal year, as of July 30, was $50,508,395, and this has been met by taking money from the general fund.

Says Winter Will Be Hard, Like That of 1553 and 1740

PARIS, Aug. 2 (AP).—Next Winter will be long and hard, according to investigations by the astronomer-priest, Father Gabriel, which Professor Guillaume Bigourdan, Director of the Paris Observatory, has described to the Academy of Sciences.

Father Gabriel has discovered that the lunar solar cycle of 744 years is divided into two periods of 372 years and four periods of 186 years. He asserts that the weather follows these periods, and that this Winter will be as severe as were the Winters of the years 1553 and 1740. His observations are based on researches into the works of historians, poets and writers which were likely to give weather indications.

The French astronomer, Arago, had already remarked on this recurrence of hard Winters, without indicating the periods between them.

RACE TO SEE GIRL DYING OF INJURIES

Parents Reach Her Just Before She Succumbs to Hurts Suffered in Auto Crash.

MOTORCYCLES CLEAR ROAD

Traffic Is Held Up at All Crossings as Taxicab Speeds From Camden to Atlantic City.

Miss Florence Davis, 17 years old, of Camden, died in Atlantic City Hospital yesterday of injuries received in an automobile accident, a few minutes after her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Davis, had arrived from Camden, speeding in a taxicab with police escort in the hope of seeing their daughter before she succumbed. They arrived at the hospital at dawn and ten minutes after their arrival the young woman lapsed into unconsciousness and died, an Associated Press dispatch told.

The parents were notified by telephone early yesterday morning that their daughter had been gravely injured, and tried to find a way to hasten to her. They learned that no trains would be leaving for several hours and feared she would be dead before they could reach her. Mr. Davis engaged a taxicab, however, and arranged with the authorities to telephone ahead to arrange for a swift passage. An escort of State motorcycle policemen was provided and raced along ahead of the cab. At crossings along the route policemen held back the traffic and allowed the parents to rush through unimpeded. The car did not halt until it rolled up in front of the hospital.

Miss Davis was one of a party stopping at 108 Carter Road, Wildwood Crest. Saturday night she had gone riding in a machine driven by Walter Mayer of 320 State Street, Camden. Also in the car was Miss Katherine Smith of 338 North Ninth Street, Camden.

Car Crashes Into Fence.

Mayer was driving the machine on the Sea Isle Road, between Sea Isle City and Ocean City, when it got beyond his control and crashed into a fence. Miss Davis was thrown against the windshield and seevral jagged pieces of glass cut her. Both Mayer and Miss Smith escaped injury. Miss Davis was rushed to the Atlantic City hospital, where it was realized at once that she could live only a short time, and her parents, whose home is at 934 Linden Street, were informed by telephone. Mayer was arrested.

Miss Birdie Walsh, 29 years old, of 61 West 100th Street died yesterday in Reconstruction Hospital from injuries received when she was struck by a truck at Columbus Avenue and 100th Street. George Mettleman of 360 West 116th Street, the driver, was charged with felonious assault. He said Miss Walsh had become confused and had stepped in front of his machine.

Tim Kenny, 65 years old, custodian of the barge Tiona, moored in the East River off Ninety-sixth Street, died in Mount Sinai Hospital. The driver of the machine which hit Kinny, as he crossed First Avenue at Ninety-sixth, escaped.

ROCKAWAY HAVING A REAL ESTATE BOOM; PLUNGING HEAVILY

Thousands Buy and Sell Plots on Report of City Plan to Build Nine-Mile Boardwalk.

PAPER FORTUNES MADE

One Transaction Brings $400,000 in Quick Turnover as the Excitement Grows.

CURB MARKETS FORMED

Records of Transfers Made on Scraps of Paper—Lots Go for $40,000 to $120,000.

A real estate boom in which fortunes on paper are being made in a day is sweeping the Rockaways. Thousands are flocking there, and all yesterday and late into the night buyers congregated in Edgemere Plaza and Beach 116th Street, scrambling for chances to invest. So insistent were the buyers that curb markets formed on the sidewalks and in the street. Outdoor telephone connections were hurriedly improvised, and police from the Beach Ninety-second Street Station and from Far Rockaway were detailed to keep the eager crowd in order.

The firm of Mann & Schnall, Edgemere Plaza, reported a turnover Saturday totaling more than $2,000,000, their office being open until 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Brunner & Farrell, at Rockaway Park, continued business until 5 in the morning. Isaac Zaret of Edgemere Plaza said that he had kept his office open night and day during the past week, and estimated his Saturday turnover at $2,000,000.

Joseph Weinstock, theatre owner, who attracted attention some years ago by purchasing for $50 at an auction sale a certificate of membership in the New York Stock Exchange, thinking it worth $70,000, declared that he had, in four weeks, realized $2,000,000 on an original outlay of $30,000. The two millions were not of course in cash but in contracts on paper.

How the Rush Started.

He foresaw a rise in values five weeks ago when he read newspaper accounts of a proposal before the Board of Estimate to appropriate $1,260,000 for the construction of a new nine-mile Rockaway coast boardwalk. The story of his sudden acquisition of wealth was typical of that of several others at Rockaway. He said:

"Just about a month ago I was sitting in the office of my theatre, the Apollo, on 125th Street, with my partner, Billie Minsky. I saw an article in the paper saying that the Board of Estimate was considering favorably the boardwalk appropriation and would probably pass it. I read it to him, and I said, 'There's a chance. We'll go down and take a fly at it.'

Made $400,000 in One Deal.

"I found I had $30,000 that I could lay my hands on, and that is all that I have used. Minsky contributed his good-will, but no money, and we went in together. My first buy was a piece of ocean-front property at Beach Seventy-ninth Street. Somebody named Gibson owned it. It was 107 feet by 280, and I paid $8,000. Today I was offered $175,000. I'm keeping it until I get $250,000."

Mr. Weinstock reported as his biggest deal the purchase of property between Beach 100th and Beach 102d Streets, known as the Steeplechase and Jack Rabbit Parks. He paid $825,000, he said, and ten days later sold at $1,225,000. He said that, sitting at dinner two days ago, he had verbally agreed to purchase a piece of property from a fellow-diner when another buyer came along, offering a higher price. "I made $1,500 without getting up from the table, without even signing papers," Weinstock declared.

Similar phenomenal deals were reported everywhere along the "curb." William Zaret, a lumber dealer of Lawrenceville, Mass., is reported to have made $65,000 in two hours yesterday morning. He is the son of Isaac Zaret, realtor. At 10 A. M. he bought from Walter Verity, the southwest corner of Beach Fifty-third Street and Edgemere Avenue, a plot 40 by 100 feet, for $40,000. A few minutes later he sold it for

45 Are Hurt as 250,000 in Melbourne Try to Board Vessels of American Fleet

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 2.—More than 250,000 persons here today attempted to crowd upon the vessels of the American Fleet lying at Prince's pier and Victoria docks, with the result that forty-five men and women were crushed and mauled. Ambulances from all local hospitals were called out to treat casualties, which for the most part were of a miner nature.

The crowds were so great that emergency guards of sailors were formed. The ships were cleared, but after an interval the dock gates were again opened in order to permit the public inspection to continue.

Melbourne in all its history has never experienced such a massing of people, with the possible exception of the Prince of Wales's visit in May, 1920.

The day here and in Sydney was, for the greater part, spent by the fleet personnel in automobile tours of the neighboring countryside. Private citizens by the hundred brought their cars to the ships and took the men with them for these short excursions.

Everywhere along the roadsides the residents cut great bunches of beautiful wattle blossoms—the Australian national flower—and placarded them thus: "Free to American Sailors and Officers."

Sailors literally overran Victoria and New South Wales, and all evening long the returning cars went in long cues back to Sydney and Melbourne piled high with the fine yellow blooms, which in this country come in the Wintertime.

The official entertainment has now become quite merged with the unofficial entertainment. In Sydney the officers of the West Virginia gave an at home, while naval golfers went to local courses.

In Melbourne there were several dinners.

Sydney's program tomorrow includes golf parties, a mounted paper chase for officers, a rifle match between the battleship Colorado sharpshooters and Sydneyites, a theatre party and the Lord Mayor's ball.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 2 (AP).—A large number of American sailors spent Sunday in farewells. The sailors declare they have had "the best time on earth, with the people of Melbourne treating us like their own families."

Score Are Hurt in Bay State Klan Riot; Three Arrested After Siege in Farmhouse

Special to The New York Times.

WESTWOOD, Mass., Aug. 2.—A score of persons, three of them women, were injured, and three alleged Klansmen, one the son of the Chief of Police at Sudbury, were arrested this afternoon during a riot that followed the breaking up of a Ku Klux Klan meeting on a field in Westwood.

More than thirty of the Klansmen, chased from the field by several hundred citizens, took refuge in the home of Stephen Illsley, owner of the farm on which the meeting was held, and were besieged for a half hour until the State constabulary came and protected them while they escaped in automobiles.

During the half hour that the Klansmen were at bay, scores of stones and other missiles were hurled into the Illsley house, shattering window frames and wrecking a considerable part of the furniture. Threats were made to burn the house. Approximately 1,000 motorists, in addition to the 75 Klan members and sympathizers, the 300 anti-Klansmen, and several hundred other residents of Westwood were present during the trouble.

The men arrested were Perley W. Libby of Sudbury, Roy R. Hall, son of the Sudbury Chief of Police, and William Gordon Moore, whose address was not given. They were taken to the Norfolk County jail at Dedham, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Most of the injured were Klansmen who were struck by missiles or pieces of broken glass from shattered windshields of automobiles. Several of the injured were advised by the police to go to the hospital for treatment, but they feared that if they did so their identity would be disclosed.

COOLIDGE WON'T ACT TILL MINERS STRIKE

Feels That Government Should Wait Until Nation Faces Actual Emergency.

DISLIKES PARLEY TACTICS

Executive Thinks Neither Side Has Won Approval—Summons Hoover for Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 2.—The attitude of President Coolidge as explained today by one of his associates is that the coal operators and miners should recognize their responsibility to the public, settle the dispute over wages and avert a strike. Unless a strike occurs the Administration will not act, it was declared officially.

The mining of coal, in the opinion of President Coolidge, approaches a public utility in many respects. At least the furnishing of an adequate hard coal supply is a public necessity and in that respect the dispute between the workers and operators is much different than the relations they have to the public in many other concerns.

The Administration contends, it was pointed out today, following Senator Pepper's departure, that neither the operators nor the miners have taken the public into consideration. Instead, it is said, they have proceeded as if whatever they did was of no interest to the public. Their attitude, President Coolidge and Senator Pepper believe, has totally disregarded the public.

The Administration feels, it was said, that it is not the province of the Federal Government to settle disputes between employers and employes. Wage adjustment and other industrial disputes must be worked out by the parties at issue. But when these differences bring about a condition of public calamity then the Government will step in and use its power on the side of the public.

Will Act in Case of a Strike.

While it had been thought that the Federal Government would intervene in some way to bring about an agreement and keep the mines operating, this course will not be followed. Nothing will be done by the Administration, it was declared, until a strike occurred.

President Coolidge believes there is enough coal in storage to carry the public six weeks or more. Therefore, if a strike is declared on Sept. 1, which Federal observers at Atlantic City now report most probable, the Federal Government will become active immediately in the hope that a plan of arbitration will be accepted by both sides and bring an end to the strike before the public suffers.

The Government has no power to compel operation of the mines. All that it can do now is to offer its good offices through Department of Labor mediators. This it has done, but apparently without any effect. After a strike is declared, President Coolidge feels that he can come into the controversy as representing the public. Then, it is understood, he will offer an arbitration plan which in effect will propose that mining be resumed and both sides shall abide by the decision of the arbitrators.

That is the only practicable plan the Government has to protect the public from a lack of coal during the Winter months. The Administration has no well-worked-out arbitration program. President Coolidge is willing to present any arbitration method which will be acceptable to both sides on one condition—that mining shall be resumed and the decision of the arbitrators shall be binding.

He is relying upon the prestige of his office to make effective some such plan. Nothing of a drastic nature is under consideration by President Coolidge. He is determined to do everything possible in a conservative and practicable way. Arbitration through an impartial board, either appointed by himself upon agreement of both sides, or three commissioners, two of whom shall be selected by the disputants and one by the Government to represent the public, appeals to him now as the American way to end a probable strike and protect the interest of all sides.

Secretary Hoover may come here this week to go over the situation with the President. Senator Pepper, who is a candidate for re-election next year, does not want to become involved in the coal strike in any way. He regards the position of the Administration as fair

A. F. OF L. TO AVOID ALL THIRD PARTIES

SEEN AS WASTED EFFORTS

Labor's Support Is Urged for Candidates Known to Be "True to the People."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The American Federation of Labor, if the views of its Executive Council control, is done with third-party movements and will in the future operate, so far as politics is concerned, along strictly non-partisan lines. From now on, it is officially announced, "no aid or comfort will be given those who seek to launch third-party movements."

The position of the Executive Council was made known today simultaneously with a declaration as to the course of the federation in the Congressional campaign next year. The organization will enter that campaign and, regardless of political affiliation, seek to bring about the nomination and election of candidates who are outspokenly friendly to organized labor.

The Executive Council at its meeting today voted to conduct "a strenuous non-partisan political campaign" next year. A motion calling on State Federations of Labor, city general bodies and local unions to begin making preparations for the campaign was adopted. Reports from every Congressional district in the United States were before the council, and it was declared that they were of a most optimistic nature as to labor success in 1926.

To Back Friends of Labor.

The report of the Executive Council will be made to the convention, which meets in Atlantic City Oct. 5. Immediately after that convention, the Executive Council stated, it "will enter the various campaigns with the purpose of supporting those who can be depended upon to be true to the people, for if they are true to the people they will be true to labor."

Resolutions adopted warn organized labor and its sympathizers not to lose interest in the nomination and election of candidates friendly to labor. It is pointed out that while in the 1924 election labor deviated somewhat from its former non-partisan political policy the El Paso convention declared "that for the American Federation of Labor to be true to its mission it must be as free from political party domination now as at any time in its history."

"This means," declares the Executive Council, "that the American Federation of Labor non-partisan political policy in the future will be along the usual definitely-outlined plan. In conducting all non-partisan political campaigns the American Federation of Labor will maintain control within itself of the decisions to be made and the procedure to be followed. The council, however, believes that it should accept the support that is freely given by any group that has for its purpose the carrying out of the non-partisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor."

Political Bosses Condemned.

Condemnation of the "political bosses" who are endeavoring to do away with primaries is a feature of the resolution.

The people are warned that while those who are advocating the elimination of primaries to permit the "bosses" to select candidates have been defeated so far they will continue the agitation. It is therefore necessary to carefully watch all legislation along that line in the various States.

All labor is reminded by the Executive Council that the non-partisan political policy "has passed through the crucible of experience and has proved to be the best plan yet adopted for labor to voice itself politically."

"Since the non-partisan political policy has been followed many independent or third party movements have come and gone. Generally they existed only for one election," the council says.

"The people generally are beginning to realize that hide-bound partyism does not benefit them. All too frequently they have learned that pledges in party platforms were not always respected but were used simply as a stepping stone to office.

"The Executive Council believes that as a result of its non-partisan political policy the launching of third party movements has been proved wasted effort and injurious to the desire to elect candidates with favorable records. The 1922 and 1924 political campaigns definitely determined this fact. Experience therefore has taught labor that to be successful politically it must continue in the future as in the past to follow its non-partisan political policy."

Another feature of the declarations is that active efforts to interest woman wage-earners and their sympathizers will be carried on during the primary and election campaigns.

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO CRUSH TAMMANY AND HYLAN TOGETHER

Hilles Says He Expects Mayor Will Be Nominee of a Party Torn by Warfare.

OPPONENTS HAVE HARMONY

Warns Democrats Survey Shows the Mayor Cannot Carry His Own Borough.

This week will witness the beginning of Republican conferences, attended by party leaders from all the boroughs, to select a candidate for Mayor. Their choice will lead the fight against Tammany and its allies from other boroughs in the municipal campaign. Men also are to be chosen to fill the other places on the city ticket.

While the Democratic struggle to eliminate Mayor Hylan has eclipsed the Republican pre-primary activities, it is learned that three months of silent preparation has placed the Republicans in a position pleasing to themselves. They expect to render a very good account of themselves in the Mayoralty campaign.

Charles D. Hilles, Republican National Committeeman and Chairman of the Greater City Republican Committee, which is in charge of the mobilization of man power and campaign material for the Republican forces, has been actively identified with politics in this city for twenty-five years. He declares that never since consolidation has there been such harmony in the Republican ranks on the eve of a municipal battle. The Republican desire to kill off both Hylan and Tammany with one blow after their eight years' control appears to have afforded a stronger incentive than has existed in any recent Mayoralty campaign, according to Mr. Hilles.

"We are absolutely united in that cause," Mr. Hilles said. "There will be no repetition this year of the mistakes that cost us the election in 1917 and again in 1921 when Mr. Hylan was a candidate.

"The local pride of boroughs will be sunk and party lines forgotten in our determination to put an end to Hylanism and Tammany rule by presenting a ticket which will overwhelmingly appeal to every voter who has that object at heart."

Committee Is Active.

The committee headed by Mr. Hilles has been at work for three months or more, holding meetings practically every week. It is composed of the Chairmen of the five County Committees and the Chairmen of the Advisory Committees, of which each County Committee has appointed one. The Greater City Committee has acted as a coordinating force in determining the broad strategy of the coming Mayoralty campaign.

The policy of Mr. Hilles's committee up to the present has been one of watchful waiting, although there have been informal discussions of candidates.

While the Republicans may be compelled to "go it alone," there is said to be not the slightest possibility of a "straight" Republican ticket being placed in the field. Deprived this year of the advice and cooperation of independent groups like the Citizens Union, the Republicans have been making their plans with a view to presenting a "Citizens" ticket which—they hope—will make a strong appeal to independent Democrats.

With the Greater City Committee thus occupied, the Advisory Committees in each borough have done intensive work in research and collection of campaign material to be used against Tammany. These committees have large memberships of men and women including numerous persons not ordinarily identified with the activities of the political organizations of their party.

The Manhattan Committee is composed of 130 members, in Brooklyn the Advisory Committee has a membership of 140; there are 100 members in the Bronx, 70 in Queens and 30 in Richmond. Some of the material gathered has already been used to further the effort under way on the Democratic side of the political fence to eliminate Mr. Hylan as a Mayoralty possibility, even though this from a purely political view-

Urges Peace in Nicaragua As Our Marines Leave Today

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Nicaraguan Government today issued a statement to the people of the country saying that the American marines who have been stationed in Nicaragua for more than a decade would depart from the country at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The statement begs all Nicaraguans to support the Government in the preservation of peace and in this manner make Nicaragua deserving of the name of an independent and civilized nation.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE ON 4 BIG JOBS TODAY

Walkout, Aimed at Plasterers, to Affect Construction Here Worth $20,000,000.

MAY QUIT IN WASHINGTON

Strike Is Retaliation in Old Fight Between Unions Which Flared in March and June.

A strike has been called for this morning of bricklayers employed on four big projects in New York of the George A. Fuller Construction Company and several other concerns.

The bricklayers are going out in retaliation for the last move made by the Plasterers' Union, with which they have been at odds over interunion matters since March. Then the plasterers struck on $22,000,000 worth of construction of the Thompson-Starrett Company in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia because, they charged, the company had let its plastering work in Miami to a man employing bricklayers for plasterers' jobs.

For a time, in April and May, the plasterers returned to work, and then in June they again went on strike after efforts to get the two unions to arbitrate their troubles had failed. This time, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis sought to bring the two factions together, but failed. Finally the George A. Fuller Company and others arrived at separate agreements with the plasterers July 9.

By the agreements the contractors pledged themselves to employ members of the plasterers' union on all their work throughout the country pending arbitration of the disputes between the plasterers and the bricklayers.

Bricklayers Object.

It is the contention of the bricklayers that this agreement violates a treaty they made with the plasterers in 1911, providing that in communities where plasterers had hitherto held membership cards in the bricklayers union, all union jobs should be under the jurisdiction of the bricklayers' organization.

Two weeks ago, after refusing to arbitrate, the bricklayers proposed a return to the conditions of the compact of 1911. The contractors and plasterers continued to insist that matters be submitted to arbitration. The strike today is the answer of the bricklayers.

The Fuller Company is building three large apartment houses, one at Fifth Avenue and Ninety-third Street, and two near Park Avenue on Seventy-second and Seventy-ninth Streets. It is also erecting a large office building at Spring and Lafayette Streets. The bricklayers, who include marble, mosaic, and tile workers, it is understood, have struck on these jobs. Work being done at Bellevue Hospital on a new pavilion will go on, it was said last night. Building construction affected by the strike was estimated at about $20,000,000.

Christian J. Norman, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers Association, who with Otto M. Eidlitz and others had been trying for months to bring the two unions together said last night that it would be impossible to say exactly how much construction would be affected.

May Extend to Capital.

"We will have to wait and see," he said. "However, I heard last Friday that the bricklayers on one of the Fuller Company's projects in Washington were going out. This is their answer to the plasterers."

Mr. Norman said a great part of the brick work on the construction involved had been finished, or was almost done, and that it would be possible to go ahead with other finishing work in spite of the strike.

The June strikes involved close to $100,000,000 worth of projects before they were settled. Edward J. McGivern, President of the Operative Plasterers' Association, who was instrumental in signing terms with the contractors for the members of his association, July 9, was not in the city yesterday. George H. Thornton, acting President of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union, refused last night to say how many bricklayers were involved.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY SOUGHT ON SCARCITY OF POLICE IN BRONX

SPECIAL DETAILS BLAMED

Charges Made That Large Areas Are Stripped for Ball Games and Concerts.

ENRIGHT MAY BE CALLED

Prosecutor Wants to Know Why Men on Bronx Payroll Are Sent Elsewhere.

The Bronx County Grand Jury will be asked today by District Attorney John E. McGeehan to investigate the Police Department to find out who or what is responsible for a serious shortage of uniformed policemen in the Bronx. District Attorney McGeehan let it be known last night that he had decided to go before the August Grand Jury as the result of a preliminary investigation he made after receiving numerous complaints from Bronx merchants, householders and citizens generally who have been victimized by burglars, sneak thieves, pickpockets and criminals of an even more desperate class.

Mr. McGeehan said he began an investigation on his own initiative after he had been flooded with letters, telephone calls, and also personal visits, from indignant citizens who complained that the Bronx, including an area of forty-two square miles, with a population of more than 1,000,000, was underpoliced even assuming it to be possible for its completement of 1,000 policemen to be available for duty at all times. Citizens of the Bronx are said to be resentful of the heavy demands made on the Bronx police for special duty.

Say Precincts Are Stripped.

The special assignments are made from police headquarters in Manhattan, it is said, and it often happens that a whole precinct is entirely stripped of its uniformed patrolmen by instructions for an elaborate policing of a ball game at the Yankee Stadium, a band concert or some other public function.

On Saturday night, a week ago, it is said there was only one uniformed patrolman left for duty in one of the largest precincts of the Bronx. In that precinct there were thirty posts to be covered and the lives and property of more than 150,000 citizens to be protected. The lone patrolman was supposed to cover an entire square mile with the aid of eight runabout automobiles driven by as many motor police. The next night, the District Attorney heard, there were only two patrolmen in that precinct.

Those and other allegations are to be laid before the Grand Jury by District Attorney McGeehan. It is understood that the District Attorney will recommend that Commissioner Enright and Acting Commissioner John A. Leach be subpoenaed to tell what they know of the special assignments that are often said to leave the Bronx precincts policed by a skeleton force. The Grand Jury will subpoena police station records and from them study the assignments which have taken uniformed policemen off the streets and distributed them among what other members of the force describe as "sinecures."

No Conflict of Inquiries.

The Bronx inquiry probably will not conflict with the New York Grand Jury investigation of Commissioner Enright's distribution of "P. D." automobile plates to a large group of his and the Police Department's friends, including the so-called "millionaire" honorary and Special Deputy Police Commissioners. The New York Grand Jury investigation, it is understood, will also seek to throw further light on the fund of more than $50,000 rased by the honorary Police Commissioners and others to defray the expenses of Mr. Enright's South American trip and the expenses of entertaining the 300 odd delegates to the Third International Police Conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel last May.

An admission that wealthy friends of the Police Department had underwritten the conference and the expenses of the Commissioner's trip was made last week by Herman A. Metz, an Honorary Deputy Police Commissioner, who said the fund was started at a meeting at the Lotos Club last Winter, after Commissioner Enright had told the group his plans for the conference. Mr. Metz denied that all those contributing to the fund were holders of the "P. D." license plates.

The agitation against the alleged abuse of the "P. D." plates was first started by Mayor Hylan himself in a letter to Commissioner Enright several weeks ago, saying that city cars should not be permitted to flout traffic regulations. Last week the July Grand Jury, investigating motor vehicle accidents, asked to be permitted to continue its investigations, especially of charges of reckless driving imputed to holders of the "P. D." plates, until the return of Commissioner Enright, who sailed a few days ago for Canada.

The Bronx Grand Jury will be asked to seek an explanation of the system which places uniformed policemen on the payrolls of the Bronx police and assigns those same men to special duty in Manhattan or in other boroughs. A

9 Chinese Fight Ebb Tide to Enter Country; 2 Believed Lost After Swimming for Hours

Employing a ruse to prevent detection, near midnight Saturday nine Chinese seamen who wanted to enter the country in violation of the immigration laws descended a rope from the stern of the Asiatic Petroleum Company's tanker Chiton at its dock at Bayonne and struck out in the moonlight for the Staten Island shore. Early yesterday morning seven were picked up by vessels as they struggled with an ebb tide in the Kill Van Kull. Two were believed to have been drowned.

The nine made preparations for their swim for the unlawful entry into the United States by obtaining the assistance of two comrades. Toward midnight when there was only one watchman on the dock, these two made a run down the gangplank making as much noise as they could. The watchman ran to intercept them and while he was thus occupied the nine slid down the rope and swam away.

The ebb tide soon scattered the swimmers, although six managed to keep fairly close together. Ahead, a dark bump under the moon, they could see New Brighton, which they thought meant safety. That vision kept them fighting the tide.

Lung Tiu was driven north toward St. George, far from the others, and some time after midnight when his strength was nearly gone he was sighted by the crew of the excursion boat express on its way back from Coney Island to Bayonne. He was hauled aboard, brought to Bayonne and sent to the Bayonne Hospital. Later he was sent back to the ship.

Six others, Won Young, Tom Wanan, Tee Young, Lou Sam, Chu Foo and You Young were carried toward Robbins Reef. The tug Ashbourne found them in groups of two, nearly exhausted, and took them to St. George, S. I., where they were turned over to the police.

typical case, it was said last night, was that of a Bronx policeman who was assigned practically continuously for five years to watch a suspected establishment on 125th Street, Manhattan, although he was still carried on the Bronx police payroll. In another instance a uniformed policeman on the Bronx payroll is said to have been assigned to do the work of a civilian horseshoer of Manhattan, when the latter went on vacation.

The fact that so much inside information as to the activities of the Bronx police had been gathered by Mr. McGeehan for presentation to the Grand Jury was interpreted as meaning that some of his informants were members of the Bronx Police Department who were dissatisfied at having to do the extra work entailed by the reduction of their number. A police captain of the Bronx, commenting on the situation recently, is quoted as having said:

"A uniformed patrolman in the Bronx is getting to be as rare as a horse in the Police Department."

District Attorney McGeehan is particularly desirous of questioning Commissioner Enright because he wishes the Police Commissioner to explain what will be the Bronx's quota of the 2,500 additional policemen Commissioner Enright recently sought to get through the Board of Estimate.

30 ROBBED IN BRONX AT DEMOCRATIC CLUB

Gang of 7 Line Up Members Against Wall, Take Up $4,000 'Collection' and Escape

Seven hold-up men took $4,000 in money and jewelry from thirty members of the Fairmount Democratic Club in the Seventh Assembly District in the Bronx early yesterday morning. The club, which is not the regular organization club of the district, is located in the Loew Elsmere Theatre Building at Elsmere Place and Crotona Parkway.

About 11 o'clock a stranger came in and inquired for some one unknown to the members. He sat and talked with the members for about half an hour and then after thanking them for their courtesy said in answer to an invitation to call again that he would see them later.

After midnight the young man called again. This time he was accompanied by six others. As they entered the room all drew automatics and lined the thirty club members against the wall. He who had been a guest earlier in the evening directed two of his band to "take up the collection."

The club members were forced to drop watches, jewelry and money into a hat. The leader then warned his victims to make no outcry on pain of death and the robbers departed. One member of the club ran to the street in time to see a touring car speeding south on Crotona Parkway. He jumped into his own machine to pursue and found that his rear tires had been neatly punctured.

A few hours earlier six robbers, also armed with small automatics, had held up fifteen members of the Muskoota Democratic Club at 313 St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx, getting away safely with about $1,000 in cash and jewelry.

HOLDS UP A CIGAR STORE.

Robber Gets Receipts for Two Days in Branch of the United.

The United Cigar store at Fourth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, was held up and robbed of $300 early last night. Julius Benigson, the manager, had just switched on the lights when he heard the order "Hands up!"

He turned to face a pistol. The man who held it then said "Hand over the strong box," and Benigson obeyed. The robber took the receipts of yesterday's and Saturday's business and escaped.

BOYS, 5 AND 8, HELD FOR ROBBING STORE

Arrested After Displaying Roll of Bills, They Confess They Got $100.

Eight-year-old Charles Manzi of 82 Adams Street and Joseph Zura, 5 years old, of 119 Adams Street, Hoboken, were arrested yesterday on charges of juvenile delinquency. It is alleged that on Saturday night they broke a window of a grocery store conducted by Samuel Gordon at 90 Adams Street, and took $100 from the cash register.

The patrolman who made the arrest said he saw the boys display a large roll of bills on a bus bound for Palisade Park and became suspicious. He took the boys to headquarters, where they confessed, the police said.

500,000 VISIT CONEY ISLAND.

Fifty Children Are Lost and One Bather Is Rescued.

Half a million people visited Coney Island yesterday and 150,000 went into the water.

Policewomen Mary Duffy and Elizabeth Helms cared for fifty lost children. Police Captain Thomas Cummings denied that children were purposely lost by parents, who knew the police would care for them. Contradicting the findings made public Saturday by the State Prisons Commission, he declared the parents were always worried and often arrived at the police station seeking the lost ones before they were brought in.

James Dolan, 23 years old, of 637 Fifty-first Street, Brooklyn, bathing at the foot of West Thirty-sixth Street, was seized with cramps, but was rescued.

The Cosyayuna Democratic Club of the Bronx held a dinner at Luna Park in the evening. In the party were Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, Street Cleaning Commissioner James W. Brown, Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, General Sessions Judge Francis X. Mancuso and Alderman William P. Sullivan.

HELD FOR DEATH IN SUBWAY

Salesman Says Victim Fell to Tracks During Row on Platform.

Mack Levine, a salesman, arrested in connection with the death of Alexander Kopp, an inspector for the Consolidated Gas Company, on Saturday in the I. R. T. subway station at Seventy-second Street and Broadway, was held without bail by Magistrate Michael N. Delagi in West Side Court yesterday for appearance in the Homicide Court today.

Levine told the Magistrate that Kopp had insulted him while the two were on a train and had pushed him to the platform at Seventy-second Street. Levine said he left the train more to avoid Kopp than anything else, but that the latter followed him and an argument ensued. Kopp raised his arm to strike, Levine said, and as he (Levine) prepared to defend himself Kopp slipped on the edge of the platform and fell to the tracks, striking his head on one of the rails. He died an hour later in Knickerbocker Hospital.

FINDS HYLAN WEAK IN HIS OWN BOROUGH

Municipal Civic League Takes Survey and Warns Democrats Against Renomination.

URGES CHOICE OF SOMERS

Chairman Willmott Says Unions, City Employes and Business All Are Hostile to Mayor.

Mayor Hylan, if renominated, could not carry his own borough, according to a statement yesterday by former Assemblyman Thomas E. Willmott, Chairman of the Municipal Civic League, following a survey by that organization of Mayoralty sentiment in Brooklyn.

Mr. Willmott said there was a strong preponderance of sentiment against giving the Mayor a third term, not only among business men and other groups which are on record as opposed to his Administration, but among city employes, labor union officials, union members and, much to the surprise of those who made the investigation, among employes of the B. M. T. Mayor Hylan himself holds a union card, and was once an employe of the B. R. T., predecessor of the B. M. T.

"They regard the Mayor as unfriendly to them, even more than to their company," Mr. Willmott said. The Mayor's attitude toward the B. M. T., as reflected by his successive statements on the transit situation, is one of extreme unfriendliness.

The Municipal Civic League has not been friendly to the Mayor. The organization is frankly seeking to bring about the nomination of Arthur S. Somers, former President of the Board of Education, who also is a Director of the B. M. T., designated for that position by the State Transit Commission. Mr. Somers, who is a close friend of John H. McCooey, the Democratic leader of Brooklyn, and President of his district club, once was the Mayor's friend also, but lately the relations between him and Mr. Hylan have been strained to the breaking point, largely on account of Mr. Somers's attitude toward the Mayor's transit policy.

The Municipal Civic League made public a pamphlet recently which in effect was a parody on the "A. B. C. of Hylanism," one of the campaign pamphlets issued by the Mayor.

Statement as Democrats.

The statement of Mr. Willmott follows:

"As Democrats, anxious to see the Democratic Party of Kings County successful, our inquiries were made among business men, railroad employes, labor union men, real estate men, physicians, city employes and women voters. In the various districts and in the groups mentioned we found overwhelming opposition to a third term for the Mayor. With its survey completed, the League has informed each of the five county leaders of the Democratic Party that the nomination of Hylan means certain defeat in November.

"One remarkable result of the survey was the intense feeling against the Mayor exhibited by city employes. These employes are well organized, and the survey disclosed that their representatives have already served notice upon the party leaders that the employes and their families will desert the party rather than face another four years of Hylan.

"Our survey disclosed an intense opposition to the Mayor among labor union men. We found business men generally against another four years of what they termed a haphazard administration. Real estate men expressed themselves as opposed to the execution of some of the Mayor's schemes. The thousands of employes of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Company, nearly all of whom voted for the Mayor four years ago in the belief that more subways would benefit them, now regard the Mayor as unfriendly to them even more than to their company. Women voters throughout the city declared for a change. The league's survey has demonstrated the utter folly of attempting to win in the coming election with Hylan as a candidate.

Calls for Somers.

"The League is unalterably opposed to Hearst, Hylan and Hell. We take this stand in the belief that we are offering a worthy substitute for the present Mayor in the person of Arthur S. Somers, former President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and for many years President of the Board of Education in New York City, a position he held without compensation. The league is conducting an intensive campaign in behalf of Mr. Somers."

The demand on Mayor Hylan that he pledge himself to abide by the result of the Democratic primaries has so far drawn no reply from the Mayor. The latest word from his camp was that "unless given a square deal" on primary day he would make an independent fight for a third term.

The Big Five Democratic borough leaders, and especially George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, and Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, Democratic leader in the Bronx, will expect an answer to that question before their next meeting. John H. McCooey, Democratic leader in Brooklyn, was with the Mayor until early yesterday morning, but did not put the query to him.

Mayor Hylan's good friend, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, took exception yesterday to the reports that the leaders were anxious to know whether Mr. Hylan would remain "regular" if beaten at the primaries of his party. Mr. Hirshfield said:

"Where true Democracy prevails, the majority rules. Mayor Hylan is the choice of Leaders McCooey, Connolly and Rendt, a majority of the Big Five borough chiefs. The choice of the majority is the 'regular' candidate. Therefore Mayor Hylan is the 'regular' candidate.

"What right has an 'irregular' minority to question the choice of a 'regular' majority? If what the papers say is true it is the most preposterous thing I have ever heard of. Hylan is the regular choice of the majority, and his right to be the regular candidate cannot be questioned."

Question Unanswered.

It was noted that Mr. Hirshfield did not attempt to answer the question propounded by the Big Five. No time has been fixed as yet for the next meeting of the borough leaders. That it may be held today is not impossible, for the arrangements can be made on a few hours' notice. Failure of the Big Five to reach a conclusion when they next meet, it was predicted yesterday, would be followed by some development calculated to precipitate decisive action.

Leader McCooey in Brooklyn said last night that as far as he was concerned "the situation is unchanged."

Mayor Hylan was a guest yesterday at the picnic and games of the County Cavan Protective and Benevolent Association at Celtic Park. There were 10,000 men, women and children at the picnic, and they gave the Mayor quite a hand when he appeared. He addressed the crowd briefly, making a non-political speech in which he recalled that the county in Ireland for which the association has been named was the birthplace of his father. He remained about an hour.

SAYS HYLAN FOES AID HIM.

Public Service Institute Decries Pre-Campaign Tactics.

"Not since 1905 have New York voters been so unprepared for an important municipal election as they are in midsummer, 1925," according to a leaflet being distributed to several hundred thousand men and women voters by the Institute for Public Service.

"The average citizen," continues the institute, "lacks facts about other city activities than transit and is woefully misinformed about transit. Most of the libraries nearest to voters lack even transit data.

"If opponents were determined to reelect Hylan's five-cent fare program they couldn't help it so much by shouting its praises as by their pre-nomination campaign.

"The campaign has begun in such an obsolete and boomerang way that Mayor Hylan could afford to pay advertising rates for circulating most of the attacks upon him. For political opponents to deplore Mayor Hylan's lack of formal early education for his choice of words, and to talk about New York City being a 'byword of misrule' is 'old stuff' that helps Hylan.

"If Republican-Fusion is going to try to make voters believe that the five-cent fare is not an issue in this campaign, and if, as the present silence indicates, they and the Mayor are going to oppose the special assessments which the Board of Transportation said would make a five-cent fare permanently possible on the new subways, it means that there is no outstanding issue for outstanding men, which, in turn, means that really outstanding men will not consent to run."

New Statue of Venus Found.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Photographs of a heretofore unknown statue of the Goddess Venus, rivaling in beauty the Di Milo and Di Medici, were presented to the French Academy yesterday by Baron Edmond de Rothschild. The statue was discovered in excavating in the gardens of the Governor of Rhodes. The Venus of Rhodes is declared a product of the period of Greek sculpture which reached its zenith with Praxiteles. It now is in the Museum of Rhodes.

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO CRUSH TAMMANY

point has been regarded by many Republicans as a mistaken policy. For there is nothing the Republicans would like better than to see Mr. Hylan the regular nominee of the Democratic party. In Republican circles the prevailing belief, even now, is that the Mayor will be renominated.

While the Republicans rely chiefly on the state of preparedness in which they find themselves with the campaign approaching, they also feel that the Democratic quarrel now in progress over the ticket will leave scars behind and be helpful to them. Mr. Hilles, discussing the work of his committee and the situation, said:

"The Greater City Republican Committee has been engaged for three months in perfecting an efficient city-wide organization and in making plans for the Fall campaign.

"In the meantime the opposition has indulged in a wasteful warfare. Judge Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, and Mr. Flynn of the Bronx have sought to dislodge Hylan. Hylan and Hearst have checkmated the move thus far.

"With the opposition, it has degenerated into a bitter contest for control of the local Democratic organization. Both sides realize that if the contest continues to and through the primaries, the Democratic Party will be hopelessly divided. It is a question which leader has the greater 'nerve.'

"If Governor Smith surrenders, it will be the beginning of the end of his dominant position in his party in this State. Every other local contest is in eclipse until the Governor emerges a victor or yields the palm to Hearst.

"In the preliminary campaign a very unusual alignment has taken place. Various groups and organizations which have heretofore inveighed against Tammany and to make their opposition more formidable have clamored for a Fusion ticket are not now proposing an alliance with the Republicans but are giving aid and comfort to Governor Smith, head of the opposition. The leaders of many of these organizations have pledged support to the Tammany ticket in order to end Hylan rule.

Thinks Hylan Will Run.

"The Republicans do not contemplate the situation with equanimity. They believe that Hylan, Hearst and McCooey will wear Governor Smith out and that Tammany will sullenly fall into line for Hylan. They are preparing for that contingency."

There is every promise, according to Mr. Hilles, that there will be no contest in the Republican primaries. What proportion of representation will be given to the Democrats on the "Citizens" ticket, contemplated by the Republicans, has not been determined. Two Republicans to one Democrat, with a Republican heading the ticket, was suggested as probable.

If Mr. Hylan should be accepted by the Big Five conference as the party nominee for Mayor, there is a possibility of a Democrat being placed at the head of the "Citizens" ticket. To pick a Democrat to lead a Republican fight has proved a little venturesome in past municipal campaigns. The Republican primaries must be considered, for they are part of the process through which the Democratic designee must receive his legal standing as a candidate.

But the danger to a Democrat from that source is said to have been reduced to a minimum this year, largely as the result of the harmonizing influence of Mr. Hilles's committee. Should a Democrat be chosen to head the ticket no effort will be spared to get a candidate close enough to the regular Democratic organizations to attract every party vote alienated through the nomination of Mr. Hylan.

May Get Democratic Help.

Mr. Hilles said helpful suggestions had come even from groups friendly to some of the prominent Democrats now being discussed by the Democratic leaders. The Greater New York Committee is said to have reason to believe that, if Hylan is nominated, stanch Democrats like Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill and Justice Victor J. Dowling of the Appellate Division might become available as Fusion candidates.

It was learned that among the Democrats who have received consideration should there be a "citizens" ticket are General John F. O'Ryan of the State Transit Commission, former Surrogate John Cohalan, who a couple of years ago was turned down by Tammany for renomination and made an independent fight for re-election with the usual result, and Colonel Maurice Featherson, Street Cleaning Commissioner under Mayor Mitchel and for years a Tammany district leader.

Republicans whose names have been considered include Judge Frederick E. Crane of the Court of Appeals, who hails from Brooklyn; Supreme Court Justices Harry E. Lewis and James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn and Martin Saxe of Manhattan, a former State Senator and ex-Tax Commissioner.

The Republicans also are considering a business man to head the ticket and have discussed the availability of Frank D. Waterman, the fountain pen maker, and William H. Woodin, former Fuel Administrator.

WORLD COURT PLAN GAINING IN SENATE

Coolidge Is Not Unfavorable to the Suggestions of Senator Pepper.

WON'T INDORSE IT YET

He Is Mindful of the Great Difficulties Any Proposal Faces.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge is represented as hopeful that the next Senate will pass a resolution of American adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice on conditions that will protect American interests and divorce the United States from obligations of the League of Nations and at the same time make the reservations acceptable to the forty-nine nations now represented in the court.

While not disposed to take any position upon the new plan proposed by Senator Pepper, which agrees in most details with the Hughes plan, except that it proposes that the court shall adopt a statute accepting the conditions laid down by the Senate, President Coolidge was said today to see the development of a situation favorable to affirmative action by the Senate.

The President does not want to be placed in an attitude of favoring any compromise plan worked out by a single element in the controversy. He recognizes that if the United States is going to become a member of the court it must do so on a plan acceptable to both the League of Nations adherents and those opposed to membership in the League. It appears to him that both sides must recognize that American membership in the court will merely be carrying out the original American proposal for such a court and not a step in the direction of joining the League of Nations.

For the Court, but Not the League.

President Coolidge has declared that the United States should adhere to the World Court, but not to the League of Nations. He is not disposed to say that the United States shall adhere in any particular way as long as it becomes a member without assuming any of the liabilities of the League of Nations and through some system by which the United States shall have a say in the election of the judges. He and the Republican Senators are especially insistent that the court shall adopt a statute defining its province in giving advisory opinions.

It is pointed out that such opinions already given by the Court have caused its greatest criticism. Broadly speaking, most Senators feel that there should be no secret advisory opinions, and that no opinions should be given unless both sides to a dispute seek advice. For instance, the United States would object to the Court giving an opinion on the American Immigration law, which excludes Japanese. The Court would be prohibited from rendering an advisory opinion under the new Pepper proposal.

Of the nine matters so far dealt with by the Court eight have been on the subject of advisory opinions. The jurisdiction of the Court to give such opinions, whether or not it is impliedly sanctioned by the statute of the Court, is held by Senator Pepper and others to be "a highly dangerous and undesirable jurisdiction." The proposal which Senator Pepper is now making is that the Court shall not exercise this function except in well defined cases, and in no instance unless both parties to an issue agree.

Senator Pepper as the author of the resolution presented to the Senate last Summer is expected to take a prominent part in bringing the divergent elements in the Republican Party together in support of a plan that will assure American adherence to the Court on terms acceptable to all concerned.

Pepper Against Borah's Proposal.

Senator Pepper is opposed to Senator Borah's proposal that international law be codified before the United States enters the Court. He feels that there is now a system of international law which can be expanded and clarified by the Court itself. However, it may be necessary to get enough Senate votes for the Court to adopt a resolution calling a third international conference, similar to The Hague conferences of 1899 and 1907, for the clarification and codification of international law. Some of Senator Borah's friends say he will not insist upon delaying American adherence to the Court, provided codification of international law goes on through such a conference.

Senators other than Mr. Pepper are expected here soon to discuss with the President the World Court situation. Former Ambassador Harvey also has been invited to confer with Mr. Coolidge on international questions.

John T. Adams, former Chairman of the Republican National Committee, accompanied by Mrs. Adams, will arrive tomorrow to be a guest for several days at White Court.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, with their guests, Senator and Mrs. Pepper, attended church today at Salem. Soon after luncheon their guests left for their Summer home near Bar Harbor, Me.

Admiral and Mrs. Eberle were callers at White Court this afternoon.

POISON PEN FIGURES IN CISTERN DEATH

Vicious Letters to Woman and Illinois Family Preceded Finding of Her Body.

Special to The New York Times.

MATTOON, Ill., Aug. 2.—Poison pen letters, which included what purported to be Ku Klux Klan threats played an important part in the mysterious death yesterday of Miss Cora Stallman, aged 48, a former Cincinnati school teacher and for the past four years manager of the $250,000 farm owned here by her sister, Mrs. Anna Seaman.

Miss Stallman's body was found seated in a cistern with some of the letters floating about. Although her head was under the surface, Coroner F. S. Schilling reported that the autopsy performed today revealed no water in the lungs and showed death was not due to drowning. Aside from a small scratch on the face, there was no mark of violence.

The body was sent tonight to the home of Miss Stallman's sister, Mrs. Warren Kinney, in Cincinnati, for burial. The organs will be sent to the University of Illinois for analysis for poison.

The Coroner would not comment upon the anonymous letters pending the inquest to be held later this week, but it was learned that notes, all of them vicious in nature, had been received at intervals during the last three months not only by Miss Stallman, but also by Thomas A. Seaman, husband of Anna Seaman, who, however, lives on an adjoining farm; Edward Seaman, a brother; Boss Lilly, a tenant of the Anna Seaman farm, and many others. Mrs. Anna Seaman never received any of the letters, although those addressed to her husband were left at her place.

The letters to the Seamans discussed the intimate affairs of the family and were full of horrible innuendo and charges, according to the recipients. Miss Stallman took hers very much to heart, and recently Thomas Seaman consulted a lawyer about them.

A peculiar connection between the Seaman letters and Miss Stallman exists in the fact that every letter, whether sent through the mails or left on the farm, came into the hands of its final recipient through Miss Stallman. The missives were all in laboriously printed characters, well phrased in most cases.

A comparison of the printed text and Miss Stallman's handwriting was made. Coroner Schilling said that no connection had been found between the two scripts.

One of the Ku Klux letters received, so known because of its signature, demanded $200. None of the Seaman family had joined the order, nor had they opposed it.

GEOLOGISTS PLAN CANOE CAMPING TRIP

Seventeen From Universities to Visit Many Lakes on the Canadian Border.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Seven canoe loads of geologists, including members of the Faculty of Northwestern University, others graduate students there, still others students in geology at other universities, will start on Aug. 13 on the only all-canoe geological camping trip essayed, so far as known, in the United States.

Professor U. S. Grant, head of the department of geology of Northwestern University, will head the party, numbering seventeen in all. The party will first go to Ely, Minn., where it will outfit for camping and canoeing along the international boundary line. It is the seventh annual all-canoe course in geology Dr. Grant has supervised in as many years.

The personnel of the party, besides Dr. Grant, follows:

W. E. Powers of Evanston, a fellow in geology at Northwestern University; Ross Tompkins of Chicago, Northwestern student now finishing his course in geology; H. L. Berry of Junction City, Ore., assistant geologist and graduate student at Northwestern; R. R. Cooley, F. P. White and G. I. Fisher, undergraduates at Northwestern; Virgil Sleight, Minot, N. D., assistant in geology at Brown University; William Magness, Lead Hill, Ark., and Louis McCabe, Fayetteville, Ark., students from the University of Kansas; I. F. Lowry, Denver, student at Washington University, St. Louis; R. C. Herrimann, Lansing, Mich., student at Dartmouth College; H. W. Stevens, Appleton, Wis., also from Dartmouth; J. T. Stark, instructor in geology at Northwestern, as a member of Dr. Grant's teaching staff; Glenn Pebbles, graduate student, who will go as general helper; Carl M. Beecher, Administrative Director of Northwestern School of Music, who accompanies the geologist as a camp guest.

Casement Memorial Tonight.

The ninth anniversary of the death of Sir Roger Casement, who was executed in London on Aug. 3, 1916, will be commemorated tonight at 8:30 o'clock by the Universal Truth Forum and several Irish republican societies at Columbus Circle.

LAYS 5 FIRE DEATHS TO CARELESSNESS

Underwriters' Report for July Tells of 2 Arson Victims Here and 6 in Blazes on the 4th.

CREDIT MEN TAKE ACTION

National Association Calls on Its 140 Locals to Help Prevent Heavy Losses.

Seven persons died in fires caused by arson or carelessness in New York City and surrounding territory last month, and six persons died as the result of Fourth of July fires, according to the Committee on Origin of Fires of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters.

Fires due to arson and carelessness cause losses of $167,000,000 a year in the United States, the report stated, and as a result the National Association of Credit Men has appealed to its 140 locals to make special efforts to prevent fires this year.

One of the recent fires due to carelessness in New York was at 420 West Fifty-third Street, where a match, dropped in the home of Mrs. Rose Burns, caused a blaze in which Mrs. Burns and her two children were burned to death.

Another case referred to in the report was that of Mrs. Thomas Daly, wife of a Bronx policeman, who was using gasoline for cleaning in her home when it became ignited from a gas stove and her five-year-old son, Thomas, was burned so badly that he died. Other cases were: Lillian Platt, 7 years old, of 34 West Twenty-ninth Street, Bayonne, N. J., who died of burns caused by some matches she was playing with, and two women, who died in fires believed to have been deliberately started, one at 429 West Fiftieth Street and the other at 69 Forsythe Street.

"Another fire attributed to a firebug," said the report, "was at 620 Columbus Avenue, where 200 men, women and children had a narrow escape. Oil-soaked rags were found in four different places. Fires at 123 Avenue C and 67 East Fourth Street engaged the attention of the Fire Marshal and the police. These fires followed close on the heels of one at 69 Forsythe Street and a similar fire on East Fourth Street. The authorities believe that a pyromaniac set all these fires and then stood near by to watch the havoc he had caused."

BRITISH ARISTOCRACY GETS UKELELE CRAZE

Miss Stanley, Musician, Says Hawaiian Instrument Is Now Popular at Tea Parties.

Among the cabin passengers on the Cunarder Caronia, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool and Queenstown, was Miss Aileen Stanley, an American singer and musician, who went to London to remain one week and was engaged for six months. A part of her time was taken up with teaching the ukelele to the aristocracy of Mayfair, and she said that the fascinating instrument from Hawaii had been taken up at society tea parties.

Miss Stanley produced her ukelele which was inscribed with a score of well-known signatures, including that of Prince George, the third son of the King, Lady Loughborough and Lord Beaverbrook. Miss Stanley said that the craze for playing the ukelele at tea parties was started by Lady Loughborough at her London house, 19 Talbot Street.

Among others Miss Stanley said she taught to play the ukelele were Beatrice Lillie, Gertrude Lawrence, actresses; Joe Coyne, who is starring in "No, No, Nanette," in London; Poppy Baring, Ella Shields and Michael Arlen, the novelist. It was a little difficult to get the serious minded Englishmen to carry ukeleles about with them to tea parties for their wives and daughters, but they are becoming accustomed to it, Miss Stanley said.

GENERAL VANDERBILT BACK.

Cuts Short Yacht Cruise With Family Because of Business Here.

General Cornelius Vanderbilt arrived yesterday from Naples on the Colombo of the Navigazione Generale Italiana Line. He had cut short his cruise on his yacht Atlantic because of business here. He said he expected to go to Europe to rejoin his family shortly. Mrs. Vanderbilt and Miss Grace Vanderbilt have gone to the baths at Marienbad in Czechoslovakia. The yacht was left at Naples.

The Colombo brought three stowaways who declined to work and had 15,000 lira, about $75, among them. They will be sent to Ellis Island.

ROCKAWAY HAVING A REAL ESTATE BOOM

$105,000 to Moe Galpeur, a speculator. "I sold that piece in 1918 for $2,000," the elder Zaret declared. "It was a $1,000 lot promotion proposition. There is nothing remarkable about this deal. I could cite at least twenty sales where property bought for $10,000 went for $90,000 or more a few days later."

Mr. Zaret has been in the real estate business in Rockaway for twenty-seven years, and is known locally as "The Bungalow King," having built more than 1,000 bungalows. He acquired the name four years ago when he gave 100 of them to his son as a wedding present.

May Rival Atlantic City.

"I am going to tear down all my bungalows and other cheap buildings," he said. "I, and every one else, am going to erect apartment houses and first-class hotels. This district is going to surpass Atlantic City. The nine miles of boardwalk will be backed by a solid high-class business section. There won't be any residences for the reason that the plots are bringing $40,000 to $120,000, and people can't afford to pay that for residence property."

Every one was comparing the present boom to those of Atlantic City and Florida. Mr. Zaret, who said he had conducted development projects at Miami and Palm Beach, asserted that the present excitement was the most intense of its kind he had ever seen.

"New Yorkers have been going to Florida to invest their money because they were blind," he said. "This gold brick has been here, and they have tried to throw it away because it was right at home."

He and others predicted that holiday crowds several times larger than those now flocking to Coney Island would soon be coming to the Rockaways. This statement was backed, he said, by the fact that the Rockaways will have a boardwalk four times as long as that at Coney. "Coney Island won't have a look-in," was the popular forecast.

The scene at Edgemere Plaza, where the real estate offices of Mann & Schnall, I. Zaret and Lewis H. May, three of the largest dealers, are grouped, rivaled in picturesqueness accounts of Western land offices sixty years ago, but of a different order. Throngs of shouting, gesticulating men surged about in shirt sleeves, hatless, their brows streaming with perspiration.

Sales on Scraps of Paper.

The sellers carried note books, scraps of wrapping paper, even old newspapers, on which they feverishly jotted down names, locations, prices, mortgage allowances, and so on. In the thick of it all were screaming children, mothers hunting for them, and many persons rushing around in bathing costumes. The beach is only a few feet away, and young men and women, some of the latter wearing white sailors' trousers, circulated through the crowd.

One was constantly attracted by joyous cries of "Well, Bill, I cleaned up $19,000 this morning. I guess the lady and I are fixed for life"; or "Did you get your $35,000 yet?" Others were more doleful. They told of selling—at a profit of thousands—but of being approached a few minutes later by a would-be buyer who would have given them so many thousands more.

In spite of the fact that the seething wave of speculation has been going on some weeks, real estate operators were unanimous in denying that there was any end in sight. Their argument was that if ocean frontage was worth $1,000 on paper today it would be worth $5,000 soon, because similar frontage at Atlantic City and elsewhere brought these prices, and that Rockaway apparently was going to be another Atlantic City.

Some Reported Sales.

Among the larger sales reported during the month were 850 feet of ocean frontage about Beach Forty-ninth Street, known as the Rhinehart estate, bought by Zaret for $125,000, and sold ten days later for $1,000,000, and a piece of property known as the O'Donohue Park estate, which was sold on Friday for $1,500,000. Zaret declared that he had bought the block in which his office is located for $150,000, plus the expense of moving a Catholic Church, which formerly occupied the site, and that he had on three occasions declined $1,000,000.

The present buying movement came on the heels of a lesser one started some months ago upon announcement of the near completion of the new Jamaica Bay Boulevard, which will connect Woodhaven Avenue and Howard Beach with the Seaside section of the Rockaways. Other recent improvements, either completed or projected, which are said to have fostered rising property values are the completion of the Flatbush Avenue extension to Neponsit, reconstruction of the Rockaway Boulevard through Queens and Nassau, widening and straightening of the Rockaway Beach Boulevard, installation of a trunk sewer in Amstel Boulevard, and removal of grade crossings on the Long Island Railroad.

Old timers recalled the days of the boom in Brownsville, Brooklyn, twenty-one years ago, when hundreds of small shopkeepers, tailors and modest home-owners found themselves rich over night. Residents of that district objected to the use of the term "boom," according to accounts, because speculation was frowned upon, and many of the property owners refused to enter upon it. In the space of fifteen years Brownsville grew from a clutter of frame buildings to one of the city's busiest sections.

Trains running between Pennsylvania Station and the Rockaways yesterday were unusually crowded. Aisles as well as seats were filled. Women, finding no seats in the rear cars invaded the smokers, hitherto regarded as sacred to the men. The women apparently did not mind the clouds of tobacco smoke.

Now the 102nd.

REMNANT DISPOSAL

PRICES drop to the lowest of the low. Wonderful woolens at ⅓ to ½ original cost. $34 for Arnheim's leaders. $48 for Arnheim's choicest. The remnants are now on sale.

Every year, for 48 years, New York has waited for this disposal. It is the original "clothing sale", the original value event.

This year, choice is greater than ever before. Summer weights, fall weights. Sports patterns, conservative patterns. All standard weaves. Finest domestic weaves, and imported fabrics included.

Think of it! Instead of a few out-of-season models, there are hundreds of "in-season" fabrics, and tailoring to order in the style for fall.

$6,000,000 REFUND TO ALIENS STUDIED

CASE HANDLED BY MILLER

Attack Made by Wheeler in Senate Inquiry Charged Owners of Stock Were Germans, Not Swiss.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Department of Justice has been making an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the action of the Alien Property Custodian in September, 1921, in turning back to a group of alleged Swiss claimants the proceeds in excess of $6,000,000 obtained by the sale of stocks of the American Metals Company, seized in 1917 as enemy alien property.

At the time the company was taken over by the Wilson Administration A. Mitchell Palmer was Alien Property Custodian. At the time the proceeds were turned back, in the Harding Administration, Colonel Thomas W. Miller held that post.

Developments in regard to the seizure and return of the property have been given much publicity during the last two years and were the subject of a searching investigation before the special Senate committee, headed by Senator Brookhart of Iowa, which went into the administration of the affairs of the Department of Justice under Harry M. Daugherty.

It was developed by that committee that while Mr. Palmer was Alien Property Custodian he decided that 49 per cent. of the stock of the company was enemy owned and it was seized. The property was then sold and the proceeds of the sale, which totaled more than $6,000,000, were placed in the United States Treasury, pending final settlement of the case.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, "prosecutor" for the Senate committee, endeavored to show that this money was turned back to alleged Swiss claimants in 1921 while Mr. Daugherty was Attorney General and Colonel Miller was Alien Property Custodian, although the Swiss society, which claimed ownership, actually was in control of German citizens and was a subsidiary of and owned by German interests.

Senator Wheeler also sought to show that Jesse Smith, close friend of Mr. Daugherty, had endeavored to influence decisions made by the Alien Property Custodian's office, and that in more than one of the cases which came up for decision large fees had been paid to political leaders by claimants.

It was brought out at this committee inquiry that Adna R. Johnson, a young lawyer and assistant, who had been assigned to alien property cases, and George E. Williams, managing director of the Alien Property Custodian's office, had carried on the negotiations with the alleged Swiss claimants, although Colonel Miller and Acting Attorney General Guy D. Goff, their superiors in authority, had approved the transaction.

It developed that some of the papers which were supposed to establish the German ownership were missing from the files when action was taken on the case, but they later were produced.

A later development, it is said, is that information had come to officials that John T. King, a former Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, was of counsel in the case.

Department of Justice officials refused to discuss the investigation and so far as could be learned no suggestion has been advanced that improper fees or payments were made to any of those connected with the proceedings. Mr. Johnson and Mr. Williams are both out of the Government service now. Colonel Miller is in France as a member of the Battle Monuments Commission.

The Department of Justice, it is said, has been making an investigation of several Alien Property Custodian cases as a result of evidence before the Senate Committee. There has been no statement, however, that any legal actions are contemplated. Frederick C. Hicks, who succeeded Colonel Miller as Alien Property Custodian in the Coolidge Administration, said tonight that he knew little of the recent developments.

"I have no personal knowledge of this matter," said Mr. Hicks. "It went through the office of the Alien Property Custodian several years ago, long before my time and I had nothing to do with it. The Department of Justice is investigating several cases and this may be one of them. I have no official knowledge of the matter." Mr. Hicks also said that he knew nothing of reports that there would be another Congressional investigation of alien property custodian cases.

The officers of the American Metals Company are Ludwig Vogelstein, Chairman; C. M. Loeb, President; Otto Sussman, Vice President; Julius Loeb, Vice President and Treasurer; H. K. Hochschild, Secretary. It operates gold, silver, lead, copper, zinc and other mines in this country, Mexico and South America. Its net income last year was $3,311,045.

ALL FAITHS AIDING TEMPLE AT GLENS FALLS

Catholics and Protestants Join in Laying Cornerstone—Bishop-elect Stires Speaks.

Special to The New York Times.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Protestants and Catholics joined with Jews here today to celebrate the laying of the cornerstone for the new Temple Beth-el edifice on Marion Avenue. The congregation will be the centre of liberal Jewish activities in this vicinity.

Several thousand people attended the ceremonies, many of them of other religious faiths, for the Protestant churches held no services this afternoon and tonight, so that their members could take part.

Most of the speakers were of Christian faiths and included former Supreme Court Justice James MacPhillips, a Roman Catholic; the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, Coadjutor Bishop-elect of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island; the Rev. L. M. Hayes of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, and the Rev. E. W. Twichell of the Presbyterian Church.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Dr. T. H. McDowell, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The other speakers were the Rev. Dr. Benjamin M. Parker, rabbi of Temple Beth-el and Adolph S. Ochs.

Julius Jacobson, President of the congregation, with a silver trowel presented by his friends, put the first mortar on the cornerstone.

The speakers were alike in their expressions of good will for the new congregation and their wishes for its success.

Dr. Stires said: "We are debtors to the Jews and we have honored ourselves this afternoon by coming here to confess that debt and to wish them Godspeed in this sacred enterprise in which they are engaged.

"They are Americans, they are loyal Jews. There is in the great realm of religion the largest amount of common ground between the Christian and the Jew and that is gratefully acknowledged by your presence here this afternoon.

"Glens Falls has done something more wonderful than it realizes in the attendance of the people of this community at the laying of this cornerstone. Never, I venture to say, has the cause of pure religion, of honest, sincere response to the influence of Almighty God been so successfully manifested here as upon this occasion."

Those on the speakers' stand besides the speakers were Adolph Bonne, Chairman of the Building Committee; Gus Jacoby, Chairman of the Finance Committee; United States Commissioner Hyman Metzner, Secretary of the Congregation, and Mrs. Carl Bonne, President of the Temple Beth-el Sisterhood.

SOVIET DEBT OFFERS DISTRUSTED IN FRANCE

Moscow Is Believed to Be Interested Chiefly in Holding on to Foreign Embassies.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Commenting on the news of Krassin's acknowledgment to Dalbiez, on behalf of his Government, that the Soviet is disposed to recognize part of the pre-war debt of Russia to France, the Journal des Débats this evening, says:

"What is the significance of this sudden change over? Evidently it is not for the sake of the blue eyes of the Russian bondholders of France that the Soviet is making a gesture even of such partial recognition of their debt. One notices ttha Rakovsky, who went to Moscow at the same time Krassin did, announced on his return to London that he had been empowered to give considerable orders to British manufacturers. The coincidence is not fortuitous. There is every reason to think the Bolsheviki are alarmed by the movement of opinion growing against them in England and France, where their continuous political intrigues have been strongly denounced. They are holding firmly to the embassies which they have been allowed to establish in London and Paris, which serve them as invaluable strongholds in enemy country and permit them to direct the action of their Communist troops without possibility of control.

"At Moscow Krassin and Rakovsky without doubt insisted on the usefulness of taking an initiative which would help consolidate for the moment their situation, for these headquarters of Red revolution are too important to be lightly abandoned. We must admit their cleverness. The Bolsheviki know by experience it is easy to quiet a bourgeois Government by simple words and promises which generally are worth nothing. Zinovieff has laid it down as a maxim of conduct that 'any strategic manoeuvres are admissible against such Governments.' Like others, the promises now being made will be kept in a measure where they cannot be avoided and repudiated at the first opportunity. In the meanwhile the Third International can quietly continue its work of universal destruction. The Soviet is counting so much on the naiveté of Westerners that the same day Krassin's proposal was revealed a telegram from Moscow announced that Raskolnikoff, former Commissioner of the Baltic fleet, one of the organizers of Red propaganda in China and delegate of the Third International to Abd-el-Krim, hal left the Soviet capital for Morocco. This information seems to us of greater significance and importance than the offers of Krassin."

COMMUTERS MEET TONIGHT.

Will Discuss Railroad's Decision on Refunds if It Is Made in Time.

The decision of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad with respect to refund slips covering the recent 40 per cent. rise in commutation fares if it is made in time, will be discussed at a meeting of commuters scheduled for tonight in New Rochelle. The meeting will be held in the office of Charles A. Van Auken, Corporation Counsel of New Rochelle, at 542 Main Street.

Mr. Van Auken, leader of the protestants against the rate rise, is counsel for Frank J. Hermes of New Rochelle, whose request for an order restraining the railroad will be acted upon by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins at Nyack tomorrow.

There was speculation among commuters yesterday on their position in the event the railroad refused to issue refund slips, covering the increase and payable when and if the increase is not sustained. The difficulty of the commuters' position, they admitted, lay in the fact that Justice Tompkins had indicated his willingness to issue an injunction if the railroad withheld the refund slips, but only if the commuters provide a bond to guarantee the road against any loss.

GENERAL KUHN IS RETIRED.

He Had Been in the Army More Than Forty Years.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP).—Brigadier General Joseph E. Kuhn was retired from the army service at the Presidio yesterday with the rank of Major General. He was in the army more than forty years.

In 1906 he was military observer in Germany, being credited in army circles with being one who "kidded the Kaiser" that the German Army could lick the world. General Kuhn was military observer for the United States during the Russo-Japanese war, and in the World War commanded the 79th Division.

Lincoln's Letter to Mrs. Bixby Is Missing When American Inquires For It at Oxford

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Most Americans know about the famous letter written by Abraham Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby of Boston, whose five sons were killed in the Civil War, but who knows where the original of it is? Supposedly, it was at Oxford University and facsimiles of it were often published.

But now an American investigator declares the letter is not at Oxford. Writing from Oxford to the London Times, this American, F. Lauriston Bullard of Boston, says:

"Several Lincoln authorities have told me of seeing the letter here some twenty years since. But the letter cannot be found here. At Bodleian Library yesterday I was informed that there was doubt about the matter; that the widely diffused impression is without foundation.

"Thus emerges a question of interest to both Englishmen and Americans. Where is that original? Possibly some of your readers may be able to supply useful information."

When President Lincoln heard that Mrs. Bixby of Boston had lost five sons in the war he addressed to her immediately the following note:

> I have been shown on the file of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming; but I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save.
>
> I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavements, and leave only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.
>
> Yours, very sincerely and respectfully, A. LINCOLN.

Carried Roll of Bills to the Appointed Spot, Says Prisoner—Fired When Threatened.

Special to The New York Times.

CARTERET, N. J., Aug. 2.—Anthony Szarillo, 50 years old, shot and killed Frank Yocdeic in front of a refreshment stand on Woodbridge Avenue, near here, this afternoon and then, while the police of Cateret and Woodbridge were looking for him, surrendered at the fire house.

Engineer John S. Olbright was in the place when Szarillo entered, took a pistol from his pocket and handed it to Olbright. Then he said to the surprised fireman: "I give myself up. I have just shot a man, but I don't know if he's dead. Here is my gun."

Olbright telephoned for the police who had already found Yocdeic's body. Several weeks ago Szarillo told the police that the "Black Hand" had been threatening him, and yesterday he went as directed by letters to meet an agent of those sending the threats. He carried pieces of paper wrapped in same bills. He also carried two pistols. At the designated spot he said he met Yocdeic.

Then, according to Szarillo, he saw that Yocdeic held a pistol.

"He motioned to me to give him the money," Szarillo said, "but when I started to hand him the roll of paper and bills he raised his arm with the gun in it."

Then Szarillo fired quickly and ran. The police did not find any weapon near Yocdeic's body, but they believe that friends hiding near him took his weapon away with them after the shooting. Szarillo was taken to the Woodbridge Jail, where he will be held for the Middlesex County authorities.

GREECE MOVES TROOPS TO BULGAR BORDER

Demands Punishment of Murders of Greek Citizen, but No Indemnity.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Aug. 2.—Although the General Staff characterizes as untrue the reported reinforcement of the Greek frontiers adjoining Bulgaria, the information has been gathered from an official source that reinforcement of the Greek frontier guards has already been carried out. First advices regarding the transfer of two complete divisions with this object were regarded as exaggerated, as likewise were forecasts by certain Greek journals that the Greek army was about to advance five or ten kilometers into Bulgaria.

M. Rentis, in justifying Greece's action, made the following statement:

"Five thousand to six thousand Greeks are still in Bulgaria, and according to the conditions fixed by the Mixed Commission must emigrate to Greece by Oct. 15. Systematic endeavors are being made in Bulgaria to terrorize the Greeks and oblige them to quit immediately, thus abandoning their property. A considerable movement of irregulars has been noticed, and these are endeavoring to dispossess the Greeks of their fortunes.

"This appears to have been the object of the murder of a Greek subject at Atenimaka. The arrest and punishment of the authors of this outrage would reestablish calm among the Greek population, but as no measures appear to have been taken, the Greek Government has decided to reinforce the frontier outposts to protect the Greek population.

"The reinforcements will be withdrawn as soon as the necessary measures have been taken by Bulgaria. Greece demands only the punishment of the culprits and has not asked for any indemnity."

The Greek Government has advised the Yugoslav Government of the measures it has taken, as despite abrogation of the treaty the old alliance is in force.

RACE TO SAVE GIRL DYING OF INJURIES

erson, N. J., died in Paterson General Hospital two hours after his touring car had collided with a bus at Fifth Avenue and East Sixteenth Street, Paterson. Police said the accident had been due to a misunderstanding of signals.

John H. Meyer Jr., 30 years old, of 335 West Eighty-seventh Street, chauffeur for Mrs. Elizabeth Carmichael of 927 Fifth Avenue, was killed instantly when his employer's car overturned in the Bronx River Parkway, near White Plains. Meyer was alone in the car. He was on his way to Waterbury, Conn., where his mother lives. Police said the bursting of a front tire caused Meyer to lose control of the machine. The car turned over three times and was wrecked.

WIFE SEEKS SPOUSE, BROTHER HIS WIFE

Husband and Sister-in-Law Disappear at the Same Time From Orange Homes.

DESERTION IS CHARGED

Woman's Disappearance Once Before Laid to Gossip After Death of Her Niece.

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 2.—Frederick Kent of 380 Carroll Street, whose wife disappeared on July 23 leaving a note explaining that neighbors would criticize her because her 7-year-old niece had died while in her care, reported to the police today that his wife had disappeared again from the home of friends in Summit, N. J., where he located her last Monday.

With Kent was his sister, Mrs. Harry Donten of 293 Hayward Street, Orange, the mother of the little girl who had died. She had just been discharged from Orange Memorial Hospital where she gave birth to a son, and told the police that her husband also had disappeared, taking their automobile with him. Kent said he had helped Donten put new tires on his car before he departed. Kent and Mrs. Donten said they would appear tomorrow before Police Judge John I. Burke, where Mrs. Donten would charge her husband with desertion and Kent would charge his wife with abandonment.

After the death of the child the Donten family physician issued a statement absolving Mrs. Kent of all blame for the child's death and stating that the child was a victim of heart disease and could not have lived long.

The Dontens were only 17 years old when they were married and the Kents were only 18. The Kents are 25 now, the Dontens 24. For many years the couples have been very friendly, belonging to the same card club, visiting one another frequently and moving in the same social circles in Orange. There had been no indication of domestic infelicity in either family, and Kent and Mrs. Donten said they never observed any unusual friendship. The double disappearance came as a shock to them and to the neighbors and friends of both couples.

At the time Mrs. Kent disappeared, on July 23, her husband, asking police to find her, reported that he believed she had left home in order to get away from gossip concerning the death of one of Donten's children, 7-year-old Elizabeth Donten.

Elizabeth Donten was in Mrs. Kent's care while Mrs. Donten was in the hospital for child birth. Elizabeth died of heart trouble. There was local gossip that Mrs. Kent had not take adequate care of the child, Kent said, and because of this, he said, he believed that his wife, grief-stricken, had run away from home. A Statewide search was started for Mrs. Kent, which was stopped last Tuesday when Kentr eported that he had located her in Summit. However, she had asked him not to come there for her until Saturday, Kent said, because she was in such a nervous state. Saturday he went to Summit, Kent told police, and found that his wife had left the house—the address of which is not know—that morning. He asked police to renew the search.

Yesterday Donten informed his housekeeper that he no longer would need his apartment, told her she could have all the furniture for herself and, after getting Kent to help him put four new tires on his automobile, drove to the Orange Memorial Hospital to visit his wife.

According to the hospital attendants, Donten showed his wife an anonymous letter which had informed Kent of Mrs. Kent's presence in Summit—at the home of one of Donten's personal friends.

At this, Mrs. Donten said, according to the attendants: "Harry, you'll have a lot to explain about this."

Donten then replied, the attendant said:

"Meaning that I took her there, eh? Well, I'm through with you."

He threw the letter down, it was said, and left the hospital. He has not been seen since.

The Kents have three children—Doris, 2 years old; Muriel, 4, and Frederick 3d, 6. The Dontens have two children—Miriam and the baby just born to Mrs. Donten in the hospital.

HER DEATH LAID TO A SLAP.

Woman Accused Husband of Blow—Skull Believed to Be Fractured.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Mildred Torpey, 28, admitted to St. Mary's Hospital on July 21, seven months after she alleged she had been slapped by her husband, Harry W. Torpey, 30, died today of what hospital authorities think was a fractured skull. An autoposy was ordered for tomorrow by County Medical Examiner A. P. Haskist.

Torpey, who was arrested on the same day his wife was admitted to the hospital on complaint of the dead woman's sister, Mrs. Lillian Comatsky, and who was released in $500 bail, will be rearrested tomorrow on a charge of manslaughter, police said tonight.

Upon entering the hospital Mrs. Torpey told physicians that her husband last January had slapped her on the head with his open hand.

He says that the research of Dr. Gye and Dr. Bernard was based on a report of his own investigations submitted to the Board of Health of London by an English doctor.

DROWNS SAVING SON AS FAMILY LOOKS ON

Unable to Swim, Father Jumps In With Clothes on to Rescue Boy at Ozone Park.

FIVE MORE DIE IN WATER

Crowd Sees 3 Youths Save Four as Canoe Capsizes—2 Boys and Man Also Rescued.

James Dergo, 37 years old, of 127 Thomas Street, South Ozone Park, Queens, was drowned yesterday when he attempted to save his son, Philip, 12 years old, who had stepped into a hole in the canal at 115th Street, South Ozone Park. Dergo's wife and four other children saw him die.

The ability of Philip as a swimmer had drawn his family to the canal bank to watch him. A few minutes after entering the water the boy stepped into a deep hole and called for help. Dergo, although unable to swim, leaped in fully clothed. Two young men who were standing by also jumped in. They managed to save Philip, but the father was lost. His body was brought ashore thirty minutes later by Mounted Policemen Herriott and Huss of the Richmond Hill Station.

Bernard Toner, 26 years old, of an address at Second Avenue and Fifty-second Street, Manhattan, lost his life by stepping into a hole. He went in bathing in Jamaica Bay, off Beach Nineteenth Street, Rockaway Beach. Companions saw Toner disappear suddenly but their efforts to reach him failed. The body was not recovered.

Victim Seized by Cramps.

Apparently seized by cramps while swimming in Pelham Bay about 150 feet from the Pelham Bay Park Baths, Giuseppe Lectro, 29 years old, of 14 Monroe Street, Manhattan, was drowned. Persons who saw Lectro in difficulties called lifeguards but it was thirty minutes before the body was regained.

While bathing in Jackson's Mill Creek, at North Beach, Queens, Carl E. Nelson, 14 years old, of 435 Bleecker Street, Ridgewood, Queens, waded beyond his depth and lost is life. Other bathers said that Nelson apparently did not know how to swim. His body was identified by his parents.

The bodies of two unidentified men were taken from the water. The first was found in the ocean off the foot of Beach 103d Street, Rockaway Beach. The man wore a bathing suit marked with the name of the Seaside Baths, Rockaway Beach, and clothing unclaimed there on Saturday night was searched in vain for a clue to his identity. The second body was taken from the Sound off Pelham Bay Park.

Shouts of persons on the pier at East River and Ninety-sixth Street sent James Gannon off the pierhead to rescue James Geary, 38 years old, of 157 East 124th Street. Geary had been sitting on the stringpiece and lost his balance. Gannon, who lives at 1,882 Second Street, had a hard fight getting Geary to safety. Geary was taken to Reception Hospital.

100 See Family Rescued.

About 100 persons on the shore at Glenwood saw a man, his wife, their child and the man's brother rescued when their canoe capsized in Huntington Harbor near Glen Cove, L. I. They were saved by three young men who refused their names. Those rescued were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall of Roslyn, their son, 1 year old, and James Hall. The canoe overturned when 300 yards from shore. They were treated at Glen Cove Hospital, where it was found that Charles Hall had been badly affected by submersion.

Jack Barnett, 7 years old, and his brother, Bobby, 6 years old, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnett of Philadelphia, Summer residents of Spring Lake, N. J., were taken to Ann May Hospital there after being rescued from the surf. The boys were carried out by a back current while wading close to shore. Albert Jackson, a lifeguard at the South End Bathing Pavilion at Spring Lake, and another bather rescued the children.

WILL DEPORT GARVEY AFTER PRISON TERM

Government to Send Back to Jamaica Negro Convicted of Fraud Here.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 2.—Marcus Garvey, a negro, convicted in New York of using the mails to defraud in connection with African colonization schemes, will be deported at the end of his term in the Atlanta Federal Prison. His original home was in Kingston, Jamaica, and as he is a citizen of the British Jamaican Government he is subject to deportation as soon as the laws of the United States are satisfied.

Garvey was sentenced to serve five years and arrived here several months ago to begin his sentence. He will be released in about three and a half years on good behavior.

Garvey was known for his activities in promoting American negro colonies in Africa. His schemes involved stock selling and land sales. He also chartered an old steamboat, which he established as the "Black Star Line." In his propaganda it was hinted that he was to be the first President of the new republic. He was convicted in connection with his sale of stock in the plan, the biggest purchasers to get titles and rank.

All the necessary red tape has been completed in Garvey's case, it is stated. He has had a hearing before the immigration agent in Atlanta and a warrant of deportation has been issued. It will be put into effect as soon as his term has been completed.

BENNY LEONARD FINED $10.

Pugilist Arrested in Auto on Bergen Pike.

RIDGEFIELD PARK, N. J., Aug. 2.—Benjamin Leiner, otherwise known as Benny Leonard, pugilist and actor, was arrested on the Bergen Pike today for violating the State Motor Vehicle law while driving through here in what the police called a "snappy" roadster.

F. W. Hill, a State motor vehicle inspector, who was in civilian clothes and driving his own automobile, brought the complaint.

Leonard was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Alfred Fleischman and was fined $10 and costs. When he gently murmured "that's pretty high," the Court replied: "Well, the last time I saw you it cost me $5.50."

EAST ORANGE MAN DROWNS.

H. J. Rhodes Was Swimming With Wife in the Susquehanna River.

WINDSOR, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—Harold J. Rhodes, 24, of East Orange, N. J., was drowned while swimming with his wife in the Susquehanna River near here today.

His wife said she was carried down stream and when she looked back her husband had disappeared. It is believed he was carried under by the swift current. Rhodes and his wife were motoring to Canada and stopped at the river to swim.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, August 3—Mark Twain observed that everybody blames the weather, but nobody does a darned thing about it. Many a man who blames the weather ought to blame the wearer. He is acutely uncomfortable in ill-fitting, irritating underclothes. Try this—a silk-mixed union suit with elastic waistband and elastic crotch. Can't possibly bind; it's made not to. The V-neck of the shirt hides that ugly round line that shows through thin outer shirts. Exclusive, but not expensive.

It may be unorthodox to discuss it so openly, but it's certainly sound economies to practice it!

Every now and then we receive inquiries about the course we follow in the matter of special discounts, including those to clergymen and teachers.

This is always a delicate question with every clothier, and some time ago we decided to settle it as far as we were concerned.

The situation then, remains unchanged to-day: as direct buyers of all our fabrics and as makers of all our clothes we save all outside commissions. Being content with a reasonable profit, we can, therefore obtain that profit with regular retail prices that may be favorably compared with "special discount" prices elsewhere.

There being no economic reason for offering special privileges to any favored group of customers, we don't do it.

But we have revised prices on some of our regular business suits to $40, $45 and $50!

COOLIDGE IN OFFICE TWO YEARS TODAY

Cutting of Cost of Government Has Been His Chief Achievement.

PROGRAM NEAR COMPLETION

Entrance to World Court and New Disarmament Conference Are Aims for Future.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 2.—Two years ago tomorrow Calvin Coolidge became President of the United States under the light of a kerosene lamp in his father's home at Plymouth, Vt. The oath was administered by his 80-year-old father, Colonel John Coolidge, now recovering from a serious operation.

To that home President Coolidge will return for a short visit before returning to Washington. There he will reaffirm his belief in the policies he has enunciated since becoming President as the successor of Warren G. Harding and in his own right.

The chief thing President Coolidge has done in this period, part of which included the carrying out of the policies of his predecessor, has been to win the people to his program of tax reduction and reduction in Government expenses. His economy program has done more, perhaps, than anything else to strengthen the Administration with the electorate. While the President was not able to get his taxation plan approved by the last Congress, the outlook now is that legislation will be enacted by the next Congress carrying out this program to the fullest detail.

Hopes for Arms Conference.

In the foreign field President Coolidge hopes to bring about before the end of the next Congress another conference for the further limitation of armament. As soon as the security compact is agreed to by the European countries involved he will issue a call to the nations represented at the Washington conference in 1922. His advices are that Germany and France are slowly reaching a point where agreement will be effected before next Fall.

Perhaps the proposal that the United States enter the Permanent Court of International Justice presents Mr. Coolidge's greatest problem in the next Congress. The Democratic Party is united upon the proposal as originally recommended by President Harding, but it is doubtful whether unanimous Democratic support can be obtained if the resolution of adherence to the Court is modified to meet the divergent views in the Republican Party.

When Calvin Coolidge became President of the United States two years ago tomorrow a group of seven persons witnessed the taking of office of the twenty-ninth President in the sitting room of the home of Colonel John C. Coolidge in Vermont. President Harding had died the evening before in San Francisco on his return from an Alaskan trip. The news did not reach the Vice President until soon after midnight. He had been spending his annual vacation with his father at the Coolidge homestead and was preparing to leave for a visit to his friend, Frank W. Stearns, at Swampscott, when he received the startling information that President Harding had passed away.

The news was a great shock to both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, who had been led to believe by the attending physicians' bulletins that the President had passed the crisis of his illness and was on the road to recovery. The Vice President, who was asleep when the news came, said he would be down in a few minutes and he and Mrs. Coolidge hurriedly dressed.

There was no telephone in the house and the only one in the town, at Miss Cilley's store across the road, was a local affair not to be relied upon, but somehow or other the news of the death of President Harding spread quickly about the countryside. Pretty soon lights could be seen in the farm houses dotting the hills and valleys of Plymouth village, and the Vermonters began to realize that one of their own number had become President of the United States.

Almost everybody was excited except Calvin Coolidge and his father. The former quietly instructed those about him what to do. Following the official announcement of the death of Mr. Harding came another message, signed by Attorney General Daugherty, advising the Vice President to qualify as President as soon as possible. Mr. Coolidge decided to take the oath of office from his father, who was a Justice of the Peace, and Secretary Geiser was instructed to prepare copies of the official oath.

By 2 o'clock in the morning the telephone company workers had strung a line from Plymouth Union to the Coolidge home, and Mr. Coolidge was able to converse with high Government officials. A few old friends of the Vice President who had learned of the death of President Harding hurried to Plymouth to offer their services in the emergency. The group consisted of Representative, now Senator, Porter H. Dale of Vermont; L. L. Lane, a railway mail official, residing in Chester, Vt.; Captain D. R. Barney of Springfield; Hubert P. Thompson of the same town, Commander of the local American Legion Post, and Joseph H. Fountain, editor of the Springfield (Vt.) Reporter. These, with the President's stenographers and chauffeurs, and Mrs. Coolidge, witnessed the taking of the oath.

Sworn in By His Father.

When everything was ready for administering the oath all filed into the sitting room. Colonel Coolidge took his place at the little marble-top table and the Vice President stood opposite him. Mrs. Coolidge stood beside her husband, who was calm and dignified, as was his father. Precisely at 3:47 A. M., Daylight Saving Time, Colonel Coolidge read the oath of office in a firm, resonant voice. It took only a minute and Calvin Coolidge's name was recorded in history as the twenty-ninth President of the United States.

The start was made about 7:30 o'clock for Rutland, where a special car was put on the regular train leaving that city for Troy, N. Y., where a special train was boarded for New York City. Arriving there he was met by his friend, Frank W. Stearns, and his Secretary, Edward T. Clark, and was hurried to the Pennsylvania Station, where a special train was waiting to take the new Chief Executive to the national capital.

Mr. Coolidge arrived there at 9:18 P. M. and was met by Secretary Hughes and Postmaster General New, the only members of the Cabinet in Washington at the time. It was on the advice of Secretary Hughes that Mr. Coolidge hastened to Washington.

Feeling the need of a man in whom he had the utmost confidence, the new President wired William M. Butler to go to Washington at once. The latter was at his Summer home on Cape Cod and hastened to the capital, taking rooms on the same floor with the President and establishing himself as chief confidential adviser to the President. Frank W. Stearns and Mrs. Stearns also went to the same hotel and were a great help to the President and Mrs. Coolidge in those trying days.

When the ranks were sized he was found to be among the sixteen tallest of his platoon.

MAY ASK COURT TODAY TO FREE JAILED BISHOP

Platon Thinks Foe in Church Row Has Been Punished Enough—Lawyer's Arrest Nears.

The arrest of Maurice B. Gluck, attorney for Bishop Adam Philippovsky, who was sentenced with his client to thirty days in jail for contempt of court, is expected today. The sentence grew out of Bishop Adam's refusal to obey the order of Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy to turn over the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas at 15 East Ninety-seventh Street to Archbishop Platon Rodzestvensky.

Bishop Adam was arrested on Friday afternoon. Saturday being a Jewish religious holiday, legal provisions prohibit the service of commitment papers on that day, and as yesterday was also a holiday Gluck had a two-day respite. H. H. Shepard, attorney for Archbishop Platon, said yesterday that he will turn the papers over to Deputy Sheriff John Murphy the first thing this morning and will accompany him to Gluck's office to make the arrest.

Meanwhile Gluck is anxiously awaiting word from the appeal which he filed from Justice Levy's contempt order in the office of the Clerk of the Court on Saturday.

There was no mass at the cathedral yesterday morning, although informal services were held by the Rev. Leonid Turkexitch, the dean. A police guard was on duty outside throughout the day but no disorder was reported. About 200 members attended the services and all, apparently, were members of Archbishop Platon's party.

A spokesman for the Archbishop said that he plans to have the church renovated early this week and will reconsecrate it next Sunday and reopen it with a thanksgiving service. It was also said that Archbishop Platon will communicate with Justice Levy today to ask him, if possible, to remit Bishop Adam's sentence. Archbishop Platon, it was said, feels that Bishop Adam has been sufficiently punished.

A majority of the Archbishop's party hold Gluck responsible, saying that Bishop Adam would never have dared defy the court order had he not been advised to do so by counsel. They insist that Gluck should be the one punished.

DRY LEAGUE OFFICIALS BACK ANDREWS PLAN

Say Recent Statement on Subject Was Misconstrued by Newspapers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A group of Anti-Saloon League officials who assembled in Washington to attend the funeral of William J. Bryan as a delegation of the League, united today in a statement endorsing the new plan of General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, for a reorganization of the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Service.

The delegation consists of Bishop Thomas Nicholson, President of the Anti-Saloon League; F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent; Howard Hyde Russell, founder; A. J. Barton, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Ernest H. Cherrington, editor of the American Issue, and Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel.

The Anti-Saloon League group denied that the League was opposed to the Andrews plan. It was said the impression of opposition arose from misconstruction placed by newspapers on a recent statement of certain officers of the League in denying the contention that if the proposed enforcement plan did not work well nothing would.

"The Anti-Saloon League," says today's statement in part, "has long advocated the reorganization of the Prohibition Unit so as to place responsibility definitely; to exclude political influence, and to secure cooperation from the various Government departments. Accepted as a step in this direction the new reorganization merits support. The measure of its success will depend upon the freedom with which it is permitted to operate.

"Whatever this or any enforcement organization plan may achieve, the Anti-Saloon League, backed by the sentiment of the people as repeatedly expressed, will continue its fight until the prohibition law has been effectively enforced."

Spanish Gunboat Seizes Two Other Vessels in International Zone.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Minister of Marine is inquiring into an incident which occurred yesterday in the River Guardiana, on the Algrave and Spanish coasts, where a Spanish gunboat seized two Portugese fishing barks in the international zone and pursued a third bark, firing three shots at it when it arrived in Portuguese waters.

A delegation of Algravian shipowners, the Municipal Chamber and the Industrial Association have come to Lisbon to protest to the Government against what they claim is a grave violation of treaties and of international rights.

The Government will protest to the Spanish Government.

For a More Comfortable Summer!

Many women needlessly deny themselves the pleasure of an invigorating and refreshing shampoo during hot and dusty summer weather just because they dread drying their hair afterwards. To such, we recommend an Electric Hair-Dryer. This electrical appliance dries the hair in just a few moments, with either cold or heated air. And it certainly leaves the hair in beautiful condition.

$27.50

Pretty curls add much to feminine loveliness. Fortunately, this added attractiveness is not confined to those endowed by nature with curly hair. A clean evenly heated Electric Curling Iron will transform the straightest of hair into beautiful waves and other charming effects in a few moments.

79 cents and up

The Electric Vibrator is an ever ready and instantly available masseur. When fagged out from excessive heat, its use is most refreshing. It invigorates you, restores lost energy, vitality and the joy of life. In complaints and illnesses that require vibratory stimulation, it is no less effective.

$12.50 and up

The Electric Heating Pad while most often thought of during cold, blustery winter weather, is valuable for the distressing little summer complaints that often spoil a vacation. If the surf should cause an ear-ache or a few days of dampness bring on old rheumatic pains, you'll be glad to have a soft, pliable, eiderdown electric pad. And your children, too, will be protected if ravenous appetites for green apples and the like precipitate unhappy "tummy" aches.

$8.50 and up

Violet "Health Rays" are becoming increasingly popular with women as an aid to the complexion. They are used to invigorate body tissues, dispel aches and pains, relieve headache and neuralgia, rheumatism and a multitude of other common complaints. If you have never used Violet Rays, we recommend that you try them. They are so beneficial! Complete sets

EVICTED GERMANS POUR OVER BORDER

Meanwhile Conditions in the Refugee Camps Have Roused Prussia to Action.

HORDES DENSELY PACKED

Epidemic Is Threatened and Fire in Flimsy Quarters Would Mean a Tragedy.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Conditions in the Schneidemühl concentration camp, where the Germans expelled from Poland are quartered, have become so frightful that Carl Severing, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, plans a personal visit there.

In tumbledown sheds, once used for housing prisoners of war, and more recently as storehouses for an aircraft factory, some 10,000 men, women and children are huddled together like so many sheep in a space scarcely large enough for one-third of that number. And still the flood of unhappy people, who have been ousted from their homes, continues to pour across the frontier.

Last night many late arrivals had to sleep in the open air on the bare ground. Today several schools and other public buildings were placed at their disposal, and several thousand were shipped off into the interior of Germany.

Here in Berlin the railroad stations where the trains from the east arrive are full of families camping out in waiting rooms until lodging can be found for them.

Most of the newspapers are printing strong criticisms of the official incapacity revealed at Schneidemühl. Aside from the ordinary discomforts the immigrants have to endure such as a lack of beds and washing facilities, inferior food and cramped quarters, there is the hourly peril of fire. Those old wooden barracks and hangars of a former camp would burn like matchwood.

Even a panic inspired by fear of fire would lead to the trampling of women and children and probably cause several deaths. The danger of infections also is imminent, only a few doctors being on hand to care for hundreds of sick persons.

But the worst feature of the situation is the fact that many weeks, possibly months, must elapse before work and homes can be provided for these hapless victims of national hate and governmental shortsightedness.

Entertainments for the Refugees.

SCHNEIDEMUHL, Aug. 2 (AP).—Scenes reminiscent of World War canteen entertainments will be witnessed in this frontier town in view of the decision of the managers of the refugee camp to introduce various forms of entertainment in an attempt to gladden the hearts of the Germans evicted from Poland, who number about 20,000.

A moving picture theatre is being erected and a sporting club for men will be organized to compete with the local clubs. Sewing circles for young girls have been established and a nursery will be opened in a few days.

Polish Charge Denies Reprisals.

Hipolit Gliwic, Polish Chargé d'Affaires in Washington, gave out a statement here yesterday through The Associated Press concerning the evictoin of German citizens from Poland. He said they were not made as a reprisal, but were carried out under the provisions of the Versailles peace treaty and were the result of negotiations conducted under the auspices of the League of Nations.

Mr. Gliwic said German Silesians affected were warned a year in advance to prepare for the transfer. He denied that Poland was responsible for any of the hardships suffered by the Germans in their exodus during the final days of the period fixed for their transfer, which expired on Aug. 1.

WOOD DINES LEGISLATORS.

He and Quezon Promise Harmony in Behalf of Filipino People.

MANILA, Aug. 2 (AP).—Governor General Leonard Wood gave a luncheon to members of the Legislature yesterday. He asked their cooperation in activities beneficial to the people and gave his assurance that he would do all in his power to carry out the work in which all were interested.

"I am glad you all came today," said the Governor General, "and I wish each success during the present legislative session. I hope the session will be productive of constructive laws redounding to the welfare of the Philippines. I ask your sincere co-operation in every activity beneficial to the people of this country and can likewise assure you that on my part I will do everything in my power to carry out the work we are both interested in accomplishing."

Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, responded for the Legislature, promising cooperation.

"I am sure," he said, "I express the sentiments of all my colleagues when I say we are greatly enjoying the hospitality of the Governor General. I can assure him of complete cooperation in everything which would benefit the people of this country."

ROB GAMBLERS OF $795.

Six Men Hold Up Forty Dice Players Near Methuen, Mass.

METHUEN, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP).—Six armed men this afternoon held up and robbed a group of forty dice players of money and jewelry. An aggregate of $795 in losses was reported to police by six of the victims.

The robbery occurred on the banks of the Spicket River on the outskirts of the town. The bandits drove up in an automobile, and while five of them held the crowd at bay with revolvers and a shotgun the sixth searched the players.

Shouting a warning that they were not to be followed, the robbers sped away. Police, who later received the stories of several of the victims, were of the opinion that the robbers had confederates among the players. They could obtain no descriptions of value to aid them in their search.

In a small city adjacent to Philadelphia, Pa., is a large factory (5 acres floor space) splendidly equipped to manufacture in their entirety machines of a great many kinds. This plant is now operating under limited production. Labor and wage conditions are ideal for economical production.

The plant has in operation these departments:

Foundry, grey iron, 35 tons per day capacity; Pattern Shop; Drop Forging and Blacksmith Shop; Metal Stamping Dept., 20 presses; Machine Shops, including automatic screw machines; Nickle-plating; Tinning; Electric Welding; Paint Shop: Spraying, dipping, baking; Railroad Sidings, loading facilities 10 cars; Boxing; Crating; Extensive Storage Facilities.

The factory management has had conspicuous success in quantity production and in meeting precise specifications.

These facilities are ideal for the man who wishes to avoid a large investment in plant equipment and still secure absolutely dependable results in manufacture.

Complete details furnished on request.

MACMILLAN AT ETAH PREPARES PLANES

Navy Flier Reports It Will Take Four Days to Build Base for Polar Dash.

BEACH MUST BE LEVELED

Big Rocks to Be Moved and Runways Made—Arctic Broadcast Is Heard in the West.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—On account of the poor character of the beach found by the MacMillan Arctic Expedition on its arrival last night at Etah, Greenland, it will be necessary to construct runways before the American Naval fliers accompanying the expedition will be able to "hop off" in their polar flights from that point.

Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd, commanding the flying end of the expedition, reported by radio to the Navy Department today after a careful survey of the beach made immediately after arrival of the Peary and Bowdoin at Etah that, due to difficult operating conditions, four days will be required for erection of the planes and construction of the base. He also reported that the naval carrier pigeons, which have been taken along to send back emergency messages, are in good shape in the frozen north.

Commander Byrd's message was as follows:

"Peary and Bowdoin laid to this morning from 4:10 to 8:10. Followed close to coast line and had good view of many gigantic glaciers. Arrived Etah tonight (Saturday), 9 o'clock. Weather bad, with wet snow and fog covering hills down to a hundred feet.

"Only one small beach in the whole harbor, as the beach line is almost universally rocky, with many cliffs and rocky hills arising from the water's edge. Planes will have to be erected on the beach, due to the lack of space on the Peary. The beach is sandy and pebbly, so that runways will have to be made for each plane to keep the wheels from sinking in.

"There are many large rocks on the beach that will have to be cleared off. It is fifty feet wide and forty deep and too steep at present for use, but can be leveled down sufficiently to use.

"Will start landing planes at 5 tomorrow morning. Due to difficult operating conditions, four days will be required to erect planes.

"Personnel all in good condition and very keen to get started. Pigeons in good shape. Will take them ashore tomorrow to orientate them. Two pairs of pigeons are nesting.

"The Peary has shown herself to be very good ice breaker. She is a staunch ship. Commander McDonald and Captain Steel did good work in getting her through bad ice."

A wireless message to the National Geographic Society announcing the arrival at Etah said the party found five Eskimo families there.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP).—Short-wave broadcasting of the human voice from beyond the Arctic Circle was accomplished last night from the Flagship Peary of the MacMillan expedition. About one-third of the program was heard distinctly here; the remainder was heard, but could not clearly be understood.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Aug. 2 (AP).—William Zejdlik and Al Palya, operators of amateur station 9CDV of East Grand Forks, Minn., reported hearing the program of the MacMillan expedition very indistinctly between 10:15 and 10:30 o'clock last night.

The boys received commendation last year for being the first amateur station in the United States to communicate with the MacMillan expedition on its last trip.

PAINLEVE REFERS TO EX-FOE

Remark at War Memorial Is Regarded as Significant.

ARRAS, France, Aug. 2 (AP).—A reference to Germans in an address delivered by Premier Painlevé here today in inaugurating a war memorial is considered to have special significance, inasmuch as it was made on the day that the French press informed the country that the evacuation of the Ruhr was complete.

"We should strive hard to make justice reign between ourselves and those who in the great conflict met death on the other side of the firing line," declared M. Painlevé in the course of his speech.

The new war memorial is a lighthouse resembling a church bell tower. It is 150 feet high and situated on the elevated plain of Lorette, where 100,000 men are buried. At the suggestion of the Bishop of Arras it bears the inscription:

"Nations be united; men be humane."

Premier Painlevé pointed out that the memorial stood where the invading flood broke against a human wall that was as unshakable as granite.

The lower part of the structure forms an ossuary in which will be placed the remains of all unidentified soldiers found in the surrounding district.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Because she wrapped him up in blankets and thus warded off a cold when he had been brought back to the hotel after losing his way on a fishing trip Hugh M. Annat, reported to be a Scotch-American millionaire, has asked Betty Dunlop, 23, a kitchenmaid at the Glenisla Hotel, Alyth, Scotland, to marry him.

The couple, after their marriage in October and a round-the-world honeymoon, will live at Miami, Fla.

COMMONS TO VOTE ON COAL SUBVENTION

Lively Debate Is Expected on Thursday, With Adjournment at End of the Week.

BIGGER BATTLES COMING

Labor Leaders Say Struggle Is Only Beginning, While Home Secretary Sees Moscow Influence.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—England's labor troubles have been scotched, not killed. Though what promised to be one of the most serious, if not the most serious, strike in British history was averted last week at the eleventh hour, there still are ominous grumblings presaging further troubles. There is much dissatisfaction with the Government's promise to extend financial aid to mine owners and much apprehension as to just how much the promise will eventually extract from the British taxpayers' pockets. Moreover, leaders of the miners still are talking belligerently. All in all, the indications are that the peace concluded on Friday between the mine owners and miners is a mere makeshift, while the disputants prepare for another round in their battle.

Owing to the confusion caused by the coal dispute, proceedings of Parliament are seriously upset. Nevertheless it is expected Parliament will adjourn at the end of this week. A definite statement regarding the business yet to be transacted before adjournment will doubtless be made soon. Since the settlement of the coal dispute by the promise of Government financial aid has necessitated preparation of a supplementary budget estimate, there will be a debate on the subject Thursday which is expected to be extremely lively. Among those scheduled to participate are Prime Minister Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill, Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald.

Following this debate the question will doubtless be raised of Russo-British relations. The motion for adjournment until Autumn probably will come on Saturday.

After his extremely active work in settling the coal dispute, the Prime Minister spent the week-end at his Worcestershire home. After adjournment of Parliament he will go to Aix-les-Bains, France, for a vacation.

Typical of the threatening further coal trouble is the statement by the Secretary of the Miners' Federation, A. J. Cook, that the crisis is not over, but merely beginning.

"An armistice has been declared, but the issues during the next nine months will be far greater than the mere wage issue," said Cook. "Last Friday was Good Friday—not the crucifixion of the workers but the crucifixion of those who have been exploiting them."

Cook added that in conference with the Prime Minister he asked the latter, "Is your only remedy the reduction of wages of the people who cannot pay their way?" to which, according to him, Baldwin replied, "Yes, not only you but all other workers in the country must have your wages reduced."

It was this statement from Baldwin, said Cook, which banded all trade union leaders together last week.

While the miners' leaders are indulging in such threatening talk, the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson Hicks, attacked Cook and other mining leaders, declaring them in close touch with Moscow Bolshevists and adding he was convinced Zinovieff still was in communication with English Communists.

"The question must soon be fought out whether England is to be governed by the Parliament and Cabinet or by a handful of trade union leaders," he said.

COOLIDGE WON'T ACT TILL MINERS STRIKE

and one offering the best chance of success.

Senator Pepper, it was said is indifferent to what Governor Pinchot may do in the coal strike, believing that nothing that he may do will further his candidacy for the Senate.

EAGER FOR PUBLIC'S SUPPORT.

Both Factions to Wage Battle of Statements if Parley Fails.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug 2.—Reports that President Coolidge would not intervene immediately if the anthracite wage parleys were broken off on Tuesday were read with interest by miners and operators today. Neither union officials nor operators would venture further comment on the crisis. Each side is preparing to enter the conference on Tuesday determined that if a break comes and a strike is threatened on Aug. 31 it will make an appeal to the public for support.

Both sides recognize the value of public sympathy and support and each will make greater efforts to win such support than have marked the course of previous anthracite wage wars. After Tuesday it is likely to be a battle of statements.

The operators have brought experts to Atlantic City from every part of the hard coal territory. The findings of these experts on various phases of the industry, and particularly on the impossibility of increasing wages, as the employeds allege, will be furnished to the public.

In the event of an interruption of the parleys before the operators have had a chance to reply to the miners' demands the formal reply of the employers will be given out for publication.

The miners give promise of not lagging in the battle for public sympathy. Led by their International President, John L. Lewis, the miners promise to make the paper battle a lively one.

The reported elimination of Federal intervention at this time paves the way for action by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, where all the anthracite mines are located. The Governor is represented here by two official observers, Joseph J. Walsh and David Williams of the State Department of Mines. The United States Department of Labor is being advised of day-to-day developments by James S. Dewey and William J. Rogers.

In the event of a strike approximately four months' supply of domestic sizes of anthracite will be on hand for use. A stringency will not begin to be felt until January. Of the ten million tons of anthracite of all sizes on hand approximately 4,000,000 tons is in domestic coal. Seven million tons is in transit and in dealers' and consumers' bins. An additional 7,000,000 tons will be mined by Sept. 1, thus making available until January approximately 14,000,000 tons.

In the event of a general strike of anthracite as well as bituminous miners the public will be asked to supplement its use of hard coal by turning to soft coal. The United States Geological Survey reports 38,000,000 tons of bituminous coal above ground. Upward of 8,000,000 tons are being mined weekly, of which 65 per cent. is dug in the non-union fields by men working part time.

ASK COOLIDGE TO ACT.

Community Councils Demand That Coal Supply Be Unhampered.

Resolutions adopted by the City Parliament of Community Councils calling upon the President and members of Congress to take "such action as will insure for the future an uninterrupted supply of coal to the public at reasonable prices" were made public yesterday by Jabez E. Dunningham, Executive Secretary of the councils.

The resolutions were accompanied by an appeal to the public to urge the President and their representatives in Congress to demand that the differences between the coal operators and the miners be arbitrated and that the threatened strike be averted. The appeal asked American Legion posts and civic and political organizations to adopt similar resolutions.

The resolutions endorse the recent report of the Federal Trade Commission on the coal situation and assert that the health, comfort and general welfare of the people are of more weight than the rights of the operators and the miners. They ask that "the President and the honorable members of the Senate and House of Representatives agree to recommend the pasage of such legislation as will either regulate the proper mining of coal and its distribution or that the Government of the United States take over such mines and operate them for the public welfare."

The resolutions also ask "that in the event of a conflict during the emergency an embargo be immediately placed on all shipments of coal to foreign countries."

COAL PRODUCTION SPURTS.

Big Increases for Week Ending July 25 Reported by Mine Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP).—Coal production, which has lagged somewhat during recent months, is now shown in the weekly production studies of the Bureau of Mines to be increasing sharply.

For the week ending July 25, the bureau reported today, the output of bituminous in the United States was 9,255,000 tons, against 8,966,000 the preceding week, and 7,785,000 during the corresponding week of last year.

Anthracite production for the week was 2,049,000 tons, against 1,985,000 the preceding week and 1,837,000 in the corresponding week of 1924. The railroad car loadings for the first two days of the week ending Aug. 1, as received thus far, also indicated that the coal output increase was progressive, since they were larger than for corresponding days of the week ending July 25.

ASKS MEN TO SAVE COAL.

Pennsylvania Railroad to Offer Prizes for Best Suggestions.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has asked the men who burn or handle its coal to suggest ways of saving it. Pennsylvania officials yesterday announced prizes for suggestions from firemen, enginemen, hostlers and coal chute employes, of $50, $25 and $10 for the best three articles on coal saving.

Locomotives on the Pennsylvania consumed approximately 15,000,000 tons of coal in 1924.

Commerce

Commerce is not one of the Muses. A bargain is not so beautiful a thing as a poem, an oratorio, a picture, or a flight of eloquence. Yet, by it, the individual acquires what he could not produce, and is relieved of what he could not employ. By it, the dissimilar produce of climates lying wide apart meet in a single home. Commerce is connected with the chief events of history, with all the noted terrestrial discoveries, all the spheres of enterprise, all the triumphs of invention. By the light of Commerce, far away on the misty frontier of history, we first catch sight of Phoenicia, careering on the ancient seas; of Greece and Carthage spreading enterprise around the West; of ancient Britain emerging out of the unknown. It is Commerce that first tells of bright, rich lands in the distant East; that brings thence gem and spice and silky robes which, to Northern eyes, look as if they had come from some strange realm of light; the lands of cinnamon and peacocks; of pearl, ivory and diamond; of muslin, sandal-wood and silk; the huntsman and his prey; the diver seeking pearl; the miner undoing the bolts and bars of nature's treasure vaults; the engineer scooping the hill or spanning the straits; the caravan daring the sands. All that ancient poets could find to originate ideas of Cyclops and all the feats whereof poetic rapture ever sang are surely matched by those which are daily displayed through bargaining. Our power abroad, our quiet at home, the stability of our Government, the security of our towns, the value of our crops, are all dependent upon Commerce.

CHICAGO RECORDS A MURDER A DAY

Crime Commission Sets Forth Statistics of Worst Year in City's History.

INCLUDES NO HOMICIDES

Western Metropolis Has Had 13 Times as Many Murders Relatively as Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Persons are being murdered in Chicago at a rate of more than one each day. A total of 227 have been murdered to date this year. If that pace of the 211 days continues for the next 154 days, the murders at the end of 1925 will number 391.

That estimate is comparable with 347 Chicago murders last year, 270 in 1923, 228 in 1922, 190 in 1921, 194 in 1920 and 330 in 1919, which was the record for the second city in the nation. These figures are of murders, not of killings or homicides. In each case a jury of the Cook County Coroner has decided that the death was a murder, and the tabulation of them was made by the Chicago Crime Commission.

Chicago had a population of 2,701,705 in 1920. All of Canada in 1921 had a population of 8,788,483. Those are official census figures of each. In 1919 Canada reported 79 murders when Chicago's was 330; in 1920 Canada reported 57 murders, Chicago 194; in 1921 Canada 78, Chicago 196, and in 1922 Canada reported 56, while Chicago's totaled 228.

On the basis of these figures for 1922 Chicago had one murder for each 11,848 of population, while Canada had one for each 156,919 persons. Relatively, Chicago had thirteen times as many murders as all of Canada.

Another view of the local situation by contrast is available because of the arrival yesterday of the annual report for 1923 of W. Norwood, Commissioner of Police of London. That shows 27 murders in the world's metropolis for 1923, as compared with 270 for Chicago. Taking London's population as reported for 1921 at 7,480,201 for its greater area, and Chicago's for 1920, London had one murder for each 278,896 persons, while Chicago had one for each 10,006 of its inhabitants. With the population ascribed to the territory under the jurisdiction of the London County Council, the British would not make so good a showing.

The fate of the murderers in the two cities in the same year supplies more illuminating material.

Concerning "crimes of violence" Commissioner Norwood prints in his annual report:

"Twenty-seven cases of alleged murder of persons above one year of age were recorded (in 1923), as against twenty-eight in 1922, two cases of murder by abortion being included in the figures of 1922. One murder is included in the figures of 1923, which was presumed to have been committed in April, 1922, but was not known to the police until October, 1923.

"In seventeen cases, sixteen persons (one in respect to two murders) were arrested. Nine were convicted and sentenced to death—including a double murderer, four were found to be insane at the time of committing the offense, one was acquitted on the ground that the act was committed in self-defense, one died while awaiting trial and one is yet to be dealt with. In the other ten cases, three of which were double murderers, the murderers committed suicide. It may be pointed out that no case of unsolved murder occurred during the year."

Aged Woman Found Caught in Bog.

An unidentified woman, unconscious fro mexhaustion, was rescued last night from a Staten Island marsh where she had lain in mud and water for more than twenty-four hours. As a result of the exposure and her age, estimated at 70 years, it was said last night at the Staten Island Hospital that she would probably die. Henry Klein of 1,242 Richmond Turnpike, West New Brighton, S. I., heard growns from the morass and floundered through the darkness to find the woman. How she came there was a mystery to the police.

SAW SON'S DEATH IN DREAM

Friends Say Mrs, Mangan Had Vision as Auto Killed Lad.

While several thousand persons were watching the funeral of Jerome Mangan, 7 years old, who was killed on Thursday by a roadster that plunged past his home at 276 Mulberry Street with police in pursuit, friends of his mother were telling yesterday of a dream she had as she lay in the Community Hospital the day her boy died.

Mrs. Mangan, with a new-born girl at her side, they said, was asleep in the afternoon. She awoke suddenly to tell of the dream, in which she saw Jerome run over by a speeding automobile. Inquiries brought out that the accident had occurred, and that the boy had died in St. Vincent's Hospital, but the mother was too ill to be told.

She was at home yesterday as the funeral cortége went slowly from the house to the Old St. Patrick's Cathedral around the corner. At the Community Hospital it was said last night that there had been some talk there about Mrs. Mangan's dream, but no one was reached who actually knew she had told of having it.

SAYS BRYAN THREW PRESIDENCY AWAY

Honor Was in His Grasp, but He Preferred Right to Position, Upshaw Asserts.

CALLS AMBITION WORTHY

Contrasting Bryan and Darrow, He Declares Lawyer Invites Youth Into a Spiritual Sahara.

William Jennings Bryan lost the Presidency of the United States because he "would rather be right than be President," William D. Upshaw, Representative in Congress from Georgia, who was a close personal friend of the late Commoner for thirty years, declared in an address yesterday morning in the Ten Evangel, Ninety-fifth Street, west of Broadway. The tent, which seats 2,000, was filled.

Mr. Upshaw had just come from Washington, D. C., where on Friday he was an honorary pallbearer at the funeral of Mr. Bryan. Mr. Upshaw substituted for the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, Baptist pastor at Fort Worth, Texas.

The service was a memorial to Mr. Bryan, and Dr. Norris, who was a friend of Mr. Bryan's for many years, was to have made the principal address. Dr. Norris wired that he would preach at the tent daily through the rest of August.

Mr. Upshaw called Mr. Bryan "the most beloved American," "the eloquent prohibition tribune" and "the great apostle of faith and hope." He credited Mr. Bryan with being a big force in the winning of suffrage for women and with bringing about national prohibition.

Threw the Presidency Away.

"This I know—this we all know—that we saw him on his return from his world tour when everybody admitted that he had the Presidency in his grasp, actually throw away a crown because, in his attitude toward a great economic question he, like Henry Clay, 'would rather be right than be President,'" said Mr. Upshaw. "I saw him rise at midnight at a banquet in Atlanta and, after telling how reluctantly he had been forced to his position on the Government ownership of railroads, he declared: 'Having reached this conclusion after honest investigation and observation, I would be unworthy of the position of leadership with which I have been intrusted if I were to allow any personal or political consideration to influence me in my attitude or action.'

"Certainly, it was a worthy ambition for him to desire to be President and build his plans toward that lofty end—but I believe, from all I have known of him, that his supreme ambition was to use the Presidency for the highest possible service to the cause of God and humanity.

Compares Bryan and Darrow.

Mr. Upshaw closed his address with a comparison of Bryan and Clarence Darrow.

"Bryan's house was built on the Rock of Ages, but Darrow's house was built on the sinking sands," said Mr. Upshaw. "The Christ whom Bryan trusted did not fail him through all his trying years. Darrow, confessedly, left Christ out of his heart and life. He tried to satisfy his soul by intellectual processes of science and philosophy, and therefore, in the closing years of a brilliant intellectual career, he says, 'It is a long leap into the dark.' Darrow says, 'We know nothing, and therefore, we cannot point the way.' He looks into the faces of American youth and invites them to a great spiritual Sahara."

The Rev. Dr. George W. McPherson, Superintendent of Tent Evangel, declared that great injustice was done Mr. Bryan by many newspapers.

"I have seen headlines in many of the newspapers of which I was ashamed," said the clergyman. A large number of newspapers sent reporters to Dayton who were avowed enemies of Fundamentalism, he said, and that in a vast number of instances their false reports "were made doubly false because of the false headlines."

He said he was glad, however, that all papers did not do this. "I was particularly pleased by the reports which THE NEW YORK TIMES gave of the trial," said Dr. McPherson.

SEE NO SUCCESSOR FOR BRYAN'S MANTLE

Democratic Leaders Look for Disintegration of His Personal Followers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Only a corporal's guard of Democratic Senators and Representatives and other men of prominence in the party have been in Washington since the death of William J. Bryan a week ago today, and for that reason no opportunity is afforded here to gauge party opinion as to the effect which Mr. Bryan's passing may have on party procedure and prospects. It is not likely that party sentiment in this connection will become apparent until Congress reassembles in December. At the same time some of the few Democratic workers who are here believe they have enough knowledge of party opinion generally to justify them in expressing a rather widespread view on the subject.

The impression is created that leading Democrats have been convinced for several years that Mr. Bryan's influence within the party had waned materially until it could hardly be said that he exercised any great degree of power over those of importance in the national organization. That was shown, it is asserted, during recent national conventions, in most of which Mr. Bryan sought to inject issues regarded by most of the delegates as unnecessary and calculated to be harmful to party harmony.

The fear was ever present in the minds of leading Democrats that if Mr. Bryan attended the next national convention he might bring forward some new issue that would spell trouble for the party.

After the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., some Democratic politicians were uneasy over the thought that Mr. Bryan was figuring on injecting into politics the issue of the Bible against science. Mr. Bryan denied at Dayton that he had ever declared he intended "to put the Bible into the Constitution," and since his death his secretary has asserted that Mr. Bryan had no thought of injecting the evolution question into the political arena. But Mr. Bryan's statement did not wholly eradicate the uneasy feeling.

With Mr. Bryan gone, that fear, it is supposed, has vanished. He left no heir to his political leadership, and with the recent death of Senator La Follette, the likelihood of a radical revival in the political field is not looked for in the near future; not, in fact, until some conspicuous leader comes to the front to amalgamate sentiment of a radical character, as Bryan and La Follette did.

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Music and Wine.

KISS ME AGAIN, with Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, John Roche, Clara Bow and Willard Louis, based on the original story by Hans Kraely, directed by Ernst Lubitsch; orchestral interlude, selection from "Natoma," by Victor Herbert; novelty radio demonstration with singers and Lee Stevens and his orchestra; Frederic Fradkin's violin solo, "Kiss Me Again." At the Piccadilly.

Thin though the plot may be, "Kiss Me Again," Ernst Lubitsch's current production which is helping out the "Greater Movie Season" at the Piccadilly this week, is directed with such ease and charm that one is kept in a merry mood for its full length. It does, however, make one think that it is high time that this director put forth a more serious dramatic subject, something with tense and gripping situations. He will have further opportunity to show his skill in the screen version of Oscar Wilde's play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," on which he is soon to begin work.

"Kiss Me Again" has many deft and delightful touches, the outstanding one being where Mr. Lubitsch depicts a rain shower in a natural way. The average director resorts to a deluge after a glimpse at darkening skies torn by streaks of lightning. Mr. Lubitsch craftily shows a few spots of rain on the pavement, and even when the shower comes it is pictured as an ordinary rainfall and not as a cloudburst.

The title of this photoplay was suggested by Victor Herbert's well-known waltz, the story having been written as an original screen effort by Hans Kraely, who has mapped out most of Mr. Lubitsch's pictures. The principals in this film are Monte Blue and Marie Prevost, who also figured in Mr. Lubitsch's "The Marriage Circle." In a way "Kiss Me Again" is mindful of the previous effort, but the story is not as good and it lacks in the cast the characterization which Adolphe Menjou so ably portrayed in one of the rôles of "The Marriage Circle."

Here we have Loulou Fleury (Miss Prevost), a vivacious but susceptible young wife, who finds that the music as played by Maurice Ferriere (John Roche) interests her far more than the affectionate glances and loving expressions of her husband, Gaston, impersonated by Monte Blue. Really, this flighty young person can't tell the difference when the waltz, "Kiss Me Again," is played by the impecunious musician and when it is rendered through the medium of the pianola.

Gaston is more cunning than his wife believes him to be. He agrees to help her get a divorce, and the question is on what grounds. Dr. Dubois, the lawyer, played by Willard Louis, suggests, after a conference at which the wife is not present, that Gaston slap his wife just as a stenographer enters the office. The latter, the lawyer points out, can be an impartial witness. Thereupon Gaston prepares himself for the stroke of cruelty toward his wife. He is to slap Loulou just as Grizette (Clara Bow) opens the door, but finds it is not as easy to do as he imagined. He lifts his hand, but he can't get up enough courage to go through with the deed. His hand always falls harmlessly by his side. He tries again and again, and finally goes behind a screen and resorts to a little stimulating drink. This causes him to feel still less like chastising his wife. They have to seek other causes for divorce, neither being willing to be the defendant.

Maurice takes Loulou out to dinner and Gaston pretends that he enjoys the society of Grizette. Gaston one evening discovers, after taking bachelor quarters in a hotel, that his dress suit is at his wife's home. He hurries there, and while Maurice and Loulou are in the drawing room he goes into his former pressing room and changes his clothes.

By that time Loulou is tired of the musician. She wants her husband back, but does not wish to tell him so. Gaston, with a feigned expression of content and happiness, leaves the old home and goes to a restaurant with Grizette, where he later sees his wife with Maurice. The musician gazes down his wine list (this little affair takes place in Paris) and selects that which suits his purse, the cheapest red wine on the card. Loulou prepares herself for the wine, sips it, and then by her wry expression shows her disgust.

One of the amusing chapters in this picture reminds one of Oscar Wilde's play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," as Gaston pretends to carry on a conversation with Grizette through a door, when the girl is not in the room. He tells his wife that Grizette will not release him for less than 100,000 francs, and when Loulou hands over her jewels to her husband to satisfy Grizette, the latter, while Gaston is pretending to be dickering with her in the other room, suddenly appears, with the result that Loulou finds herself in the happy position of being able to pretend she believes Gaston, while she has Grizette hidden behind a screen.

Miss Prevost and Monte Blue are delightful in their rôles. Mr. Louis is capital as the lawyer, for which rôle he curled his hair. Mr. Roche is satisfactory as Maurice.

This is an admirable production, in which one sees Lubitsch's genius. The only pity is that the story is so transparent.

A D. W. Griffith Film.

SALLY OF THE SAWDUST, with W. C. Fields, Carol Dempster, Alfred Lunt, Erville Alderson, Effie Shannon, Charles Hammond, Roy Applegate, Florence Fair, Marie Shotwell and others; adapted by Forrest Halsey from a stage play; directed by David Wark Griffith; orchestral prelude; special prologue with White and Manning, Monty and Carvel, with circus selections. At the Mark Strand.

Judging by the mirth and tears it elicited from an audience that packed the Mark Strand to overflowing yesterday afternoon, David Wark Griffith's latest screen contribution, "Sally of the Sawdust," will reap a harvest of gold, which, after all, is more interesting to theatre owners than if it were acclaimed a work of art. It is quite obvious that Mr. Griffith intended this picture to be a commercial success, and with that end in view he aimed the shafts of his love story at the hearts of flappers and youths, balancing this adolescent appeal with the inclusion of clever, but occasionally rather raw, comedy.

This film is much too long and, through inserting pet sequences, Mr. Griffith has more than once lost the flow of his story, a failing which can easily be remedied so long as the director is willing to make sacrifices. There is also a great deal of exaggerated acting in scenes which, even to the masses, would be more convincing if they had been depicted with average restraint. There are fights and struggles which are ridiculous to those who may take the narrative seriously, as these sequences are akin to slapstick comedy. In a court room sequence and other portions Mr. Griffith has availed himself most generously of dramatic license, with the result that one is disposed to want them shorter, so that W. C. Fields can be seen again. In fact, most of Mr. Fields's ingenious stunts and comic antics are so well directed by Mr. Griffith that they swamp the interest in the actual story. One is always amused while Mr. Fields is on the screen, as he not only reveals himself a masterful comedian, but also a capital actor who is always in character and is never aware that such a thing as a camera is before him. When he is drenched he nonchalantly squeezes the water out of his cigar. He is seen writing, dipping the pen absentmindedly into a cup of coffee instead of the ink, and when he observes his error he calmly pushes the cup further away. In another stretch Sally (Carol Dempster) picks up a stone to fling at some disagreeable persons, and "Professor" Eustace McGargle (Mr. Fields) appears to scold the girl. He throws the small stone to the ground and then picks up a brick, giving that to Sally to throw. Throughout his performance Mr. Fields evokes many a laugh with his original bits of business and his facial twists.

The narrative is an old idea, being that of the circus waif whose mother, the daughter of an obdurate Judge, ran away with a circus performer. Judge Foster, Sally's grandfather, is described as a man whose face would wear out four bodies. Her mother is a sweet old lady who longs for news of her daughter. Alfred Lunt figures as the hero, the son of wealthy parents, who falls in love with Sally when she and her guardian, the so-called "Professor" McGargle, join the ranks of the carnival.

Miss Dempster makes herself a little too plain for the part of Sally, as there is no reason why she should not be attractively made up as the little circus girl. She is a pathetic little person, especially when she is put on trial as a confederate of the "Professor," who calls three-card monte "a game of skill and science—the old army game." At the time Sally is facing her grandfather, Judge Foster, as a defendant, the "Professor" is held a prisoner in a shack. He bribes his guard to let him go free, and immediately after the guard has pocketed the dollars the light-fingered "Professor" plucks the bills from the man's pocket and flees. Not until the prisoner is well on his way does the guard discover that the bribe has disappeared. McGargle is a lovable old reprobate, who usually wears a pearl-gray derby or high hat, loud check clothes and walks and acts with an air of better days, no matter what is the state of his constantly ebbing finances.

Mr. Griffith also demonstrates his ability as a director by the performance of Alfred Lunt, who hitherto on the screen has been cast in rôles not suited to him. Although Mr. Lunt does not have much to do in this picture, he is thoroughly convincing in those scenes in which he does appear, and he makes, what is not always the case in films, a manly hero. Erville Alderson is clever as Judge Foster.

Why Mr. Griffith gives so many close-ups of a detective is puzzling, as are a number of other interludes in this photoplay. The raw comedy parts to which we referred are obviously not suggestions of Mr. Fields, and Mr. Griffith could still have as good a commercial success in this property by dispensing with such displeasing ideas.

Joseph Plunkett's prologue of a circus tent scene, preceded by the "Grand March of the Circus Band," is a clever notion, as it really draws the audience into the atmosphere of the picture.

Mr. Griffith's last production, "Isn't Life Wonderful?" was an artistic success, but it failed in many towns to attract the crowds. In "Sally of the Sawdust" Mr. Griffith only nods to art but bows low to the box office.

Other Films.

"The Unholy Three," with Lon Chaney, Mae Busch and Matt More, is the screen feature at the Capitol.

The chief attraction at the Rialto is "Wild, Wild Susan," with Bebe Daniels and Rod La Rocque.

At the Rivoli the principal number is "The Trouble With Wives," with Florence Vidor and Tom Moore.

"The Goose Woman," with Louise Dresser, is the film offering at the Colony.

D. W. Griffith's production "Orphans of the Storm" is to be seen again this week at the Cameo.

At the Globe the attraction is "Don Q, Son of Zorro," with Douglas Fairbanks.

"The Crackerjack" is at the Broadway, and "Lightin'" at the Brooklyn Strand.

'CRADLESNATCHERS' COMING

Music Box to House for First Time a Non-Musical Play.

The Music Box, hitherto the home of revue, will house a non-musical production next month for the first time. This will be "Cradle Snatchers," a farce, which is announced to open on Monday night, Sept. 7. It is being produced by Sam H. Harris, and the authors are Norma Mitchell and Russell Medcraft. The cast will be headed by Mary Boland, and will also include Edna May Oliver, Margaret Dale, Raymond Hackett, Humphrey Bogart, and Raymond Guion.

A new Music Box Revue, Mr. Harris announces, will be offered at the Music Box in March.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Oh, Mama" at the Playhouse is now announced for Aug. 18. Alice Brady will be the star.

"Spooks" will move from the Cort Theatre to Wallack's next Monday night.

"The Revenue Man," a comedy by Charles L. Hankin, is in rehearsal under the direction of Edwin Maxwell. It is announced to open here next week, at a theatre as yet unnamed.

"Something to Brag About," which comes to the Booth Theatre on Tuesday night of next week, will open in Asbury Park on Thursday night.

A play called "Oh, Wall Street," announced as "the first production of the Carter-Arkatov Productions," will be placed in rehearsal next week. The author is unnamed.

"The Inner Light," announced as an imminent production, is the work of Hugo Csergo. THE TIMES announcement named Laszlo Lakatos as the author.

Arthur West, who was seen in the "Follies" last year, has been engaged for "Captain Jinks," the musical comedy coming to the Martin Beck Theatre.

Kathleen Martyn has been signed by Charles Dillingham for an unnamed musical production.

A. L. Jones and Morris Green will today begin their 21-year tenancy of the 48th Street Theatre.

"My Son," which played in New York most of last season, will begin a tour in Philadelphia on Sept. 7.

Dear Mr. Laemmle:
"THE GOOSE WOMAN" gave me a great thrill. It is a splendid picture, magnificently acted. As the author of the story I feel deeply indebted to you and your organization.
Miss Dresser's performance impressed me as one of the finest I have ever seen upon the screen—a great achievement of a great artist—and this in no wise detracts from the work of Mr. Pickford and the other players, or from Mr. Brown's masterly direction.
Sincerely yours,

Yankees and Giants Lose, Robins Triumph—Tilden Guilty but is Not Suspended

INDIANS TERMINATE YANKEE AMBITIONS

35,000 Turn Out Only to See Hugmen Fall, 3-2, After Winning Four Straight.

TRIS SENDS IN VICTORY

Shawkey Keeps Speaker From a Hit, but His Sacrifice Puts Jamieson Over the Plate.

MYATT CLOUTS A HOME RUN

Otherwise Bob Holds Tribe Well in Hand—Miller, However, Does Just a Bit Better.

By HARRY CROSS.

The Yanks couldn't stand the exhilaration of winning four straight games, so their period of affluence ended yesterday up at the Yankee Stadium, when the Cleveland Indians stopped them in wild chase after baseball glory. Cleveland won, 3 to 2. Thus ended the longest string of victories the New Yorkers have compiled this season.

Defeat did not come this time because the Yankees played bad baseball. They played pretty well, but the Indians played better. The pitching of Walter Miller was better than that of Bob Shawkey, but not much better. Just enough to bring victory. The hitting of the Injuns was also slightly better than that of the Yanks.

The unusual behavior of the Yankees of late attracted a gathering of 35,000 to the Stadium and every one of them was optimistic enough to think that the Huggins band was going to win.

The clubs went into the eighth with the Yankees holding their own. That isn't so bad for them. The score was tied at 2 to 2, and in their mind's eye the ever hopeful fans pictured the Yankees of yesteryear emerging from the deadlock against a background of fireworks.

Jamieson Starts Fireworks.

But tarry a moment. It was the Redskins who emerged. Jamieson opened the eighth, as Jamieson has often done before, with a whistling two-bagger against the front of the right field bleachers. Pat McNulty laid a simple roller on the infield lawn and Shawkey gathered it up in what seemed a reasonable space of time. On first ready to take the ball was Gehrig and just behind Gehrig was Ward. The ball couldn't possibly get past two of them. McNulty happens to be fleet of foot and he beat Shawkey's toss to Gehrig, Jamieson going to third.

With Tris Speaker, the best thumper in the whole American League show, up Shawkey had a job on his hands. Sailorman Bob did prevent Tris from getting a hit but he couldn't persuade him from ballooning a high sacrifice fly out to Ruth, which gave Jamieson plenty of time to romp over with the winning run.

The serious intent with which the Yanks went after Southpaw Miller in the second inning would naturally lead to the conclusion that he was not so very hard to hit. Gehrig caromed a two-bagger off the bleacher front between right and centre. Shanks picked out this untimely moment to strike out.

Grounder Rolls Into Box.

Benny Bengough laced a grounder close along the left field line for two bases and Gehrig scored. Bengough's rap after rolling into foul territory beyond third, took a jump for itself and landed in one of the field boxes but a ground rule prevents that from being branded a home run. It seems that it has to hop in while in fair territory.

Benny went to third while Wanninger was being dismissed at first and Bob Shawkey tried commendably to put the ball out of every ones reach, his effort resulting in a harmless roller to Miller who saved himself a lot of trouble by tossing to Burns at first.

Cleveland failed to nick Shawkey for a hit in the first two innings but with one out in the third, all that good pitching was forgotten when Glenn Myatt, once upon a time a Milwaukee peril, dished the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run which tied the score.

The Indians gathered one in the fifth chapter, and went to the front when Shawkey pitched himself out of an embarrassing situation. After Lutzke fanned, Myatt doubled to right and Miller sacrificed him along. Jamieson was on the job as usual and his single sent Glenn home. McNulty got an infield hit and who was up but Speaker.

Tris hit a terrific drive into the blue in right but Ruth did some lively running and hauled it down while it was still screaming.

The Yankees tied the score in the sixth. With more judicious base running they might have had more. They carved three nice hits out of Miller's pitching and had him worried.

Ruth, who had twice struck out, hammered a single to right. Meusel laid a very nifty tap half way to third, Lutzke making a perfectly adequate scoop to toss Bob out at first on a play which was as fast as lightning and so close that only the eagle eye of an umpire could detect that Bob was out. Ruth went to second on the play.

Ruth Crosses the Plate.

Miller struck out Gehrig, Lou letting the third strike go by without as much as a nod of recognition. Shanks hummed a single to centre, sending Ruth over the plate.

Bengough slapped a single to centre, Shanks racing to third. Speaker threw to third to head off Shanks and Bengough headed toward second. The atmosphere of the diamond and the grandstand was saturated with activity and excitement. Shanks got to third all right enough and when Lutzke tossed the ball back to second Bengough had also proved his right to the second pier.

The Cleveland players were somewhat in doubt over Umpire Dinneen's decision on Benny at second and while they were in earnest conversation Shanks decided he could steal a march on the whole outfit by sneaking home. He sneaked in right enough but didn't quite make the trade. Chicken Fewster threw him out at the plate.

Baltimore Takes Double-Header and Straight-Victory Mark Is Extended to Twelve.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 2 (AP).—Baltimore's winning streak reached twelve straight games today when the Orioles took both ends of a double-header from Jersey City, 10 to 1 and 3 to 2. The second game was a hurling duel between Courtney, new local southpaw, and Kiefer, with the latter having a slight shade, although lacking good support. Sheedy hit a homer for Baltimore in each game.

MAILS CATAPULTS GIANTS FROM LEAD

HORNSBY GETS 27TH HOMER

Bentley Driven From Mound in Fourth—Duster Allows McGrawmen Only 7 Hits.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—The Cardinals put the Giants in first place Saturday and yanked them right out again today, all because Dr. Walter Mails had a learned curve ball and an influential fast one that dazzled the eyes of the New York batters.

As a result of an 8-1 defeat the Giants are now looking at the Pirates' tail lights again. The Pirates rested, but moved into first place by four points.

With 15,000 frenzied fanatics looking on, the Cardinals made the Giants look like what they oughtn't to. Rogers Hornsby hit his twenty-seventh home run of the season. Duster Mails held the Giants to seven puny hits. Jack Bentley was driven out in a shower of base hits in the fourth, and if there was anything else the Cardinals didn't do nobody in the grand stand could see it.

Giants Miss Their Chance.

The Giants were a big disappointment to their friends in this city—both of them. They had a gorgeous chance to reinforce their lead over the Pirates merely by going out and larruping the Cards to the king's taste, but while at the bat the McGraw men had on blinders and in the field and on the mound their work was nothing that would justify a letter to the home folks.

Bentley, Huntzinger, Wisner and Nehf formed the extinguishing brigade for the visiting firemen, but the Cards managed to get along with only Mails. This was something like the Senators getting along with only Walter Johnson. Mails showed a very baffling brand of left-handed ball. He almost shut the Giants out in New York, and he was just as close today, the sole metropolitan run coming in the seventh inning when the Cards were only seven markers to the good.

Everybody on the local outfit made a hit or more, but Frisch, Kelly, Terry and Lindstrom were the only Gothamites who solved the Mails puzzle. Out here they call him "The Great Mails" in a semi-humorous style. If there is anything funny about it the Giants want to be shown. He has won five out of six games, two of which the Giants contributed. Any more such philanthropy on the part of the McGrawmen may be disastrous to their pennant program.

McGrawmen Miss at Start.

The Giants sparred for an opening in the first but couldn't crash through. Frisch singled with one out and took second when Mueller fumbled. Wilson grounded to Cooney, who tried for Frisch at third, but Frankie darted back to second and made it in a cloud of dust. Meusel fanned and Terry filed to left.

Two were demised when Hornsby tripled to left centre. Frisch's throw to third bounced off Rogers's back and rolled to the bench while Hornsby flat-wheeled home. Bottomley followed pronto with a double to right and Walker lost Hafey's easy hoist in the sun, Bottomley scoring.

Two more Red Bird runs in the third. Between singles by Cooney and Bottomley the great Hornsby fanned. Hafey pushed a double to left and Cooney scored.

Bentley was on the brink of an abscess, as Andrew Freeman would have said, and John McGraw kindly pulled him away. He gave Jack the air and summoned Huntzinger from the bullpen. While Frisch was chucking out Mueller Bottomley was persuaded across the disk.

Huntzinger got into his own abyss in the fourth. Two gone again when the Cardinals busied themselves. Shinners and Cooney singled. Huntzinger then gave Hornsby an outside selection and Rogers rammed it on a line into the right-field bleachers, which made it an inside selection. It was quite a party that preceded Rogers across the pan.

Giants Lucky in Seventh.

In the lucky seventh the Giants were lucky enough to get a run on Terry's triple and Kelly's single. There the rally went dead. Lindstrom forced Kelly, Hartley forced Lindstrom and Hartley was surprised by Mails while catching forty winks off first base.

In the eighth Mueller's single, Hartley's low throw to catch him asleep and Bell's hit negotiated a run for the Cardinals.

Farrell was a pinch hitter who didn't get a chance to hit. While Edward was at bat for Huntzinger in the seventh Hartley was caught off first for the third out.

In the next inning Young went up to pinch hit and there was a heated argument whether he was batting for Huntzinger or Wisner. Huntzinger was no longer in the game, but that simple point made no difference to the great minds, who went right on arguing.

Pickups and Putouts

The Yankees had so much energy that they actually ran from the dugout when they took their positions in the first inning.

Ruth is getting faster on his pedals. He did some lively fielding yesterday. He got two drives off Speaker's bat after considerable traveling, and also made a nice running catch of Joe Sewell's rocket in the fourth.

There seems to be no limit how far the Yanks will travel to make a catch. Bengough disappeared into the Yankee dugout trying to get Sewell's foul fly in the second. Gehrig went head first into a field box after Lutzke's foul in the seventh.

Shawkey had fine control and didn't give a pass until he walked Lutzke with two down in the ninth.

McNulty grabbed Meusel's fly in the ninth right out of Speaker's outstretched hands. McNulty decided that he would cover right field without assistance from any one, not even his manager.

Joe Sewell was ever present at short and surrounding counties. He changed the minds of more than one Yankee who thought that he was making a hit.

Now the Yanks have got to start all over again on a winning streak. They are used to it. The immediate future includes two more games with Cleveland before the visit of the thumping Tigers on Wednesday.

Johnson Reverses Defeat in Big League Debut By Beating Tigers on Same Day 18 Years Later

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—When Walter Johnson, the veteran Washington pitcher, today held Ty Cobb's Tigers to a pair of hits, one clear, the other a scratch, he rounded out eighteen years of baseball in the American League. During all that time he has worn a Washington uniform. It was on Aug. 2, 1907, that Johnson made his major league début as twirler for the Senators, and it was also against Detroit that the great pitcher then twirled.

In today's game Johnson pitched the Senators to a 5 to 1 victory over the Tigers, whom he failed to defeat in his major league début eighteen years ago, the score then being 3 to 2 in favor of Detroit. Cobb went hitless today, although eighteen years ago he cracked out a safety against the youthful Johnson. Today Johnson disposed of one Tiger after another, the only exception being Jones, who got the two hits credited against the veteran pitcher.

But for McNeely's wild throw Johnson would have held the Tigers scoreless, Blue scoring the only run for Detroit on Jones's single in the seventh following McNeely's wild heave to third. The other hit made by Jones was an infield grounder that took a bad bound, over Peckinpaugh's head.

When Johnson made his début in 1907 Detroit was leading the American League with fifty-four games won and thirty-five lost, Washington being in the cellar position with twenty-eight games won and sixty lost. Johnson allowed only six hits then, being taken out in the eighth inning to make way for Blankenship, a pinch hitter. In that game Johnson fanned three and walked only one. Crawford made a home run and Johnson's team-mates committed four errors behind him. The opposing pitcher was Siever, who held Washington to five hits.

REDS AND BRAVES SPLIT TWO GAMES

Cincinnati Takes First by 8-5, but Loses Second, 5-3, After Winning Nine Straight.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2 (AP).—Boston and Cincinnati broke even in two hotly contested battles today, the second game ending the Reds' run of victories after nine straight victories. In the first game Donohue and Ryan were driven off the slab, while Vargus was taken out for a pinch hitter and Carl Mays retired with a lame arm. The Reds won by 8 to 5.

The Braves outhit Cincinnati, but bases on balls, mixed with timely drives, gave the Reds the first game, 8 to 5.

In the second game, as in the first, three pitchers worked for each club, Boston winning, 5 to 3.

GERTRUDE EDERLE POSTPONES SWIM

New York Star Finds English Channel Waters Unfavorable for Attempt Today.

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 3 (AP).—Early this morning Miss Gertrude Ederle, the American girl swimmer, decided not to make an attempt to swim the English Channel today. Postponement of the start was due to bad conditions prevailing in the Channel.

For the last two days the Channel waters have become steadily rougher. An unfavorable wind also has been at work, and the combination of these two factors was responsible for the calling off of the attempt. Swimming the Channel, experts have pointed out, is largely a matter of finding weather conditions fair and the tides favorable.

Stamina and the ability to make headway against a none too smooth sea are essential, of course, but the ability to make the tides and currents do most of the work is the deciding factor. Thus, if the athlete leaves the French coast in the face of the tide and battles through it only to reach an adverse current when approaching the English coast defeat is a certainty.

Swimmers try to leave France with the tide, timing their efforts so that they may receive the benefit of the tide which is flowing to the other coast when they sight England. Miss Ederle, credited with a powerful stroke, is not going to have her chance of being the first woman to cross the body of water spoiled by making a miscalculation, so those interested in her attempt may be sure that she will not start until conditions are exactly to her liking.

N. Y. A. C. NINE WINS, 7-1.

Hal Frisch Stars as Victors Beat West Side Century Club.

The New York Athletic Club nine had little trouble in scoring a victory over the West Side Century Club in a game at Travers Island yesterday afternoon. The Winged Foot players triumphed by a score of 7 to 1 and their opponents were able to gather only four hits off the delivery of Tierney. Of the four safeties Tierney yielded, three were of the scratch variety.

Excellent fielding behind Tierney proved a big help to the pitcher. The fielding features were all supplied by Hal Frisch, brother of the captain of the New York Giants. Hal played left field for the Winged Foot outfit and accounted for three sensational catches that stopped the Century batters when they became threatening.

The score by innings:

COX'S HOMER WINS FOR ROBINS, 4 TO 2

Drive in First Frame With Two On Sends In Enough Tallies to Beat Cubs.

EHRHARDT TO THE RESCUE

Relieves Osborne in Third With Two Runs In and Bases Full and Retires Side.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Dick Cox's home run, his second in as many days, produced the runs that gave the Robins another victory over the Cubs here today. The score was 4 to 2 and Cox made his circuit drive in the first inning with two out and two mates on the bases. The Cubs scored both their runs in the third and the count stood 3 to 2 until the final round when the Robins made another tally on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Guy Bush twirled for the Cubs and yielded eight hits. Tiny Osborne started for the Robins, but was relieved by Rube Ehrhardt in the third inning. When the Rube replaced Osborne the Cubs had scored their two runs and had the bases filled, with only one out. Griffith ended the frame with a foul to Wheat that was turned into a double play. The Cubs were unable to do anything with Ehrhardt's fine relief pitching. He allowed only one hit, a single by Grigsby in the fourth inning.

Wheat enjoyed another perfect day at bat. He made a double, a single and drew two passes. The single was made in the fifth inning and it was his ninth consecutive hit. He made five out of five in the first game here and in his last two times at bat in St. Louis poked out singles.

Robins Take the Lead.

The Robins started tame enough in the first, for Mitchell struck out and Stock was tossed out by Adams. Wheat doubled to centre and Fournier kept the side at bat by drawing a pass. Cox then caught hold of one of Bush's slants and lifted the ball over the left field screen. It was quite a wallop, for the ball went against the wind. The hit was not unlike the home run made by Cox in the first game of the series. After the three Robins had crossed the plate Brown grounded to Maranville to end the session.

Osborne started off by passing Adams, but the next three Cubs were retired. After Brooks fouled to Taylor in the second Griffith tripled down the first base line, but he did not advance any closer to the plate. Tiny fell by the wayside in the third inning and the Cubs came within one run of tying the score.

With one out Adams and Maranville drew passes and Freigau shot a single to centre that scored Adams. Grigsby also singled into Eddie Brown's territory and the Rabbit scored. Brooks was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. That ended Osborne's afternoon's labor and Ehrhardt took up the burden. Griffith lifted a foul to Wheat, who made a running catch. Freigau tried to score after Zack caught the ball, but was thrown out at the plate, Wheat making a good throw to Taylor.

Taylor's Double Wasted.

In the fourth the Robins threatened to score when Taylor made a double. However, the hit came with two out and Ehrhardt left his battery mate on second by striking out. Double plays kept the Robins away from the plate in the fifth and sixth rounds. Stock doubled with one out in the fifth and moved to third on a single by Wheat, who hit into right field. Fournier grounded to Grimm and a two-ply killing was made, Grimm to Maranville to Grimm. Cox opened the sixth with a single and Brown hit into a double play. Johnston made the third out by fanning.

Brown paved the way for the final Robin tally when he opened the ninth with a single. Johnston sent Eddie to third with a single and Taylor's sacrifice fly to Grigsby enabled Brown to score. The Robins did not need that run for in the ninth Ehrhardt remained effective and turned back the Bruins in order.

Hartnett, the second Cub to bat in the final frame, was hit on his right ankle by a foul and Weis finished his time at bat. Stock threw him out. Gonzales batted for Bush and ended the game with a roller to Ehrhardt.

MET. TENNIS TITLE WON BY RICHARDS

Grass Court Championship Goes to New Yorker in Battle With Voshell.

Taking up where he had left off on Saturday at Seabright, Vincent Richards won the metropolitan grass court championship yesterday at the Crescent A. C. in Brooklyn. In defeating James Anderson in the final of the New Jersey tournament the New York youth took the last two sets without the loss of a game. He took the first two sets of yesterday's match with S. Howard Voshell in the same fashion and went on to gain a lead of 3—0 in the third set before he dropped his first game. The score was 6—0, 6—0, 6—2.

This made twenty-seven successive games that Richards won. However, he has a long ways to go to equal the record of Tilden. The national champion won twice as many games in the Nassau invitation tournament and the Rhode Island championship at Providence several weeks ago, starting with a run of fifteen games in the final of the former tournament against A. H. Chapin Jr. In the entire metropolitan tournament Richards lost only twenty-two games in six matches.

Richards's victory yesterday gave him his second leg on the Todd equestrian bronze trophy, which was put up in 1921. His first leg was gained in 1922. Robert Kinsey of San Francisco also holds two legs on it, while Gerald Patterson won it last year. In addition to winning the singles title, Richards also took the doubles crown. With Ray Casey of California he defeated Voshell and A. H. Chapin Jr. in the semi-finals at 3—6, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2, and in the final the winning pair disposed of the Japanese Davis Cup team, Zenzo Shimizu and Takeichi Harada, at 6—4, 6—4, 6—1.

As an added attraction, Albert J. Gibney, Chairman of the Tournament Committee, put on an exhibition between Tilden and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco. Kinsey took the first set from the champion at 6—3 and Tilden won the second at the same score when the play was ended. In addition to these stars a number of other prominent players were at the Brooklyn club yesterday, including William Johnston and Clarence Griffin, who defeated the Kinsey brothers at Seabright last Saturday; Robert Kinsey and George Lott of Chicago, national junior champion, who has come East to take part in the East-West matches at Forest Hills this week.

Before meeting Richards in the final, Voshell completed his semi-final round match with Elliott H. Binzen, which ended on account of darkness a week ago with 2 sets to each player's credit. Voshell won the final set yesterday, 5—7, 8—6, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4. The tax of this match and his doubles match which followed right after left Voshell little in reserve for the final of the singles and Richards simply romped off with the title.

MAJOR BEATS FISHER FOR TENNIS HONORS

Wins Nassau and Suffolk Title After Four Sets—Townsend and Acker Score.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Aug. 2.—Cedric Major of the West Side Tennis Club succeeded Louis B. Dailey Jr. as the Nassau and Suffolk Counties tennis champion today. In the final round of the tournament at the Hempstead Country Club the Long Island star defeated Kenneth D. Fisher of the Terrace Club after a three-hour struggle at 7—9, 8—6, 7—5, 6—2. The doubles title went to Grevel Acker and R. Tailer Townsend. They won from Fisher and J. Cecil Donaldson of the Terrace Club at 4—6, 9—7, 6—4. The match was decided by the best two sets out of three instead of three out of five on account of darkness.

In both the singles and doubles match Fisher failed to win by narrow margins. In the singles, after taking the opening set, he led at 5—3 in the second. Major rallied to pull out of the hole, and again in the third set Fisher led at 5—3, only to drop four games in a row. In this chapter Fisher pulled a ligament in his leg, while Major suffered a slight injury to his hand.

In an exhibition set of singles, Mrs. Bernard Stenz defeated Mrs. William H. Pitchard, 6—0.

TILDEN IS GUILTY, BUT NOT SUSPENDED

U. S. Lawn Tennis Association Holds His Interviews Violated Amateur Rule.

HE PROMISES TO ABSTAIN

Champion Gives Written Pledge to Committee and His Disbarment Is Thus Avoided.

STRICT ATTITUDE IS TAKEN

President and Rule Chairman Empowered to Ban Any Player Who Breaks Regulation.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

William Tilden, national champion, stood on the brink of suspension from amateur tennis ranks when his written promise not to give out any further interviews for pay on tennis tournaments in which he is a participant restored him to favor with the United States Lawn Tennis Association. This was the development at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the national governing body Saturday evening, before which Tilden appeared to defend himself as the outcome of his interviews given to a syndicate three weeks ago during the national clay court championship at St. Louis, in which the Philadelphian defended his title.

The information as to what transpired at the meeting was given out yesterday. The formal report gives no details but from it it is apparent that the Executive Committee put its foot down and was not in any mood to compromise. The members unanimously reached the decision that Tilden had violated the revised amateur rule, which he helped to formulate and which forbids players from writing current newspaper reports on tournaments in which they are contenders.

The amateur rule, framed by a committee of seven appointed during the height of the player-writer controversy last June, does not say anything about interviews. The Executive Committee, however, decided that interviews for pay were no different from writing the stories and therefore Tilden was guilty and subject to suspension and "to be declared ineligible to compete in tournaments or matches played under the auspices of the association."

This decision of the committee left no loophole for Tilden. After two years of controversy, during which the champion vigorously defended his right to write newspaper reports, he found himself facing disbarment from amateur tennis and the United States faced the loss of the player who has been the mainstay of its Davis Cup team.

No Intention to Violate Rule.

Informed of the committee's decision, Tilden stated that he had not intentionally violated the rule, that he desired to comply with it, and that he would give no further interviews. What threatened to go down in history as one of the most sensational meetings in the history of the U. S. L. T. A. was turned into an amicable session. The committee had come to read the law to Tilden and not to enforce it unless he continued to violate it.

Tilden having reduced his promise to writing, the committee refrained from adopting the resolution which would have suspended him. It did adopt, however, a resolution empowering the President of the U. S. L. T. A. and the Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee to suspend any player upon receipt of evidence justifying his disqualification. By this act the committee made it evident that it is prepared to enforce the new amateur rule strictly and without favor.

Not only may a player not give out interviews or write current articles for newspapers on tournaments in which he is appearing, but he also must not allow résumés of these tournaments written by him to appear in public print until three days after the tournament is over. It was understood originally that these résumés could be published the day after the tournament, but the Executive Committee interprets the rule differently.

Among those who attended the meeting were President Jones W. Mersereau of the U. S. L. T. A., Chairman of the Executive Committee; Holcombe Ward, Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee; Julian S. Myrick, Chairman of the Davis Cup Committee; Harry S. Knox, Secretary of the U. S. L. T. A., Louis B. Daley, Treasurer; Paul W. Gibbons, and George T. Adee, who was responsible for the player-writer interpretation as the Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee last year.

The text of the report follows:

Text of Committee's Finding.

After due deliberation, the committee in executive session unanimously concluded and decided that:

(1) The giving of a daily interview by a player, commenting upon an event in which he was competing, was in no way different from writing a current article covering the event.

(2) Where such an interview was given to a news syndicate with which the player had contracted to cover events or supply service for pay, the player must be considered to have received pay or a consideration for the interview.

(3) A résumé of an event given by a competitor therein containing a report of the last day's matches and filed and published when the reports of that day's play are current news is a "current newspaper article" and when supplied for pay constitutes a violation of the by-laws of the association.

The committee unanimously concluded and decided that Mr. Tilden had committed acts prohibited by the by-laws and was subject to suspension and to be declared ineligible to compete in tournaments or matches played under the auspices of the association. The conclusions and decision of the committee were communicated to Mr. Tilden.

In consideration of a statement by Mr. Tilden that he had not intentionally violated the rule and that he desired to comply with the requirements of the by-laws as construed by the Executive Committee, the committee agreed to accept Mr. Tilden's promise that in the future he would give no interviews commenting on any event in which he was a competitor to any news syndicate, corporation or person with which he had contracted to supply articles for pay, and to give no résumé of any such event to appear earlier than the third day following the completion of the event. This understanding having been reduced to writing and signed by Mr. Tilden, the resolution suspending him and declaring him ineligible to compete was not adopted.

In acting upon the matters before it the committee unanimously adopted a resolution empowering the President and the Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee to suspend any player upon receipt of information sufficient in their opinion to justify his disqualification or suspension, under the provisions of the by-laws, such suspension to continue until revoked by them or by the Executive Committee, or until the Executive Committee should have finally determined such player to be disqualified or ineligible to compete under the provisions of the by-laws.

Miss Harrison is Fourth in Paris Swim

MISS HARRISON 4TH IN A 26-MILE SWIM

LEDRIANT, SAILOR, IS FIRST

Leads From Start and Reaches Finish in Paris Before 50,000—Sleet Forces Seven Out.

PARIS, Aug. 2 (AP).—Miss Lillian Harrison, the Argentine swimmer, today finished fourth in the marathon swim of twenty-six miles from Corbeil to Paris on the River Seine. Joseph Ledriant, a French sailor, won the race. His time was 12 hours 36 minutes. Georges Poilley, Parisian and former French national champion, was second, 10 minutes behind Ledriant. Michel, France, came in third.

Miss Harrison's time at the finish was 14 hours, 37 minutes, or 2 hours, 1 minute slower than that of Ledriant. The Argentine girl appeared to be exhausted when she reached the finish line. Two miles from the end she was in second place. Eleven men and Miss Harrison comprised the field, but seven of the swimmers abandoned the race before twelve miles had been covered. The race started at 2:10 A. M. in abominable weather. There was a heavy downpour of rain which continued with unabated fury until daybreak.

Ledriant took the lead at the plunge and held it throughout. He was a dark horse in the race. Miss Harrison swam steadily and courageously throughout. On reaching the city walls of Paris she was in fourth place but sprinted and succeeded in overtaking her nearest competitors. She apparently was seized with weakness between the Austerlitz Bridge and the Chamber of Deputies, however, and fell back. She took some nourishment here and swam on gamely and finished the race.

French Cheer Girl Star.

It is estimated that the 20-year-old Argentine champion thrilled at least a million French men and women lining the banks of the Seine from Corbeil to Paris. "Vive Lillian" was the shout sent up at various points along the route, notwithstanding the fact that Ledriant and Poilley were leading her.

When Miss Harrison and the other competitors took to the water they had as a handicap not only a driving rain but considerable sleet—conditions of weather seldom seen in this city. Miss Harrison had told friends she had entered the "nautical marathon" because it would be pleasant atmosphere as compared to the awful howl of the Cape Gris-Nez siren and the winking eyes of the Dover, Calais and Boulogne lights. She experienced the contrary.

The temperature of the water of the Seine, which had been hovering around 65 degrees Fahrenheit during the past week, suddenly dropped down to 60 degrees under the westerly wind, and two black Senegalese contestants, accustomed to the warm waters of the Congo River in Africa, turned pale and green with the cold and left the contest. T. W. Burgess, the English veteran, who swam the English Channel in 1911, was the next victim of the arctic-like conditions and left the water.

One by one, giants in strength and stature had abandoned the race before seventeen miles had been completed. At this point only five swimmers remained, of whom Miss Harrison was the favorite among the immense crowds which lined the banks of the river.

Swimming the classic breast stroke at from twenty-four to twenty-five strokes to the minute, the girl was cheered spontaneously and loudly. The tide was running downstream, but the strong westerly wind quite offset this advantage. Along the course there were three dams which the swimmers had to scale by climbing slippery steps and during which they shivered under the chill of the air, which was greater than that of the water.

Will Try Channel Again.

"The ambition and goal of my life is to swim the English Channel," said Miss Harrison to the correspondent of The Associated Press, when, after 14 hours and 37 minutes in the water, she climbed without assistance the ladder on the stone wall of the river Seine in the shadow of the Eiffel Tower. Then as the crowd, estimated at 50,000 persons, swarmed up and gave her a reception overshadowing that accorded the winner of the race, she added: "Do you think our people in Buenos Aires will feel that I have done my best and perhaps be proud of me?"

The stout-heartedness and courage displayed by the South American girl in the Marathon swim, covering about five miles more than the distance across from Cape Gris-Nez to Dover, on the Channel, has endeared her to the French population, and she was as popular as Suzanne Lenglen, France's tennis marvel, among the crowds in the Paris boulevards tonight.

Miss Harrison intends again to try to swim the English Channel during this month. She said she felt the Marathon swim was "the best possible training" she could get for the Gris-Nez to Doven effort. She gave Michel, who finished third in the race today, a hard fight for his position. At one time she was in second place, but suffered from cramps in the stomach and had to tread water for nearly an hour near the Chamber of Deputies building. She recuperated wonderfully, however, and finished in better physical condition than any of the four men who completed the journey.

MISS RYAN WINS DOUBLES.

She and Patterson Defeat Mrs. Jessup and Hawkes at Seabright.

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP).—The final round of the mixed doubles competition in the Sea Bright invitation tennis tournament, played today, brought victory for Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian now living in Europe, and Gerald Patterson of Australia over Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., and J. Golfer Gets Ace in Pittsburgh, Another Makes One at Saratoga

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2 (AP).—Joseph I. Crawford of the Oakmont Country Club became a member of the Hole-in-One Club today when he made the 226-yard fifteenth hole in a single stroke. He was playing in a foursome with W. C. Fownes Jr., former national amateur champion; H. C. Fownes 2d, and Emil Loeffler.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—The ranks of the Hole-in-One Club were augmented today when Joseph M. Christopher, assistant professional at the McGregor links, near here, scored an ace on the 111-yard thirteenth hole on his home course.

BARBADOES WINS IN CRICKET MATCH

Beats St. Vincent's Eleven, 194-50, in Contest at New York Oval.

The Barbadoes cricketeers swamped St. Vincent's in the match at New York Oval yesterday afternoon, largely because of the splendid batting of E. Holder, who contributed a century toward the winning total of 194. The St. Vincent's team were all out for 50, thanks to the bowling of A. Lewis and B. Clarke, who bowled throughout unchanged.

Holder, in compiling 126, hit over the fence seven times. Six of the Barbadoes' wickets were down for 50, but the next wicket did not fall until the 100 mark had been passed. A brilliant catch by C. Dash near the boundary brought the St. Vincent's innings to a close.

OUIMET-GUILFORD CONQUER TWO PROS

Lead Farrell and Turnesa One Up Over 36 Holes on Links at Portsmouth.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 2.—In one of the best matches ever played in this section of the country, Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford, former national amateur champions, defeated Johnny Farrell and Joe Turnesa, two of America's leading homebred professionals, by 1 up on the Hotel Wentworth course.

The game was an up and down struggle the whole day long, the amateurs finishing 1 up on the morning round after trailing to the eighteenth hole. In the afternoon the young professionals overtook their opponents and obtained a lead of 2 up at the thirty-first hole.

Here the amateurs rallied and won three of the next five holes with a brilliant display of golf. With the match all even, Francis Ouimet holed a twenty-five-foot, curling, side-hill putt which gave his side the victory.

Ouimet led in the scoring with a 68—69—137 for the day. Turnesa had 68—71—139, Guilford 71—69—140 and Farrell 73—69—142. In the morning both Ouimet and Turnesa equaled the course record of 68 made by Ouimet on Saturday.

HERMAN AND HURLEY IN BATTLE TONIGHT

Will Clash in Bout at the Queensboro Club—Vaccarelli to Face Brown.

Three ten-round bouts will feature the weekly boxing show which will be staged at the Queensboro Athletic Club tonight. Babe Herman, formerly of California, who is scheduled to meet Lew (Kid) Kaplan, featherweight champion, late this month, will take on Lew Hurley of Harlem in the final battle. Tony Vaccarelli, also of Harlem, will engage Mickey Brown of the east side in the second skirmish, while in the first ten-rounder Carl Duane of the Bronx will battle Bud Dempsey of Yorkville.

Herman has been working himself into condition for his title fray with Kaplan, but it will be necessary for him to dispose of Hurley in decisive style in order to be assured of a chance at the world's featherweight crown. Both Herman and Hurley have been training industriously for the last two weeks, and reports from each training camp state that the boys are ready.

Horder Flashes Home First in Quarter-Mile Match Bike Race

HORDER IS VICTOR IN STRAIGHT HEATS

15,000 Thrilled by Battles With Fenn and Walthour in Quarter-Mile Match.

DOES THE FIRST IN 28 FLAT

Freddie Spencer Beats Goullet in Two-Mile Paced Race at Velodrome Here.

Harris Horder, tiny Australian bicycle star, defeated Willie Fenn Jr. of East Orange and Bobby Walthour Jr. of Arlington, N. J., in two straight heats of a quarter-mile match race at the New York Velodrome last night before 15,000. The race was one of the most exciting witnessed at the uptown saucer this season, for it was a battle in all three heats from the crack of the gun.

Horder got off in front in the first heat, with Fenn second and Walthour third, and that was the way they finished, with Horder being clocked for the quarter in 28 seconds flat. Fenn got off in front in the second heat, with Horder second and Walthour third. Horder came with a rush in the homestretch and just nipped Fenn, while Walthour once more was third. Horder's time for the quarter in this heat was 28 2-5 seconds.

Freddie Spencer of Plainfield, N. J., who is leading in the race for the American sprint championship, defeated Alfred Goullet in two straight heats of a two-mile paced match.

Orlando Piani defeated Caesar Moretti in two straight heats of a one-mile match race. Piani rode around Moretti in the first heat and in the second he rode from in front and led Moretti to the tape.

Reggie McNamara won a four-cornered match from Eddie Madden, Alf Grenda and Cecil Walker. The race was decided on a point basis. McNamara won with 25 points, Grenda and Madden tied for second with 18, while Walker was fourth with 13.

Vincent Madonna, Italian star, went into the lead in the battle for the motor-paced championship of the United States when he won the forty-mile national motor-paced race, the thirteenth of the series of twenty-four races to decide the title.

The point standing now is as follows: Madonna 38, Chapman 36, Verkyn 23, Wynsdau 19, Keenan 17, Ganay 5.

RUBINSTEIN IS TIED FOR THIRD BY WAGNER

Hamburg Chessmaster Gains by Holding Reti to Draw in Tourney at Breslau.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRESLAU, Germany, Aug. 2.—With the playing off of the two games adjourned from the eighth and ninth rounds, the international chessmasters' tournament was completed at the annual meeting of the German Chess Association at the rooms of the Hermannloge today. The first two prizes had already been determined in favor of E. Bogoljubow of Russia and A. Niemzowitsch of Denmark, respectively.

H. Wagner of Hamburg, whose play has been one of the outstanding features of the congress, held Reti of Czechoslovakia to a draw and thereby gained the half point he needed to tie Rubinstein of Poland for third and fourth prizes. F. Becker of Stutzerbach drew with Moritz of Berlin and increased his totals to 6—5, thereby making a tie for the fifth and sixth prizes with E. Gruenfeld of Austria and R. Reti of Czechoslovakia.

The first prize of 1,000 marks was donated by the City of Breslau. The other five consisted of 600, 500, 300, 200 and 100 marks, respectively.

The final standing follows:

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Bogoljubow	9½	1½	Reti	6	5
Niemzowitsch	7½	3½	Saemisch	5	6
Rubinstein	7	4	Gottschall	4	7
Wagner	7	4	Tarrasch	3½	7½
Becker	6	5	Blumenich	3	8

VAN O. T. WINS $5,000 RACE.

Takes Scripps Trophy in Reliability Yacht Contest of 112 Miles.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Van O. T., flying the pennant of the Cleveland Yachting Club and skippered by Leslie Van Orman, today won the seventh annual Reliability Race from Rocky River to Put-in-Bay and return, 112 miles, for the William E. Scripps $5,000 trophy and a cash prize. The race, which was for cruisers slower than fourteen miles an hour, was on a handicap basis. Fourteen of the sixteen boats which started finished.

Several of the contestants were stopped by Government rum-chasers, which searched them for liquor. None was found.

Review--THE WEEK IN SPORTS--Outlook

TENNIS

Tennis players and officials and the tennis public will heartily commend the stand taken by the Executive Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association in meeting the issue of the "paid interview." Its decision, that the giving of interviews by players on tournaments in which they participate is, for the purposes of the amateur rule, no different from the actual writing of reports on these tournaments, was the only one it could have reached and retained its self-respect. To have compromised would have nullified the value of the new amateur rule. The national association owed it to those non-partisan members of the committee who gave themselves so wholeheartedly and devotedly to settling the player-writer controversy of 1924 to stand unequivocally behind the provisions of the new rule formulated by them. This they did, and let full credit be given them for their courage.

It took courage to offer the national champion the alternative of stopping his new practice or lose his standing as an amateur. Without Tilden on the Davis Cup team our chances of successfully defending the trophy would be greatly reduced. This fact had no influence on the Executive Committee. There was a principle at stake and between the cup and the principle the officials did not for a moment hesitate in choosing. Their stand will win the respect and loyalty of the tennis public that it deserves.

The defeat of Miss Helen Wills at Seabright has come like a bolt out of a clear sky. So impressive were the performances of the women's national champion at Boston and Manchester that it was not thought there was any player in the world, with the exception of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, capable of winning from her. Miss Elizabeth Ryan, who dispelled this illusion, is not a newcomer, and it can be said that her triumph did not entirely surprise close followers of the game. For the last two years she has been looked upon as the only player abroad able to cope at all with Mlle. Lenglen, from whom she took a set at Wimbledon in 1924, and her victories over Miss Mary Browne and Miss Eleanor Goss at Seabright gave some inkling of what was to come when she met Miss Wills.

While the condition of the court, heavy from the rain of the night before, favored Miss Ryan's style of game, the downfall of Miss Wills is not to be attributed to this alone. The champion met a different brand of opposition from any she had been up against before, and she was not capable of adapting herself to it. She thrives on the speed of Mrs. Mallory and other American players, but the baffling mixture of pace resorted to by Miss Ryan confused her and broke up her game.

Miss Ryan, who returns home after an absence of thirteen years abroad, will be a dangerous contender for the national title. The vigor and versatility of her play, which more closely approaches that of the men than does the game of any other woman in this country, makes her one of the most interesting players who ever stepped on an American court.

BOXING

The boxing world may not see a world's heavyweight championship fight or even a heavyweight battle of any importance this year; but at least it can be satisfied that it is viewing a spectacle as bewildering and fantastic as any the ring game has ever known. Indeed, events in the Jack Dempsey-Harry Wills controversy have recently taken such bizarre turns that it is to be doubted whether those actually involved in this odd drama of staging what may be a two-million-dollar fight know themselves just where it all will end.

Although the skeptical have been insisting that the bout never will be arranged, those belonging to the more optimistic portion of the public had believed, even confidently expected, that something definite would occur tomorrow when our State Athletic Commission convenes. This date, Aug. 4, somehow had begun to take on a species of charmed significance for the good believers, for everything and anything holding the slightest connection with the case had been piling up for days on the Aug. 4 calendar. Dempsey, departing for the West on the eve of the day he was to sign formal articles in the East, had assured everybody he would be here Aug. 4 to settle the whole thing. Jack Kearns also was expected. Everybody was expected. Aug. 4, indeed, began to look as if it might crack under the strain.

But with Aug. 4 close at hand the skeptics are beginning to feel more certain in their stand, while the good believers are beginning to have their doubts. Aug. 4 may turn out to be only another day. Dempsey, for one, will not be here. The champion wired the commission the other day that his business of settling his differences with his erstwhile mentor and present tormentor, Kearns, would occupy his time on the Coast for many weeks. This, he explains, "involves a lot of money," and a champion hardly can be expected to give his attention to the business of protecting his jaw against the well-aimed blows of a challenger at a time when he feels he must guard the more vulnerable regions of his pocketbook. And Kearns, addressing no one in particular and the world in general, also has let it be known he will not be here.

As a consequence tomorrow's session of the commission is almost certain to be another one of much business left unfinished in the case of Jack Dempsey vs. Harry Wills. Which assures us, at least, that this entertaining drama, portraying the signing of a two-million-dollar fight, is not likely to come to a hurried and untimely end by some such overt act as the actual signing for the battle.

SWIMMING

The National A. A. U. swimming championships for men, concluded in Seattle on Saturday, were disappointing. Apart from the world's record performances of John Weissmuller of the Illinois A. C., at 100 yards free style and Walter Laufer of the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. at 220 yards back stroke, times were not nearly so fast as expected. Nor can conditions be blamed, for Weissmuller's remarkable century in 0:50 4-10 affords evidence that outward influences were favorable.

On the whole, results proved in accordance with predictions, but the complete failure of Laufer to display his true form in the free style events and the remarkable success of his teammate, Harry Glancy, came as great surprises. Laufer was counted upon to give Weissmuller a hard run for laurels at 440 and 880 yards and he rated favorite for the one-mile swim. Yet he did not figure in the former two races and he finished third in the one-mile test, though the time was comparatively slow. There is no explaining these facts, as the Ohio youth fully established his class in the indoor championships and subsequent competition.

Glancy, on the other hand, showed totally unlooked-for skill and versatility. His victories in the medley and one-mile swims were not anticipated, nor his defeat of Lester Smith of San Francisco at 440 yards free style. Actually Glancy would have won the all-around championship but for the practice of allotting points pro rata for the relay event. In the individual contests he garnered the highest total of 16 points, Peter Des Jardins of Miami and Weissmuller following with 15 each but the latter added 2½ points to his tally when the Illinois A. C. won the team race, and that enabled him to earn the crown.

This was the more unfortunate for Glancy in that the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. swimmers appeared almost certain of taking the relay race on previous performances and the fact that they were not placed at all indicates something must have occurred to put them out of the running. And it is worthy of note that had the Ohio four taken the event the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. would have won the team title and lowered the colors of the Illinois A. C., unbeaten in nearly twenty years.

Des Jardins fulfilled brilliantly the claims made for him and proved himself to be the greatest diver in the world by capturing the plain high, as well as the springboard and high fancy diving titles, while several comparative newcomers drew attention by gaining places, notably Albert Brainerd of the Chicago A. A. in breast stroke swimming; Martin Fadden of Seattle in high diving; Carl Stevenson of Stanford University at 880 yards free style and his fellow collegian, Arden Allen, in the medley.

BASEBALL

The August stage in baseball brings out the best and the worst in the disposition of the players. It is the period when the strain on the pennant-contending clubs becomes intense. In the American League this period is going to be the real test between the Athletics and Washington and in the National League between Pittsburgh and the Giants.

August usually brings forth numerous differences of opinion between players and umpires, to say nothing of generating gaps of unruly feeling among the players themselves. Tilts of delicate antagonism are not unusual even between managers and players during the torrid August spell.

John Evers, who in his heyday with the Peerless Cubs was noted for his crustacean tendencies, when asked his opinion about a ball player, would inquire: "How does he play in August? If he is irritable and has a chip on his shoulder, he is a good player."

The strain of the pennant race, the weather, the monotony of Pullman cars and the caustic pleasantries of hostile fans, all tend to exaggerate the August complex. Keyed to a high point of tension, the player whose heart is in his work is ready and willing to emit loud squawks at the drop of the hat. It is trying on the umpires, for they must play the rôle of peacemakers among the irritable ones, as well as maintain their own high estate of authority when the petulant are mobilized against them.

So do not be surprised if August brings forth belligerent doings on the ball field. The pennant races are unusually close this year and fans and players outside of influences of metropolitan culture see a chance of breaking the monopoly which New York has had on baseball pennants for many a day. The monopoly is already broken in the American League and Pittsburgh is striving as it has never striven before to smash it up in the National.

It all augurs well for a lively August in both leagues. Baseball fans delight in setting up baseball idols, so they can knock them down again. Violent partisanship often is quickly transformed into sentiment for the under dog.

As the two leagues hurdle into the August strife, it doesn't require a soothsayer to detect that there is sentiment by wholesale throughout fandom for Pittsburgh and Connie Mack's Athletics.

YACHTING

The success of the recent Larchmont-Gloucester race, in which twenty-five sailing yachts of various types crossed the starting line, attests the growing popularity of this long-distance sport. The days and nights on the salt water, the real ship life, with a dash of navigation now and then, have a charm for many of the yachtsmen which they do not get by racing in the great week-end regattas. So the Gloucester race drew a truly remarkable fleet. Schooners, sloops, yawls and ketches streamed over the line and fared away to the eastward on the long run of 250 miles to Eastern Point.

And it was a stanch and seaworthy fleet that took part, well-fitted and well-found vessels, ready to go almost anywhere, as long as the grub held out, each with a navigator on board to take her safely through fog or over an ocean course. On many of the twenty-five boats that sailed away there were all-amateur crews. This was especially true of Vice Commodore Mallory's excellent schooner Mystic, whose cook was none other than Rear Commodore George Gibbons of the American Yacht Club. None of the other yachts in the race could boast of a Rear Commodore for a cook.

It was a fine race and the fact that twenty-three of the yachts went over Nantucket Shoals, out to sea and around Cape Cod safely speaks well for the seamanlike way in which they were handled. The only mishaps were minor ones, Commodore Marsland's sloop Azor damaging her steering gear on an unmarked ledge off the Connecticut River and Robert N. Bavier's famous old yawl Tern, only recently in commission, being compelled to put in at Block Island.

Taking things by and large, the yachtsmen of Long Island Sound have seldom enjoyed as brilliant a season as this has been so far. On most racing days the Sound has been a place of superb pictures and glorious sport—and the cruise is yet to come.

TURF

The folly of opening the Saratoga meeting on the day following the close of sport at Empire City has been made apparent. There are thousands of persons whose lives are bound up in the daily routine of racing. Such cannot take a day or two off and for these there are only twenty-two hours between the running of the last race at Yonkers and the first of the Springs. For them the hurried journey is a hardship. It is also unfair to the two racing associations, suffering in decreased attendance on the last and first days, respectively. It would have been better in every way had the opening been delayed until Saturday. This, it is true, would have cut one day from the Saratoga meeting. But racing opinion probably would show a large majority in favor of limiting the stay at the Spa to four full weeks, twenty-four racing days, instead of the present twenty-six.

Sooner or later there will have to be a complete revision of the racing dates in New York State, more especially if the proposed Massapequa project becomes a reality. There are only two modern plants in operation here, and only at these two is there any attempt made to combine the beautiful with the utilitarian. The others are ugly and antiquated and little is being done to improve them except an annual coat of paint. Steel and concrete construction is necessary for safety and convenience. Modern race courses should be welcome, for the old will be doomed, if not by the inexorable march of building then by inevitable lack of patronage.

Fortunate indeed it was that Cleopatra was not afflicted when influenza swept Sun Briar Court two years ago. Otherwise we would never have had the opportunity of hailing Pompey as The Great. He may go on to fight it out with Friar's Carse for the juvenile championship, now that Galetian has been retired for the year. Sun Briar's bay son already leads the two-year-olds in total winnings, five first and one second moneys having brought in $20,300 to the Shoshone Stable.

The deplorable three-year-old situation was reflected in the running of the historic Miller Stakes, when three faced the barrier and the best of those named overnight remained in his barn because the track was a bit too heavy. Shades of Hamburg, Exterminator, Man o' War and others in the more than half a century of the running of the Miller! When all horsemen become sportsmen and thoroughbreds are not raced before their baby days are over we will not have the spectacle of Saratoga stables overflowing with cripples and three horses running in two races on a Saturday program.

GOLF

By retaining possession of the Canadian open championship at Lambton, Toronto, last week Leo Diegel kept the homebred golfers on even footing with the foreign-born professionals. The count now stands three and three so far as the major championships are concerned, although the victories of the adopted sons outshine those of the natives in that they are somewhat more significant. The foreign-born contingent, represented by Willie Macfarlane and Jim Barnes, have captured the American and the British open titles, which are the outstanding major fixtures, and Macfarlane won the Shawnee honors as well as the American open. To the homebreds have fallen the Metropolitan, Canadian and Pennsylvania open titles, Gene Sarazen having captured the Metropolitan, Diegel the Canadian and Joe Turnesa the Pennsylvania.

The Canadian open championship, which a few years ago counted for little, has now developed into an event overshadowed only by the American and the Western open affairs. The fields have been getting stronger and larger every year. This year at Toronto there were at least twenty players qualified to carry away the title. It was a fine championship from start to finish—well played, well contested, well arranged and played over an excellent course.

The pairing of Diegel and Hagen together for the last two rounds was a bit hard on both, and the wisdom of doing so is debatable. Being so nearly equal in scores, it meant that they were battling one another throughout. It put an additional strain on each and it made it a possibility for some one else to have come from behind as winner while they were doing their level best to "kill" one another. The purpose, obviously, was to furnish the gallery with a treat and to attract a gate. But it concentrated the gallery on one pair and not only worked a hardship on them, but also on others who were playing either immediately ahead or behind the two leaders.

It certainly wrecked Hagen, and how near it came to costing Diegel his championship was apparent when he finished only a couple of strokes ahead of M. J. Brady. Indeed, if it had not been for a 7 at one hole in the morning round Brady and Diegel might have tied.

The size of the gallery at Lambton, nearly ten miles out of Toronto and accessible only by motor, proved that golf has the same hold on the Canadians that it has on the Americans. There must have been fully 2,000 spectators there on the final day who paid $1 each for the privilege of walking ten miles to marvel at the skill of the gifted linksmen. Judged by present day standards of attendance at baseball, football and boxing events, 2,000 is a mere handful, but if the gladiators in these sports ran all over the country like harriers, if comfortable seating facilities were not provided, a golf gallery of 2,000 might not appear as puny and insignificant as it does when compared with the 100,000 attendance figures for the sedentary sports.

HOPPE WILL PLAY HAGENLACHER TODAY

Starts 18.2 Balkline Season Here With 2,400-Point Match—Maturo in Action.

The balkline season will get away to an early start this season, for Willie Hoppe, former holder of the world's 18.2 championship, will open a 2,400-point match against Erich Hagenlacher, champion of Germany, at the Fourteenth Street Academy this afternoon. The match will be played in eight blocks of 300 points each. Each player has posted a forfeit, which, together with a guarantee put up by William A. Rosenbaum, promoter of the match, as well as the gate receipts, will form the purse, which will be divided on a 75 and 25 per cent. basis.

Albert G. Cutler, former national junior champion and a noted billiard official, has been selected to referee the match. The afternoon blocks will start at 3 o'clock and the night games at 8 o'clock.

James Maturo has signed to meet Everett Ingraham of Springfield, Mass., holder of the New England States pocket billiard title, in a 500-point billiard match, to be played in five blocks of 100 points each, starting at Kreuter's Academy tonight. The final block will be played on Friday night.

Shade on Coast for Schoell Bout.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP).—Dave Shade, contender for the welterweight boxing title, arrived today from New York for a ten-round bout with Frankie Schoell in the San Francisco ball park Aug. 6.

MAIA II. WINS YACHT RACE.

Leads Star Class Craft in Central Fleet Final Trial on Sound.

Maia II, the property of F. T. Bedford, won the final trial race for the Central Long Island Sound Star Class fleet off the Pequot Yacht Club yesterday and probably will be selected to represent the Central Association in the international races which will be held early in September.

William McHugh, who flew the colors of the association in the races last year, finished second in the trials yesterday with his O Sol. After the yachtsmen came in, he and Bedford talked over the performances of their two craft and McHugh stated that he liked the behavior of Maia II better than that of O Sol, so, even though official confirmation is pending, it seems quite likely that the Bedford craft will get the call.

WINTERS CAPTURES 2 BIKE TITLE RACES

Wins State Honors in Mile and 10-Mile Road Events—Qualifies for National Contests.

BRESNAN IS JUNIOR VICTOR

Clips Second Off Own American Mark for Mile and Will Compete in the U. S. Championships.

Charles Winters, the present national amateur road champion, riding for the Century Road Club of America in the New York State championships at Ocean Parkway yesterday, qualified to represent the New York district in the national event to be held at St. Louis this Fall. Winters won the mile and 10-mile senior events, finished third in the 5-mile unpaced race and fourth in the dash at one-third of a mile, for a total of 13 points, as against 9 for Walter Kraus of the New Crescent Wheelmen, winner of the sprint, and 6 for Walter Ward, Acme Wheelmen, who took third by beating Reinhold Heil, Century Association R. C., in an unpaced mile match to decide that place.

Junior district honors, with the chance to compete for the national junior title, went to Walter Bresnan, Century Association Road Club, who nipped Jimmy Walthour, nephew of the six-day star, by one point in the totals, 15 to 14.

The races yesterday, which were conducted by the Amateur Bicycle League of America, were the culmination of a series of local events, and the winners, both New York City men, competed against riders from Rochester, Buffalo and other up-State centres. The greatest thrill of the day was contributed in the 10-mile senior event when Winters nosed out Ward by two inches, with Telino Celano of the Acme Wheelmen a foot further back.

W. Bresnan, in the mile unpaced race for juniors, chipped one second off his own American junior road record for the distance, finishing in 2:21 4-5. Last year he finished third in the junior events at Chicago.

The summaries:

Senior Events.

One-third Mile New York State Championship—Won by Walter Kraus, New Crescent Wheelmen; A. Haarstick, Empire City Wheelmen, second; Fred Engel, Empire City Wheelmen, third; Charles Winters, Century Road Club of America, fourth. Time—0:51 2-5.

One Mile New York State Championship—Won by Charles Winters, Century R. C. of America; Walter Kraus, New Crescent Wheelmen, second; Telino Celano, Acme Wheelmen, third; Reinhold Heil, Century Association R. C., fourth. Time—2:05.

Ten-Mile New York State Championship—Won by Charles Winters, Century R. C. of America; Walter Ward, Acme Wheelmen, second; Telino Celano, Acme Wheelmen, third; Walter Kraus, New Crescent Wheelmen, fourth. Time—31:02.

Five-Mile New York State Championship, Unpaced—Won by Reinhold Heil, Century Association R. C., time—12:12 5-10; Walter Ward, Acme Wheelmen, second, 12:21 2-5; Charles Winters, Century R. C. of America, third, 12:37 2-5; H. Fischer, unattached, fourth, 12:48 2-5.

Point Score—Winters 13, Kraus 9, Ward 6, Heil 6, Celano 4, Haarstick 3, Engel 2, Fischer 1.

Junior Events.

(Under 16 years.)

One-Quarter Mile New York State Championship—Won by Jimmy Walthour, Century Road Club of America; Walter Bresnan, Century Association Road Club, second; O. Altonen, Acme Wheelmen, third; Jimmy Bresnan, Century Association Road Club, fourth. Time—0:38 3-5.

One-Half Mile New York State Championship—Won by J. Bresnan, Walthour second, W. Bresnan third, Altonen fourth. Time—1:35 2-5.

Two-Mile New York State Championship—Won by W. Bresnan, Walthour second, H. Diamond, Acme Wheelmen, third; Altonen fourth. Time—6:44.

One-Mile New York State Championship, Unpaced—Won by W. Bresnan, time—2:21 4-5; Walthour second, 2:23 4-5; Frank Turano, Acme Wheelmen, third, 2:31 2-5; Altonen fourth, 2:32 3-5.

Point score—Walter Bresnan 15, Walthour 14, Jimmy Bresnan 6, Altonen 4, Diamond 2, Turano 2.

ORSER WINS NET TITLE.

Beats Sagalowsky in Indiana Final —Thomas Takes Boys' Crown.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 2 (AP).—Proteges of William Tilden triumphed in four of the final matches of the Indiana State tennis tournament today.

Horace Orser, New York, 19-year-old national indoor junior champion, defeated Julius Sagalowsky, Indianapolis, in the singles, 6—4, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5. In the boys' final, Walter Thomas, Elmora, N. J., a second pupil of the national champion, overwhelmed Benjamin Brouster, Indianapolis, 6—0, 6—1. Donald Strachan, Germantown, Pa., won the junior singles from George Halloway, Glencoe, Ill., 6—4, 6—3, 6—0, and Strachan and Thomas defeated Bud Markley and Kenny Christena, Indianapolis, in the junior doubles, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4.

3 U. S. TRACK STARS SET 4 MARKS ABROAD

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Three American track stars broke records at Ibrox Park, Glasgow, when the Glasgow Rangers, a football club, held their annual sports yesterday. Ray Dodge of the Illinois Athletic Club finished second in the 1,000-yard handicap. He ran from scratch and conceded too great a handicap to the victor. Dodge's time of 2:13 3-5 broke the Scotch all-comers record, which was made by A. C. Hill, and also lowered the British record of 2:14 4-5, made by W. E. Lutyens in 1908.

Harold M. Osborn, another member of the I. A. C. team which is on a European tour, made 6 feet 6½ inches in the high jump, thus breaking his own British record of 6 feet 5¾ inches, made at Greenock on the previous Saturday.

The third American winner was Ivan H. Riley, who took the 120-yard high hurdles in 0:15 3-5, lowering the Scottish all-comers record. The fourth American, H. R. Evans, was beaten by A. Robb, a Glasgow runner.

PRO. FOOTBALL HERE OCT. 11

New York and Philadelphia to Play First League Game in City.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP).—The 1925 playing schedule of the National Football League, including twenty-one clubs in as many cities from Providence, R. I., to Kansas City, Mo., was completed here today at a meeting called by J. F. Carr of Columbus, Ohio, President of the league. The season will open Sept. 27 and close Dec. 20.

Five clubs have been added to the professional football circuit this year. They are Providence, R. I.; New York, Pottsville, Pa.; Detroit, Mich., and Canton, Ohio. Professional football will make its first appearance in New York, under the league rules, Oct. 11, at the Polo Grounds in a game between New York and the Franklin Club, Philadelphia.

COAL AND PRINCIPLE.

Prime Minister BALDWIN is attacked for his method of averting the English coal strike. If he had not succeeded in averting it, he would have been much more sharply attacked. His position was difficult. Where private negotiation had absolutely broken down, he was called upon to intervene as the head of the Government. But beyond persuasion and appeal the Government had no clear power to compel a settlement. Yes, there was one thing it could do. It could offer a bribe to both sides. The miners were to continue to receive their high wages and, if this meant a loss to the mine owners, the Government would make up the difference out of the Treasury. Although Mr. BALDWIN had recently said that it was out of the question for the Government to subsidize the coal industry, he consented to do it temporarily. On these terms an armed truce was patched up.

What it will cost in money no one seems to know. The estimates vary from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. As a matter of cold business alone, the settlement is cheap at either figure. Had the threat of a strike been executed, with many other labor unions drawn in, the losses would have greatly outstripped any sum that may now have to be paid to keep coal mining going for nine months. But, of course, the question rises far above pounds, shillings and pence. People in England are concerned over the principle involved. If the coal industry must be subsidized, why not the railways? "Why not shipbuilding and the manufacture of steel? It is feared that the Prime Minister has set his feet upon a path to which there is no end. Some of his stoutest party supporters are gravely troubled by what he has done. At the other extreme, the organs of the radical labor party are gloating over him. They triumphantly assert that he has made one great "surrender" which inevitably will be followed by another and another until the entire program of the nationalization of industry is accepted and put into effect.

This by no means follows, given the nature of English political thinking and English government. WALTER BAGEHOT years ago thanked God that his fellow-countrymen were not "logical" in applying principles to the public business. They have not since become so. Because they have said A it does not in the least occur to them that they are bound next to say B. Each tub on its own bottom and the rule of thumb for each new case are good enough principles for English public men. If they were doctrinaires, driven ahead by their own logic, the alarmist predictions now heard about the onward sweep of nationalization in England might be warranted. But they are not, in the judgment of those who best know the tough-minded English. They will resist each logical inference as it arises, will deny that it is logical at all, or that even if it is it is binding upon free-born and individualistic Britons. Great Britain is not going to make a clean jump into Sovietism.

Yet the English Government cannot neglect to make ready for one obvious duty now thrust upon it. The Prime Minister has won for it only a breathing space. Within that period it must prepare for what will come after. While the Government is giving a temporary tonic to the sick industry, a skilled and scientific inquiry into the nature of the disease from which English coal is suffering is to be carried on. When the report is ready next Spring, the Government ought to be in a position to drop makeshifts and to press forward with a definite and permanent policy. Moreover, it must seek to arm itself with legal power to deal with a nation-wide strike not only in coal mining but in transportation and engineering services, in shipbuilding and the textile trades. For, behind the immediate threat of a coal strike, there stood visible to the eyes of Mr. BALDWIN the menace of the one big union quitting work and paralyzing the industrial and commercial life of England. The Government has been and is now without weapons to meet such an emergency. They surely ought to be provided before another emergency of the same kind lifts its head.

The Government will be neglectful of the public interest, derelict in its own duty, if it does not go to Parliament, lay all the facts before it, and ask for laws to deal with men and organizations that profess to be more powerful than the Government. England might imitate Canadian legislation and make it a penal offense to strike in any basic industry until after a resort has been had to arbitration and all the facts have been authoritatively laid before the public. In this or some other fashion the Government must demand that it be lifted out of its present helplessness. It is not a mere question of principle or a canon of logic, but a matter of self-preservation. If the very life of the Government is threatened, it is bound to take measures to show that it will be able to maintain its right both to live and to govern.

TAMMANY IMPERTINENCE.

From the Mayor's point of view, the questions which the Tammany leaders are demanding that he answer must seem the height of impudence, almost of sacrilege. His divine right to be Mayor for four years more is daringly challenged by unbelievers! Under the circumstances, the restraint which he has thus far manifested is as admirable as it was unexpected. He might so easily have dropped from his ordinary tone of studied courtesy and said something a little impolite. But perhaps he is only amused at the Tammany inquiries. Is he a "regular" Democrat? Well, by this time he must feel that the city knows whom he is regularly for. Then as to that matter of pledging himself to abide by the result of the Democratic Mayoralty primary, if he decides to go into it. This might appear at first sight to be a huge joke. Don't the Tammany men know that he will carry all primaries and elections and straw votes by uncounted millions? It is almost lèse-majesté, almost an insult to the people's friend and choice, to doubt for a moment that he would gladly submit himself to any conceivable test of his popularity.

Strangely enough, the Mayor and his political advisers do seem to be in doubt as to what they ought to do. It is hinted that they are doing a good deal of agonized telegraphing to the master of the Enchanted Hill ranch in California. If there is to be a third ticket in the Mayoralty campaign under Hearst auspices, it is important to find out whether this should be under the guise of bolting from a corrupt Democratic primary—ipso facto corrupt if Hylan loses. Might it not be better for the Mayor to wash his hands in advance of all wicked politicians, and just cast himself direct and trustingly upon the bosom of his beloved people? We shall not know until the oracle has spoken. But all can see how unfair it is to the Mayor to ask him to say anything except that he is for the five-cent fare and against all rich oppressors of the poor unless they happen to be doing their oppressing on his side.

AMPHIOXUS POLITICUS.

We should hate to call our long-esteemed contemporary, The Springfield Republican, a Malignant; but is it amiable or right or "supporting COOLIDGE" to say of Senator BUTLER's beautiful speech to the Essex County Republican Club that "few people will read it at this season"? In all seasons the good read and perpend the infallible old Republican doctrine which Mr. BUTLER repeats. We can still hear the cheers of the "1,000 Republican leaders" of Essex as he praised to the skies, from which it sprang, the protective tariff. It is the unfailing fertile mother of prosperity. He hymned it as "DICK" OGLESBY used to hymn "the blood-stained, battle-born greenback." To a Fundamentalist like Mr. BUTLER these Modernist observations of Hampden County are not merely distressing; they are blasphemous:

> Have Massachusetts residents failed to notice the wage cuts recently ordered by the American Woolen Company? The newspaper organ of cotton manufacturers in a certain mill town has lately been begging all the women of New England to "buy one cotton dress a year" in order to mitigate the cotton textile depression. The present textile schedule was drafted just as manufacturers like Mr. BUTLER wanted it—and behold the result. This does not seem to be a highly propitious time to "sell" the tariff as the main prop of our industrial welfare.

One is almost surprised that the bold blasphemer didn't add to the sacrilege by mentioning that the inability of the American Woolen Company to earn dividends in 1924 was caused in part by the steep duties on raw wool, which caused prices so high for the manufactured product as to choke demand. These things are nothing to the true believer, and the tariff is now more than ever a "sell." The Malignant—faithful are the wounds of a friend—thinks that "perhaps what Mr. BUTLER said in his speeches is of minor consequence," because the supreme words of power, "COOLIDGE wants BUTLER," should be an irresistible magic, transcending even the tariff, in 1926. As reverent collectors of the treasures of political speech, we must defend, because we love, Mr. BUTLER's hallowed wisdom. In the grand old style of the Grand Old Party he cries that "practically all legislation of a constructive character in the past sixty-five years has been enacted by Republican Congresses." The date changes. The glorious truth is but enlarged.

We seem to be in a Massachusetts Republican State Convention of forty-five years ago. Instead of Mr. BUTLER some earlier trumpet of orthodoxy, say Representative MARTIN I. TOWNSEND of our Troy, is blowing sonorously. With a quickening of the historic sense, with respect, almost with affection, be it said: Mr. BUTLER is the choicest specimen of the Political Amphioxus now on view. His opinions are "sound." If to independent Republicans and the pernicious brood of tariff reformers they look queer, what of it? Can they resist the compulsive charm of "Support COOLIDGE"? In the words of WILLIAM, the Commanding General and Conqueror, "to make 1924 effective we [he] must win in 1926." That settles it. We dismiss as mere Mugwump jaundice the Republican theory that "Mr. BUTLER'S attractiveness in the election to voters who feel free to jump party lines—and the outcome must hinge upon their action—will not be increased by partisan bunkum."

THE WORK OF APPEASEMENT.

The last French and Belgian troops left the Ruhr on July 31, thus ending the occupation which began on Jan. 10, 1923. Technically, this completes the obligations incurred by the Allies at the London Conference in 1924 in connection with the acceptance of the Dawes plan. It will be recalled that it was there agreed that part of the price which the Allies were to pay for Germany's agreement to fulfill the Dawes plan was that the Ruhr occupation should cease within the year. The Allies, however, have decided to go even further and begin today to prepare the evacuation of Duisburg, Ruhrort and Düsseldorf, all of which were occupied in March, 1921, following German defaults on deliveries in kind. There seems little doubt that when this is completed on Aug. 15 arrangements will be made for the evacuation of the entire Cologne area. Thus the year 1925 sees large sections of occupied German territory returned to her sovereignty.

The significance of this can best be grasped by going back to the events that preceded the occupation of the Ruhr and recalling the tension that existed between Germany and the Allies in the Spring of 1921. Germany, at a conference to discuss reparation payments in London, brought down upon herself a bitter denunciation from Mr. LLOYD GEORGE in the name of the Allies. They cited chapter and verse of her offenses and charged her with deliberate intention of evading the treaty. The conference broke up with the announcement of the Allies that in view of Germany's bad faith they had decided to occupy Duisburg, Ruhrort and Düsseldorf, all of them important Rhine ports at the mouth of the Ruhr basin. During the following days the French troops marched in. Tension between the Allies and Germany became ever more acute, despite the temporizing policy which LLOYD GEORGE adopted for a change. In January, 1923, came the advance into the Ruhr. Germany's bitterness reached its highest point.

Today not only are the relations between France and Germany friendly, but the Allies, instead of proceeding to further sanctions of force, are making it clear that they consider that the days of the "big stick" are over. The old hatreds are being buried and there is greater tolerance on all sides. Herein lies the greatest promise of a genuine European peace. So long as the Allies were prepared to use harsh measures on the slightest provocation and Germany continued to make use of every opportunity of evading her rightful obligations there was small hope for any permanent adjustment. The new spirit is marked by a keener appreciation of essential facts on the part of the Germans and a greater willingness on the part of the Allies to see that those clauses of the Versailles Treaty which cannot be literally interpreted must be modified by mutual consent, without recrimination or undue suspicion.

The moral effect of the evacuation of Ruhrort, Duisburg and Düsseldorf is sure to be large. There has been very natural elation in Germany at the departure of the troops from the Ruhr. Fortunately, no untoward incidents have occurred, nor has either side been guilty of unnecessarily arousing the passions of the other. As German territory continues to be evacuated the immediate causes for German animosity toward the Allies will disappear. So long as she holds to her side of the bargain and continues to make every effort in good faith to carry out her obligations, she is certain to find that the war will be gradually forgotten and that the old distrust of her will disappear. Her future rests entirely in her own hands. On her good faith rests her credit and her ability to restore friendship with other nations.

THE NEW SALIC LAW.

If the idea is still to have a LA FOLLETTE in the Senate of the United States, it is a mistake for Mrs. LA FOLLETTE to refuse to try to succeed the Senator. There is nothing whatever in that old Salic law, "In terram Salicam mulieres ne succedant"—or, as Shakespeare blank-versed it,

> No woman shall succeed in Salique land.

This is the United States of America, and more united than ever by votes for women—though in a manner which few could have foreseen, especially protagonists of woman suffrage. The intrepid and heroic ALICE PAUL is working, harmoniously if obscurely, with the statesmanlike if somewhat subacid Mrs. CATT to "mop up," as we used to say, after the victory. They are doing the light housekeeping of suffrage. But those women who are in the political limelight have "succeeded" in an entirely different manner—Governor NELLIE ROSS of Wyoming; Governor "MA" or MIRIAM FERGUSON of Texas; Congresswoman-elect EDITH ROGERS of Massachusetts. We have revised the Salic law:

> All widows shall succeed in Yankee land.

In the Wisconsin case the call was so strong as to seem irresistible. Labor unions presented petitions. Members of the State Legislature, wishing to avoid whatever doubt or inconvenience might lie in a political campaign, started a movement to have the law revised so that the succession might be decided by an appointment from Governor BLAINE, whose discretion is to be relied on. And this was no light motion of masculine gallantry. The National Woman's Party, representing women of all the warring factions, was insistent in its appeal. Mrs. LA FOLLETTE is known throughout the Middle West as a writer of ability, a vigorous and persuasive speaker. But she steadfastly refused. It was feared that she would from the start, for ROBERT LA FOLLETTE Jr. had his eye on the Senate. Clearly, we have something to learn about this new Salic law. That very Arcadian richness of heart which dictated it may sometimes be its undoing—the conviction that woman's place is in the home and that the place of home is in office. Home has mothers as well as wives. Not lightly, but with reverence, must we deal with American sentiment in politics.

There is now no question in Wisconsin of revising the law so that the son may be appointed over the heads of the people. Former Governor McGOVERN has entered the political lists, as has also former State Senator WILCOX. Senator LENROOT made a flying trip from Washington to urge unity among Wisconsin Republicans so that President COOLIDGE may have a much-needed supporter. "I feel confident," he said, "that a strong candidate with the endorsement of the Republicans of the State will win." Uxorious Americans may be, but when it comes to mere man the politician is himself again. It would be a rash prophet who ventured to predict. Yet the young man may in the end be elected as the son of his mother.

SUNLIGHT AND PLAYGROUNDS.

In reviewing the annual report of Sir GEORGE NEWMAN to the Ministry of Health in England concerning "the physical state of the nation," The London Observer calls attention to two lay movements that are of utmost importance in supplementing the work of the doctor. One of these is what we call in this country "daylight saving." It is there called "Summer time." The British Medical Association has just given its professional approval of this added hour of sunlight. However, until two things are done the community cannot be said to be supporting its medical experts. One of these two things is adding the daily hour of sunlight permanently for six months in the year, or at least five months. This is purely for health reasons—and they should take precedence of all others. Standard time has greatly promoted the convenience of the world, but that system should be practicable without robbing people in certain longitudes and latitudes of their maximum of sunlight.

The other of these two things is the providing of what the English call "playing fields." This word suggests always the victory that was won on the playing fields of Eton. But what the London editor has in mind is not the ball field or tennis court of what we should call a private school. It is a playground "for every elementary school in the country." It is on such public playing fields, it may in WELLINGTON's phrase be said, that the victories over ill health are won by millions in America and may be won by millions more when the full provision is made. Not only should every elementary school have its playground, in city and country, but every community should have its grounds for those who are beyond the school period and yet have as great need of what play can give them as those who are children in years.

When, however, JOSEPH LEE of Boston, under whose leadership playgrounds in America and Canada have been increased to more than 8,000, was asked a few weeks ago what had been his chief motive throughout, he said that it wasn't primarily to promote health. He wanted to get people more interested in play just for the sake of the game. This, included every form of recreation. It meant a fuller, richer life. But whatever varied forms it takes, it begins with the play of the child, who isn't thinking of health, but to whose health in childhood and after years play is essential.

And daylight saving, or Summer time, not only makes possible better working conditions for millions, especially in the cities; it gives more daylight time for the playing fields. These are, as the London editor suggests, the two things that communities can and should do: get all the sunlight possible into the working day and give that day a sunlit margin for play at the end of it. Incidentally it will promote health. That is a by-product, but the time will come in most lives when the by-product will be of more value than the immediate object of the game. A survey relative to the needs of "existing playgrounds" is proceeding under the direction of the Board of Estimate. But what of additional playgrounds? Until every child has a place to play in this great city, the community will not have done its full part for the happiness of the child today and its health in after life.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Two Authorities Completely in Agreement. A special importance attached to an article in THE NEW YORK TIMES Book Review yesterday. It was the one by Dr. FRANCIS CARTER WOOD on Dr. CHARLES P. CHILDE'S book, "Cancer and the Public." On the one hand, Dr. CHILDE stands in the very front ranks of those who, in England, have devoted years of study to the malady which is, perhaps, the most terrible by which humanity is afflicted, while, on the other, Dr. WOOD holds a like position in this country, having been for many years a high authority in this field, and for much of the time at the head of the work done by means of the Charles Crocker Special Research Fund, under the auspices of Columbia University.

The book asserts, and the reviewer repeated, that cancer at first always is a strictly local disease and always curable by the surgeon's knife—if the patient comes to him in time. And both declare in the strongest terms that there is no other cure by any other means known or in sight.

This is the next to unanimous belief of the medical profession in all countries; and while it would be rash, of course, to say that never will there be another remedy than the early application of the knife, to see or to feel in any part of the body the nodule which is the beginning of every cancer, and not to take instant steps to have it extirpated, is a sort of suicide.

Unfortunately, it is only the more superficial cancers that can be recognized easily and early. In the deeper tissues, when the cancer is made known by the pain that comes only in its later stages, the case too often is desperate, though it is not invariably hopeless. Much progress has been made in recent years in educating the public as to the vital need of prompt resort to surgery, yet much remains to be done, for, wrote Dr. WOOD, "in the most intelligent communities scarcely 20 per cent. of the cancer patients have a fighting chance when they reach the physician." The percentage of curable cases, however, now is much better than this in regard to certain kinds of cancer.

Rustic, but Far From Honest. In the news that eleven more or less eminent citizens of Cortland County, this State, have been indicted, some of them on several counts, for deliberate and habitual violation of the law as it affects their tuberculous cows, there is a reminder of a tale from a rural county in Ohio. There the sin committed was not the selling or concealing of tuberculous cows, but refusal to vote unless paid to do so. The communities in the two cases were about the same—literate folk of the old stock, but seemingly without the rudiments of the power to discriminate between right and wrong.

It must not be forgotten, of course, that the farmers, ex-Sheriffs and others in Cortland County are only accused of crime, not yet convicted of it. Therefore the presumption of innocence is still theirs. Individuals among the accused may be guiltless, but it is hardly possible that they all are—hardly possible that there has not been committed in the county, for sordid profits by a considerable number of persons, a crime that endangered the lives of many people and caused the death of some.

The man who knowingly sells either the milk or the flesh of cows afflicted with tuberculosis is guilty of something very much like murder. In these days there is no excuse for him, and in a region like Cortland County, where information on the subject of bovine tuberculosis necessarily is possessed by every dairyman and farmer and by almost every villager, there can be no mitigating circumstances.

Earthquakes and the Oil Fields. According to an elaborate report just made by the Engineering-Economics Foundation, there is a relation between American earthquakes and deposits of petroleum. At any rate, a map of the recent earthquakes and of the oil fields shows that the former have centred in the latter and nowhere else. There must be some significance in that fact, but as the basis of a theory it evidently must be used with much caution, for many earthquake countries and regions have no oil deposits. There hardly can be, consequently, the relation of cause and effect from either of them to the other.

The Engineering-Economics Foundation's report does not say that the oil causes the earthquakes or is caused by them; it only notes that the two go together in the United States and urges that the managers of the enormously important oil industries utilize for the protection of those industries, including their pipe lines, all the available knowledge with respect to earthquake risks.

That clearly is good advice, but men everywhere are slow to take expensive precautions against unpredictable dangers that become real only at long intervals of time. They quite calmly live on the slopes of volcanoes that have scattered devastation broadcast and may do so again. Already, to illustrate this peculiarity for the thousandth time, a new town is growing up at the foot of Mont Pelée, in Martinique, on the site of St. Pierre, where, well within the memory of people not yet old, the entire population of the city, some 25,000 persons, were killed almost instantaneously by a blast of burning gases from a volcano long held to be "extinct."

Charging a Fee Advised. One of THE TIMES's readers suggested in a letter printed on this page that the financial difficulties of our Public Library could be removed and the institution be made self-supporting if a small fee were charged for each book taken from it. There is something to be said on both sides of that question, but probably the prevailing opinion will be against taking the course advised.

That great good comes from putting the books in a great public library at the disposal of all and without price cannot be denied. What was denied, however, and was by THE TIMES's correspondent, is that there would be anything anomalous in charging a fee or that its imposition would be a hardship on a public that spends freely for movies and other even less edifying sources of entertainment.

It might be added that if people paid something, though only a little, for the books taken from the Public Library, they would be more careful of them and not wear them out, as now, with a speed that is proof that they are subjected to outrageous treatment by many of the library's patrons. It would be interesting to know how much, if any, longer the books in libraries that do charge fees last than do those from free libraries.

ORIGIN OF THE ARMENIAN.

Authorities Are Cited Declaring Him of European Stock.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your friendly comment in "Topics of the Times" concerning the question of the eligibility of the Armenians for naturalization calls for these remarks.

Herodotus maintains that the Armenians were Phrygian colonists. Other Greek historians state that the Armenians went to Asia Minor from Thessaly in Northern Greece.

There are Asiatic Mongol races in Europe—for instance, the Magyars and the Finns; it would be strange if there were no Nordics, or at least pure Europeans, across the narrow water border in Asia Minor. Mr. Madison Grant, in "The Passing of the Great Race," writes:

"Eye color is of very great importance in race determination, because all blue, gray or green eyes in the world today came originally from the same source, namely, the Nordic race of Northern Europe. This light colored eye has appeared nowhere else on earth, and is a specialization of this sub-species of man only, and is consequently one of extreme value in the classification of European races." A great many Armenians have blue eyes and blond hair.

The New International Encyclopaedia, under Phrygian, says:

"The Phrygians were certainly an Indo-European race, and appear to have entered Asia Minor from Thrace. Herodotus (vii, 73) and Strabo (xivii, ccxcv) declare that the Phrygians were related to the Armenians and Thracians. * * * Hubschmann's investigations have shown that the Armenian is not an Iranian language, but belongs to an independent branch of the Indo-Germanic family, including the Thracian, the Phrygian, and possibly the Lydian and Mysian. * * * The Phrygians invaded Asia Minor about the twelfth century B. C."

Under the heading Armenians, the same encyclopedia says:

"The Armenians may have an admixture of Hittite blood. Professor F. von Luschan * * * also believes that from this same Armenoid race [Hittites] came the so-called Alpine race of Europe." The Armenians, therefore, are doubly linked with Europe: through the Greek Phrygians and the Alpine races of Europe.

According to a telegram to me from Judge Wallace McCamant, Portland, Ore., the scholarly opinion of Federal Judge Charles Edwin Wolverton "squarely holds that Armenians are of Caucasian and Alpine stock, regarded the world over as white people, and that they amalgamate readily with native American white stock."

Avenue A Buses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The bus line recently established on Avenue A and First Avenue was of great service to the people who live east of Second Avenue. In many cases it meant getting to work from five to fifteen minutes earlier.

It is natural that the Second Avenue line should resent the loss of its eastern patrons, but at present much of the ground must be covered twice for those of us who live near the East River, and we hope to have the Avenue A bus re-established.

INTERVAL.

Yes, Life, this is indeed
A charming ball,
The orchestra is good,
The floor just right—
I love the dancing,
I am happy, quite!
Strange—is it not?—
That I cannot recall
From where I came
Or why I came at all!
I dance and dance again—
But do not know
Where, when the dance is over,
I shall go . . .
Nor who will claim
Me when this interval
Is done . . .

The music haunts me—
Surely I
Have heard it long ago,
Somewhere, somewhere—
Yet it escapes
My memory, the air . . .
But I have known it well
In time gone by!

Well, what's the odds?
At least the ball is gay!
But my new partner comes
To claim me now
And I must go with him,
I cannot stay—
Our interval is over!
With a bow
He bends to me
And makes his smiling claim.
So awkward
That I can't recall his name!
Perhaps you know!
Tell me, under your breath—
Ah, so? Of course . . .
Now I remember—Death!

A LAWYER OUT OF COURT.

The Counsel for Sinnott & Canty Discourses on Newspaper Ethics.

Jackson, N. H., July 28, 1925.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am here on my vacation, removed from letter writing facilities. I just read your editorial "Mussolini in New York." The statement "If they (the newspapers) cannot print reports issued by responsible city officials for the information and guidance of the public they might as well quit printing anything" is quite interesting. Some time since the same "responsible city official" said of Mr. Berolzheimer, the City Chamberlain, that he is a "dirty German Jew." Did that justify the newspapers in printing, if they had done so, that the Chamberlain "is a dirty German Jew"?

The newspapers have ample privileges, and rightly so, to print the news. The conclusions of any city official are mere "news." The city official may believe that Sinnott & Canty have committed numerous crimes. Is it claimed that furnishes an excuse for printing that they have committed such crimes? Does any newspaper believe that when a child buys a bag of peanuts it pays toll to Sinnott & Canty? Suppose a Deputy Controller did believe or say such a thing, would it justify any newspaper in printing it as a fact under the guise that it is "news"? Are these men, then, helpless when day after day articles charging to them the commission of offenses and commercial dishonesty are printed, which are wholly false, merely because they are claimed to be "news"?

I have the utmost respect for THE TIMES and all the other papers. The freedom of the press is probably the most valuable asset of the American people. Nothing should be done to impair it. Nor should suits be lightly brought against the newspapers. In thirty-three years of active practice at the bar I have never before brought a libel suit against newspapers or individuals. I do not advise the commencement of a lawsuit as a joke with which to add to the gayety of nations on the eve of an election or at any other time. I regard a lawsuit as a serious matter. I advise its commencement only when I think it will meet with success. I may and often have been mistaken as to the result. But I never advise one as a gesture.

These actions have been instituted with the intent that each of them will be tried. I never entertained the idea that any newspaper would be deterred by a threat of legal proceedings, but I have always believed and still hope that newspapers regret that libelous matter has been printed for which there was no justification. Such it is my belief has been done to a most aggravating degree in this instance. If my belief is not well founded I am sure the verdicts will so establish. But it is to be borne in mind that all of the newspapers made defendants in these actions have had verdicts rendered against them in libel suits, so they must have printed libelous matter without justification.

MAX D. STEUER.

[The press would be abdicating one of its essential functions if it did not give publicity to matter in respect to which the public is entitled to information. THE TIMES holds it to be its duty to print charges affecting the public interest when they are made by a responsible officer as the result of investigations required by his official duties. Yet it would impartially open its columns to those concerned for any such explanation or reply as they sought to offer. If by following this course a technical offense against the law of libel is committed, that is a risk which THE TIMES is bound to incur. No self-respecting newspaper can permit a libel suit or the threat of one to act as a deterrent where the public interest is involved.—Ed. TIMES.]

Who Made the Fare Five Cents?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Contract 4, entered into the 19th day of March, 1913, between the City of New York, through the Public Service Commission, and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (B. R. T.—now known as the B. M. T.), on Page 1, among other things says:

"Whereas the Commission has determined that the public interests require the entering into a contract with the lessee (the B. R. T.) for the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of additional or proposed rapid transit railroads in conjunction with the existing railroads for a single fare; and

"Whereas the Board of Estimate has consented to and approved this contract * * *." And Part III, Chapter 1, Article 48, on page 59, among other things says:

"The city hereby leases the railroad and the equipment to the lessee, for operation in conjunction with the existing railroads for a single fare. The lease shall be for a term beginning on the first day of January, 1917, and expiring at midnight on the thirty-first day of December, 1965. * * *."

Part III, Chapter 3, Article 62, on page 71, among other things says:

"The lessee shall during the term of this contract be entitled to charge for a single fare upon the railroad and the existing railroads the sum of five (5) cents, but not more. * * *"

The signatories to the contract are as follows:

"Public Service Commission for the First District, by EDWARD E. McCALL, Chairman.
"Attest: TRAVIS H. WHITNEY.
"New York Municipal Railway Corporation, by T. S. WILLIAMS, President.
"In the presence of
"W. R. WILCOX,
"GEORGE McANENY.
"Approved as to form,
"ANDREW M. WILLIAMS,
"GEORGE D. YEOMANS."

Now, then, where does Mayor Hylan "come in" to vociferously say

"I kept the railroads from charging more than the five cents fare"?

The contract specifically says that the fare shall be "five (5) cents during the term of this contract," and the term of the contract is forty-eight (48) years from 1917.

Mayor Hylan has sought to help himself politically by giving the public the impression that he has kept the fares at five cents, which is absolutely not so. The foregoing is the true state of facts; and any one wishing to verify these statements can do so by a reading of the contract, which is on file.

DONATO CUZZO.

New York, July 28, 1925.

P. S. The same rate of fare, "five (5) cents but no more," is embodied in Interborough Rapid Transit Contract 3.

Appropriations for Our Library.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Books are keys to wisdom's treasures, books are paths to lands of pleasures," says the old rhyme.

Are the keys to be lost and the paths rendered inaccessible to thousands in our city through the action of the Board of Estimate in decreasing each year the appropriation for the New York Public Library?

In 1920 the appropriation for the circulation department was $127,500. This item has been systematically cut down until it reached $61,000 for the current year. The appropriation for next year will shortly be decided.

The vast amount of pleasure and profit afforded to the people of our city by the Public Library should certainly be brought to the attention of the members of the Board of Estimate without delay.

GIBBS DEFENDS PLAN TO SCRAP IDLE SHIPS

Operator Declares They Should Be Junked to Clear Way for Maritime Expansion.

WANTS PUBLIC INFORMED

If Fleet Is Sold Without Adequate Publicity, He Asserts, Voters Will Block New Programs.

William F. Gibbs of Gibbs Brothers, Inc., first operators of the Leviathan when the steamship entered the American merchant marine, issued a statement yesterday defending the proposal to scrap the idle wartime merchant ships, anchored in the Hudson River off Peekskill and elsewhere. Mr. Gibbs declared that while the vessels looked all right externally, they would not stand the strain of actual service, owing to their construction in emergency circumstances.

He said that the fleet should be junked, but that once this was done the nation should launch a program of shipbuilding. He did not offer a specific program, but said that merchant marine shipbuilding was essential for the nation's future peace and security.

"When Senator Fletcher of Florida in his statement that the portion of the laid-up fleet that has been so much in the public eye recently should not be regarded as junk fit only for scrapping, he is unquestionably representing a general, and rather large, element of public opinion," said Mr. Gibbs. "Of course they look like effective ships, but their efficiency must be judged in comparison with mechanisms in service. It is difficult for the average citizen to appreciate the necessity for building new tonnage, or planning for such building.

"Actually the majority of these idle ships are useless for the maintenance and upbuilding of our merchant marine. A duty rests upon the shipping field, therefore, to educate the people as to the true status of these idle ships and of the real necessity of providing for adequate new tonnage for replacements. Let them be scrapped, and then let us face the problem of the future of American shipping and the goal of an American merchant marine. These ships are essentially junk from an economic standpoint in the light of present and future shipping needs. But until the truth of this is convincingly manifested to the American public, enterprise will be halted, constructive planning will be handicapped, and the shipping of the future will be prejudiced to a point perilously close to disaster.

"Scrap and build—but take time to explain to the people why the first is an absolute prerequisite and the second an essential thing for their future peace and security."

PLAN PILGRIMAGE TO ROME.

Catholic Laymen Will Sail From New York on Sept. 19.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP).—A national pilgrimage to Rome for the Holy Year in connection with the tour of the National Council of Catholic Men is being arranged for representatives of organizations of Catholic laymen.

The party will sail from New York on Sept. 19 and those arranging for the pilgrimage said they expected the largest number of pilgrims ever to leave the United States to make the trip.

On the way to Rome they will travel through France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. The return trip will take the group to England and Ireland. Visits will be made to the Convent at Lisieux of St. Therese, the "Little Flower," and to the famous shrine at Lourdes in the Pyrenees.

Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco, Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, will present the visitors to the Pope at a special audience set for Oct. 12.

A committee of laymen has been formed to expedite all applications for passports and passport visas, and an office for this work has been established in Washington. The Italian Government has issued an order exempting the Pilgrims from the payment of the visa fee in Italy.

WILL OPEN NEW CLINIC.

Beekman St. Hospital to Inaugurate Project Tomorrow.

A new industrial clinic will be opened at the Beekman Street Hospital tomorrow. A luncheon to the directors will precede the opening, and among the guests will be Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Welfare; James A. Hamilton, Commissioner of Corrections, and Dr. Leland S. Cofer, director of the Bureau of Industrial Hygiene.

The directors will assist surgeons in the actual operation of the appliances of the new clinic tomorrow. Among those who will aid will be Marshall Field, Howard S. Cullman, Elisha Walker, William Hamlin Childs, Charles A. Lent, James J. Riordan and Robert Lehman. There are 11,000 employers in the hospital's ambulance area, and the number of employes is about 750,000.

TO PUSH IRISH SCHOOL BILL

Free State Government Seeks to Make Education Compulsory.

DUBLIN, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Free State Government has introduced, and will attempt to have passed at the next session of the Dail Eireann, a bill compelling all children between the ages of 6 and 14 to attend school.

Hitherto education has not been compulsory, but the proposals prescribe heavy penalties for parents who in future neglect to send their children to school. Employment which prevents a child under the age of 14 from obtaining proper benefit from attendance at school is made illegal.

Except in the towns, the authority to enforce the school law will be the new police.

NICARAGUAN MINISTERS QUIT

Cabinet Crisis Has Passed and Posts Are Filled.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Aug. 2 (AP).—Dispatches from Managua say that the Nicaraguan Cabinet crisis has been overcome by the resignation of the Minister of Public Works, Salvador Castrillo, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, José Andros Urtecho; it is added that their posts have been taken by José Estrada and Dr. Federico Sacasa, respectively.

The Cabinet difficulties started several days ago when President Solorzano requested the resignation of Dr. Castrillo because of alleged insubordination and violent threats.

COUNT SKRZYNSKI IS HOST AT LENOX

Polish Diplomat Gives a Luncheon at Aspinwall Hotel—Admiral Strauss Entertains.

BALL AT THE TACONIC CLUB

Party for Sir Frederick and Lady Maurice of London—D. Partridge Wins Wyantenuck Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 2.—August has opened with many entertainments in the various colonies of the Berkshire Hills.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Garfield were the guests of honor at a dinner for twenty persons which Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph Strauss gave tonight in Williamstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Downing had a dinner party of twenty at Hillcrest in Great Barrington for her father, G. Willis Peters of New York.

Dwight Partridge won the Wyantenuck Club tournament by defeating Hamilton K. Kerr of Garden City, 2 up in 36 holes. Partridge was 4 down in the first 18 holes.

Count Alexander Skrzynski, Polish Minister of Foreign Affairs, gave a luncheon today at Aspinwall Hotel. Arrivals there include Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ware of Briarcliff, Edward Livingston Coster, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Coster, Gerard H. K. Coster Jr. and Edward L. Coster of New York.

Sir Frederick and Lady Maurice of London and Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Sedgwick of Boston are week-end guests of Mrs. John Stewart McClennan at Tyringham, and she had a luncheon party for them in Ashintully today and a picnic supper tonight at Hayes Pond, West Otis.

The younger set at the institute in Williamstown attended the first ball of the season at Taconic Club on Saturday night. William T. Floyd is Chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

Mrs. James Ransom Walker gave a tea and reception at Fair Acres in Stockbridge in compliment to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur M. Walker, formerly Miss Sylvia Cabot of Boston. She and Mrs. William Penn Cresson were at the tea tables. More than 100 of the Stockbridge colony attended.

Miss Adele Kneeland had 100 of the Lenox set as her guests at a tea at Fairlawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Westinghouse, who are at Hotel Martin, were the principal guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Allen Osborne at White Lodge in Stockbridge.

Miss Nancy Osborn, who has just returned from Honolulu, has Miss Emily Cooke of that city as her guest.

Mrs. Banyer Clarkson gave a luncheon at Riverside in Tyringham for Bishop Thomas Frederick Davies, and Mrs. George K. Livermore had a luncheon party at Lenox.

Mrs. Myles Standish of New York is at Curtis Hotel in Lenox while touring with Mrs. Marmaduke Hare of Davenport, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. M. De Forest Lockwood left the Curtis for New London, Conn.

At the Red Lion Inn, Stockbridge, are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brewster Lawrence of New York, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fletcher Brown of Wilmington Del.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Jones and Miss Zaida Jones of Montclair, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Lothrop of Boston are late arrivals at Heaton Hall in Stockbridge.

Miss Caroline French of Cleveland, Ohio, is the guest of Mrs. George P. Ide in Williamstown.

PHOENIX PLAYERS TO ACT GOLDONI PLAY

Woodstock Company to Give 'The Mistress of the Inn' for the First Time in English.

The Phoenix Players, an organization of professional actors who began to produce plays earlier in the Summer at Woodstock, New York, will tonight present Goldoni's "The Mistress of the Inn." The play has already been acted here by Mme. Duse in Italian and by the Moscow Art Theatre, but this is said to be the first time that it has been acted in English. The play will be offered in the players' own theatre in Woodstock, a building which, formerly an assembly dance hall, has been made over into a theatre seating 150 persons.

The Phoenix Players have worked together under the agreement that all are to have equal artistic rank, and that each of their members shall play one important role during a season. In "The Mistress of the Inn" Haroldine Humphreys and Rose Hobart will alternate in the title rôle, and Harold Moulton and Eustace Wyatt will also have important parts. Others in the company are Ethel Griffes, Edward Cooper, William Miles, Robert Donaldson, Marianne Walter and Edward Everett Hale 3d. Ben Webster is the director.

The players have already acted "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "Foul Is Fair," the latter a play by Marya Mannes.

WILL EXHIBIT AT DUNEDIN.

Many American Painters Send Their Work to New Zealand.

The National Academy of Design is to be represented at the New Zealand and South Seas Art Exhibition to be held at Dunedin, New Zealand, in November, by fifty of its members and associates. A consignment of paintings, valued at $200,000, left this port Saturday en route for Dunedin.

The American section will include no sculpture, etchings or architectural drawings, but the paintings are representative of this country's art. They include the work of Childe Hassam, Hobart Nichols, John F. Carlson, Edward Dufner, Leon Kroll, Ben Foster, Robert Vonnoh, Frederick Ballard Williams, DeWitt Lockman, Francis C. Jones, H. Bolton Jones, George Inness Jr., Harry W. Watrous, John C. Johansen, Ivan G. Olinsky, Carl Rungius, Leonard Ochtman, John E. Costigan, Glenn Newell, Ernest L. Ipsen and also that of two women contributors, Gertrude Fiske of Boston and Anna Fisher of New York.

Clayton D. Lee Collapses in Station.

Clayton D. Lee, who lives at 622 Ridgewood Road, Maplewood, N. J., a news service salesman, collapsed yesterday when getting out of a taxicab at the D. L. & W. terminal in Hoboken. He had engaged the cab at Broadway and Bowling Green, Manhattan, and was to get a train to Maplewood. Lee was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where physicians said last night that he was in a serious condition. He is suffering from heart disease.

SOKOLOFF IN FAREWELL AT STADIUM CONCERT

Delights 8,000 With "Tale of the Vienna Woods"—Rudolph Ganz Conducts Tonight.

At least 8,000 people met at the Stadium last evening to hear Nikolai Sokoloff lead the Philharmonic concert in his farewell New York appearance. He will leave behind a number of new-made friends who have understood and enjoyed the manner of his interpretations. Last night the first part of the program was chiefly devoted to the rhythmic measure of the dance.

Apart from a slightly mechanical overture to Chalvier's "Gwendoline," Mr. Sokoloff delighted his listeners with a fresh and spontaneous "Tale of the Vienna Woods," to which another favorite was given, "The Procession of the Serdar." The Polevetz Kian dances from "Prince Igor" were duly barbaric and wild.

The second part of the evening featured Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" Symphony; the Allegro of the first movement sounded too quick for the open air, but the Allegro con Grazia was imbued with all its customary charm. Mr. Sokoloff was particularly effective in the Adagio Lamentoso. Both conductor and orchestra were warmly applauded. Thec oncert closed with Tchaikovsky's stirring overture "1812."

Tonight, Rudolph Ganz, leader of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, will make his stadium début as guest conductor. He will direct, among other works, Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, Georg Schumann's overture "Liebesfrühling" (first time at the Stadium), and Richard Strauss's "Death and Transfiguration."

A. J. FOX JR. WEDS ARTIST'S DAUGHTER

Few Friends Knew His Marriage to Miss Maxine Wieczorek Was to Take Place.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of Andrew J. Fox Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Fox of 853 Seventh Avenue, to Miss Maxine G. Wieczorek, daughter of Max Wieczorek, an artist of Los Angeles, Cal. The wedding took place quietly in Westchester County on Friday, with few friends of the couple knowing that it was to take place. Mr. Fox's parents have a Summer place, Foxdene, at Lake Mahopac, N. Y.

Mr. Fox is the eldest grandson of the late James A. Patteson of Richmond and New York. He was a member of the class of '19 at Yale, and during the war he received a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Field Artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox will make their home in this city.

Queens Legion Convention Plans.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the seventh annual convention of the Queens County American Legion in Elmhurst, Aug. 13, 14 and 15, with delegates from twenty-six posts. They will have a parade and demonstration on Aug. 13. The parade will pass through Jackson Heights to the Newtown High School, where the convention will be held.

Col. Wm. Mitchell Has a Daughter.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 2 (AP).—Mrs. William Mitchell, wife of Colonel William Mitchel, former Brigadier General in the United Staes Army Air Service, became the mother of a ten-pound baby girl—Lucy Trumbull Mitchell—today at a local hospital. Mrs. Mitchell has been here visiting her mother, Mrs. Sidney Miller. Colonel Mitchell is now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

ADVENTISTS ATTACK 'EVOLUTION RELIGION'

Dispute Darrow's History Dates in Opening National Campaign for Fundamentalism.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP).—A nationwide campaign for Fundamentalism was begun yesterday by the Seven Day Adventists at their headquarters at Takoma Park, with a sermon by the Rev. Charles A. Longacre, in which he replied to the questions propounded by Clarence Darrow to William Jennings Bryan during the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn.

The Adventists' campaign will be continued through distribution of pamphlets in all parts of the country and lectures by Adventist leaders.

Mr. Longacre, in his sermon, declared that since evolution can be made a philosophy of life its followers constitute a religious sect and therefore efforts to force its teaching in the public schools are attempts to make the "evolution religion" a State religion.

Asserting that Christ "mentions the flood" and "to deny the truth of that is to deny Him," he held that "the Christian evolutionists must either give up evolution or give up Christianty."

"The flood," he said, "occurred approximately 4,500 years ago and at that time, all life, except that in the sea and that gathered by Noah in the ark, was destroyed.

"Now, Mr. Darrow tried to make Mr. Bryan admit that the Egyptian and Babylonian civilizations could be traced back more than 4,500 years, and hence antedated the flood. There is absolutely no authentic record of human civilization which extends back of the date of the flood as it is stated in the Bible."

MONTEREY, Cal., Aug. 2 (AP).—The Congregationalists of Northern California stand unequivocally for the teaching of evolution in the public schools, says a resolution adopted by the Conference of Congregational Churches of the northern part of the State yesterday.

It also expressed a hope that the State Board of Education would preserve the right of students to study textbooks that set forth present-day scientific facts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 2 (AP).—Dr. David Starr Jordan, Chancellor Emeritus of Stanford University and internationally known scientist, today announced plans of a movement to raise a $5,000 scholarship fund for John T. Scopes, defendant in the recent Tennessee evolution trial.

"A number of naturalists interested in the case of John T. Scopes have combined to raise him a scholarship fund for graduate work in some institution of his own choosing," Dr. Jordan said.

"It is said that Scopes is a modest, scholarly young man, without means at present, and he has refused various exploitation inducements offering thousands of dollars, not wishing to hamper his future."

ILL OVER MISSING SON.

Mother in Grave State, Says Minister, Pleading for Boy's Return.

With the mother of Morris Weber, 14 years old, of 1,767 Southern Boulevard the Bronx, lying gravely ill at home, following the disappearance of her son, the Rev. Joseph D. Spear, of 1,117 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday asked the police, who are searching for the lad, to let it be known that the boy's absence might prove very serious to his mother and that everything would be all right if he would return home.

Morris, the Rev. Mr. Spear said, disappeared on Friday morning, leaving a note to his mother, Elsie Weber, a widow. He had been attending a Summer vacation school and Thursday, it was learned, had been sent home, because he had fallen behind in his studies, and had been instructed to get a note from his mother before his return. He said nothing about this to his mother and the next morning disappeared.

REV. JOHN GORDON DIES AT 82 YEARS

Dean Emeritus of Temple University Theological Seminary of Philadelphia.

OLDEST U. OF C. GRADUATE

He Was Chairman of Board of American Baptist Publication Society for 25 Years.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Rev. John Gordon, Dean Emeritus of the Temple University Theological Seminary, died at his home here today. Death was caused by acute indigestion. He was 82 years old. He was said to have been the oldest living graduate of the University of Chicago and was the first graduate of that school to be awarded an honorary degree.

Dr. Gordon was born in Cres, Scotland. After leaving college he entered the Baptist ministry, serving churches in Chicago, Montreal, Lowell, Mass.; Portland, Ore., and Philadelphia. For twenty-five years he served as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Baptist Publication Society.

24,000 PERIODICALS PRINT SCIENCE NEWS

British Investigators List Publications Which Report Results of Research Work.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—More than 24,000 periodicals publishing results of scientific research existed in the world between 1900 and 1921, according to an investigation just completed in England, the results of which are embodied in the first volume of "world list of scientific periodicals" just issued by the Oxford University Press. Each periodical was subjected to a severe test before including it in the list. As a result of this severity it is assumed that the entire 24,000 periodicals listed publish regularly or occasionally contributions to scientific knowledge which ought not to be overlooked.

A second volume of the report soon to appear will tell at what libraries the different scientific periodicals are obtainable. The investigation was conducted by a British joint board of scientific societies, aided by a grant from the trustees of the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust.

The total number of periodicals with scientific leanings greatly exceeded expectations. It is pointed out that the investigators did not err on the side of leniency in subjecting the periodicals to tests.

What is needed now, it is said, is a central library where all periodicals publishing results of scientific research might be assembled and distributed later to libraries already existing.

"The first country which contrives the institution of a central library on the lines suggested will lead the way in organization of scientific bibliography and be the chief friend of research," says The London Times.

CLAIMS LOST CASH; HELD.

Man, Minus a License, Drives Up to Police Station and Is Arrested.

A man who said he was Fred Bryan of 2,700 Hudson Boulevard, walked into the Montgomery Avenue Police Station in Jersey City early yesterday morning and announced himself as the owner of a "bunch of money" which had been found at Bergen and Fairmont Avenues the previous night by James Tonne, 15 years old, of 26 Fairmont Avenue. Tonne had turned the money over to the police.

"How much did you lose?" asked Lieutenant John Sinnott.

"About $1,200," Bryan replied.

Questioned further, Bryan could not tell what denomination the bills were. Nor would he disclose the name of the organization to which, he said, the money belonged.

"Is that your automobile out front?" Lieutenant Sinnott asked. Bryan said it was, whereupon the Lieutenant asked to see his driver's license. Bryan didn't have one.

In view of his unsatisfactory explanations and the fact that the money found by young Tonne amounted to only $559.30, the police decided to hold Bryan for further investigation. They charged him with driving an automobile without a license, and with being a disorderly person. Later Bryan was released on bail for a hearing in the Jersey City Police Court this morning.

500 REPORT AT PLATTSBURG

2,000 Will Be Under Canvas Today for August Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Tonight when taps was sounded at Plattsburg barracks nearly 500 young men had reported to the camp officers as members of the August C. M. T. C., which opens tomorrow. Two special trains, carrying nearly 1,000 student soldiers, will arrive tomorrow forenoon, and it is expected that by night approximately 2,000 young men will be under canvas at the barracks for a month of strenuous military duty.

So popular is the training here that before the close of the July camp 200 of the student soldiers wanted to remain through August. Only sixty-four could be kept, including the following from Manhattan and the Bronx:

Robere K. Quinn, 269 Marion Avenue; James J. Powers, 79 Sherman Avenue; Silvester McCabe, 1,475 Grand Concourse; Oliver E. Ragonnet, 820 Riverside Drive; Harry Elberg, 252 Wadsworth Avenue; Max Halpern, 647 East 138th Street; Herman S. Ness, 322 East 100th Street; Thomas J. Hogarty, 26 Horatio Street; George S. Routcliffe, 600 Riverside Drive; Merton Dorfman, 201 West 112th Street; G. Verna, 476 Ninth Street; John N. Quinn, 1,505 Silver Street.

TARDY RUBBER SHIP IN.

Delay of the Kansas Causes Big Loss to Consignors of Cargo.

With the arrival yesterday of the British freighter Kansas from Singapore the last of the three ships bringing rubber from the East Indies valued at $14,000,000, intended for July deliveries, is now in port. The two other steamships, the Menelaus and the Siberian Prince, arrived last Friday in time, but the Kansas got in too late.

This will mean a big loss to the consignors of the rubber, which will be landed at Norton, Lilley & Co.'s pier, Bush Stores, Brooklyn, today.

It was said that because of the failure of the Kansas to arrive on time the brokers who had contracted for July deliveries had to buy some of the rubber necessary to fill their contracts in the open market, with considerable loss.

CASHIERS SAY $2 NOTE CAN'T BE POPULARIZED

Predict Government Will Run Into an Unbreakable Wall of Opposition.

The Government efforts to popularize the two-dollar note in the interests of economy are doomed before they get well under way, if New York cashiers are correct in their predictions.

Not one friendly word for the abused bill was voiced yesterday except in the Hotel McAlpin. Wherever else the question of popularizing it was brought up, cashiers threw up figurative hands and exclaimed, "Impossible!" The mysterious black mark that superstition has thrust upon the two-dollar note presents an obstacle that cashiers here have long since ceased combating. If more of the ill-fated notes are issued, they simply will be returned to the banks and kept there, it is said.

"Even the waitresses refuse them when they come to ask us for bills in place of the silver change they get in tips. As for a customer, I haven't met one yet who would take a two-dollar bill when there was anything else in the cash register," declared John Serwin, cashier in a St. Regis restaurant in Times Square.

"People always object to them. They are a nuisance to us and we hope the Government will not press its attempts to circulate them," it was said at the Hotel Astor office.

At the Pennsylvania Station, the Rialto Theatre, a Childs restaurant and Gray's Drug Store in Times Square it was unanimously reported that almost everybody objected to the two-dollar note.

H. M. Van Dusen, ticket agent, laid the principal blame against Southerners. "No one buying a ticket South will ever take a two-dollar bill," he asserted.

Unless all other notes are called in, the prospects for success in the Government's efforts are "not worth two cents, much less a two-dollar note," was one opinion voiced. It is seconded on all sides.

LOST TAXI DRIVER FINDS HIMSELF ON A TRESTLE

It cost Charles Clark, chauffeur, of 483 Autumn Avenue, Brooklyn, $5 in Jamaica Police Court yesterday to learn that a Long Island Railroad trestle is not a proper place along which to drive a taxicab. It cost the railroad company, however, much more than Clark's fine to get him and his cab off their property at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

Saturday night Clark took a passenger from Brooklyn to South Jamaica. At Rockaway Road, near South Street, on his return Clark became lost and asked directions of a pedestrian. The pedestrian, a practical joker, told the chauffeur to turn right on South Street and at the end of a brick building turn right again. Clark did as he was told and in the darkness did not know he was driving up a spur railroad track.

He informed Magistrate Miller that he had not known he was on the railroad's property until his machine had refused to go any further and he had started to get out to see what the trouble was. He then found he was about fifteen feet in the air, near the main line tracks leading out of Jamaica station to the Rockaways.

When his machine refused to back down the incline Clark called for help. Within a few minutes the train dispatcher in the station ordered out a wrecking crew and police from the Jamaica Precinct were hurried to the scene. The taxicab was lowered to the ground by a railroad derrick, and Clark was escorted to the police station.

FIRST LOW FLIER HELD UNDER CITY AIR RULE

Camp Resident Complains Seaplane Skimmed Near Roofs and Frightened Women and Children.

George Dufrich, whose home is at Grand and Dittmars Avenues, Elmhurst, L. I., was arrested yesterday for piloting a seaplane too near the roofs of bungalows at Edgewater Camp, the Bronx. He was booked for violating a section of the city statutes which forbids flying below the 1,000-foot limit. His arrest was said to have been the first ever made under that section of the law.

John J. Jones, who has a bungalow at the camp, made the complaint. Jones, a former war-time flyer, said he objected to Dufrich's flights because women and children were being continually frightened. Dufrich stays at the camp with friends and keeps his seaplane in Long Island Sound. Jones said he had warned the flier several times about circling too low and that yesterday, when the offense had been committed again, he had decided to act.

He called a policeman, but when the patrolman wanted only to serve a summons on Dufrich, Jones started to take the flier in custody himself. The policeman then took Dufrich to the Westchester precinct. He will be arraigned this morning.

OPPOSE HIGH SAFETY ISLES.

Berlin Papers Condemn New Traffic Plan as Perilous.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The modernization of Berlin traffic conditions has led to a bitter dispute between the police and pedestrian public, whose interests are voiced by the press.

The municipal authorities announce their intention of making safety isles in the middle of the principal thoroughfares about one foot high and using their perpendicular surface for illuminated advertisements.

As the advertisers agree to provide electric footwarmers for the traffic policemen stationed on these isles, the police strongly favor the project. The newspapers, however, unanimously condemn it on the ground that women and children will have trouble in stepping up to such a height from the street level and jaywalkers be confused by the colored lights of the advertisements.

SOVIET CROPS UNEVEN.

Jewish Colonists Hopeful in Ukraine but Discouraged in Odessa.

MOSCOW, Aug. 2 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Harvest prospects in the old and new Jewish colonies in Soviet Russia present a contrasted picture of hope and despair.

Reports received here are that the Jewish colonies in the Krivoy Rog district of the Ukraine expect a more abundant crop than any during the last fifteen years. The colonists hope to improve their impoverished condition and to pay off their accumulated debts.

In the Odessa district only three Jewish colonies have had good harvests. In the other twelve crops have been ruined completely, and of the 800 newly-settled families in the Odessa district, 600 are in need of food and of seed for the Autumn sowing.

RICHMOND BUSES FOIL TAXIS WITH FREE RIDES

Company, Seeking to Hold Support, to Continue Policy Pending Decision on Permit.

The devious ways of the law were all to the liking yesterday of thousands who had free service on the Tompkins Bus Corporation's line from Richmond Road to Cedar Grove Beach, Staten Island, as the result of franchise litigation. The holiday crowds reveled, but the taxicab owners who are fighting the bus company were idle and gloomy. Free service may be the rule for a month or more.

Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey's temporary order issued Friday restraining the bus company from operating for hire because of a lack of a permit of necessity from the Board of Estimate or a franchise from the Transit Commission caused the company's action.

The company's application for a permit of necessity is still pending. It started seven buses on June 3, however, with a permit from the Department of Plant and Structures, which was held invalid by Justice Cropsey.

The fight on the buses was brought by taxicab owners, who previously did good business at 10 cents a head. When as a result of the court order all buses on the line were laid up Friday night the taxi owners smiled and waited for the Sunday crowds.

But M. C. Gordon Jr., President of the bus company, remembered the 10,000 residents of Cedar Grove Beach and the large number who had petitioned the Mayor to grant the permit. He was advised by his attorney that the company would not be guilty of contempt of court if buses were operated free.

Large "Free Ride" signs were on the buses yesterday morning when they started out, and drivers were warned they would be discharged if they took a single five-cent piece from a passenger. More petitions to grant the permit or franchise were circulated.

Mr. Gordon said travel would be free until the city had taken definite action on granting a franchise or a permit, or until argument on making Justice Cropsey's injunction permanent was held in October.

Meanwhile many are signing the petitions which will make it possible to charge a five-cent fare.

Funeral of Dr. Lucien Warner.

Funeral services for Dr. Lucien Warner, prominent manufacturer, who died Thursday in his apartment at the Hotel Lorraine, were held yesterday afternoon in the Broadway Tabernacle, Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street. The ceremonies, conducted by the Rev. Francis Cooke, were under the auspices of the Oberlin College Society, the New York State Chamber of Commerce, the Home Insurance Company and the Congregational Home and Foreign Missionary Society, all of which organizations included Dr. Warner in their membership.

Dr. Warner, who was 84 years old, was one of the founders of the Warner Brothers Company, corset manufacturers of Bridgeport, Conn. He also established the Warner Chemical Company, 415 Lexington Avenue, this city.

DESTITUTE FAMILY FEAST IN NEW HOME

Widow and Six Children Enjoy Bread-and-Butter Meals Supplied by Samaritan.

UNMOLESTED BY JANITRESS

Happy, but Without Money for Food Till Pension Comes on Aug. 23.

The six children of Mrs. Mary Reppa, a destitute widow, spent a happy Sunday yesterday in their new home at 63 Morris Street, Jersey City.

They had moved in only Saturday from their former home in Bayonne, and then had been forced to move out again and trek back to Bayonne because the janitress shuddered at what the landlord would say when he learned six children had been admitted to the four-room apartment. Finally Mrs. Reppa had learned that the $2 deposit she had paid to bind the bargain gave her legal right to enter the new apartment, and so with the aid of the police she and her brood had gone again to their Jersey City home.

So yesterday they were at peace with the world. They had had a good night's rest and no one was trying to make them move again. They feasted. Mrs. Reppa had only twenty-five cents after she had finished with her moving expenses, but a young woman who had read of the family's difficulties had given a dollar to Mrs. Reppa. It provided three meals—breakfast, dinner and supper—for the seven. The fare was a little monotonous, for the only dish for all three meals was bread and butter, but it satisfied the children.

Mrs. Reppa did not have the least idea last night how the family was going to eat from now to Aug. 23, when she gets her widow's pension of $48, but the children are not of an age that knows any problems other than those of the immediate moment, so that cast no shadow over the family board.

At Police Headquarters in Jersey City yesterday it was said that Overseer of the Pood George J. Murray had been notified of the family's plight and probably would look after them. Meanwhile Mrs. Reppa was trying to devise a way of going out and earning food for her children and wondering at the same time who would take care of them at home. Until Saturday Mrs. Rappa and her children had made their home with a relative at Bayonne, but he moved to Pennsylvania last week and they were forced to find another place.

FAST NEWSPAPER DELIVERY.

Adirondacks Get Sunday Times Six Hours Earlier by Boat and Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, Aug. 2.—Making short cuts by motor boat and automobile, Plattsburg's supply of Sunday NEW YORK TIMES arrived here at noon today, six hours earlier than the regular delivery by train. Other places in this vicinity received THE TIMES approximately six hours earlier than was possible by the ordinary train service.

Arriving by train at Lake George village at 6:45 (Eastern Standard Time), the bundles of TIMES were hurried to a waiting motor boat, the Sea Sled, which has a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, and the race against time across the lake to Baldwins was on. There a fast automobile was waiting to carry them to the Adirondacks.

Besides Plattsburg, points which received the papers six hours earlier were Cliff Haven, Crown Point, Hotel Champlain, Essex, Port Henry, Port Kent, Ticonderoga, Valcour and Westport.

COL. J. H. WELLS VISITS CAMP

Ex-Head of 71st Greeted by Members of Old Command at Peekskill.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, Aug. 2.—The former Commander of the 71st Infantry Regiment of Manhattan, Colonel J. Hollis Wells, who resigned after he had been relieved of his command by Governor Alfred E. Smith, was among the visitors at the State military camp at Peekskill today and was greeted by members of his old command, who are on a two weeks' tour of training at the reservation.

Colonel Wells met Colonel Walter Delamater of Yonkers, who now commands the 71st Regiment, and other officers formerly under his command. He was then taken on a tour of the camp. Troops of the 27th Division Special Troops, the 27th Division Trains and the 101st Signal Battalion also entertained many visitors.

Staff officers announced that Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Commander of the Second Corps Area, U. S. A., will visit the camp and inspect the troops next Friday instead of next Wednesday, as had been previously announced.

"Wanamakers' Word"

"It's a long way, I know," writes a woman from a city 250 miles north of San Francisco, "but when I must buy sight unseen I would rather pay more freight and have Wanamakers' word back of the furniture than trust to luck nearer home."

From the Founder's Writings

A Relentless Wrestler Always Wins

The genius of President Dwight pounded into the boys of Yale:

"It is the power of making efforts that carries the day."

Of Professor Tyndall it is told that for fifteen years he rose every morning early to be at his books.

The Rev. Albert Barnes, of old Washington Square Church, left his home in the dark and walked over to the iron gate on Seventh Street above Spruce and began his work on the Commentaries that have never been surpassed and have been printed in every language of the world.

Not simply wanting to do things but actually doing them is the thing that counts.

Any man not on a straight road can easily get lost.

Every employe in this house knows that he lives on a straight road and must keep on it.

Largely through the influence of Wanamaker Sales the people have been learning more and more about quality and style in furniture and demanding furniture of a better and more beautiful kind.

* * *

A writer in a daily newspaper who has been investigating the situation says that "there is no comparison" between the furniture made today and the kind that was made years ago.

"Back in 1912," he observes, "only 10 per cent. of the furniture factories were making period designs. . . . Today 95 per cent. of the factories are making period furniture."

* * *

Nobody has better reason to know all about the various betterments of design, construction and finish that have been made in furniture than the store that has done most to bring them about.

* * *

And now this BETTER FURNITURE may be had in the Wanamaker August Sale at 10 to 50 per cent. less in price.

And, if desired, on terms of payment that extend the outlay of money over several months, with immediate deliveries. These terms are easy to arrange with the Wanamaker Home Budget Service when your budget, which you will be shown how to make, appears sound and reasonable.

Debonair little girdles, or garter holders, as many are amusingly called, of pervenche satin and gold or silver lace. Only a great artiste could have conceived the fascinating little details—tiny chiffon roses, and narrow pleated bands of gay-colored chiffon and velvet ribbon.

"Le Secret Ceinture de Danse" is the rather pertinent name another French designer has given to an adorable little dancing girdle of multi-colored silk.

Then there is a perfectly stunning girdle of crushed arc-en-ciel and gold metal cloth and chiffon, with a little Egyptian bandeau to match.

And, unmistakably the high-light in the collection—a sheath of crushed Atlantique green and gold metal cloth and chiffon. Aside from its exquisite beauty, this sheath will undoubtedly attract much attention, for it is fashioned to perfectly interpret a smart silhouette with but two bones directly down the back.

All these lovely creations, exactly duplicating the models now on display in the Paris exposition and reproduced expressly and exclusively for the John Wanamaker Store, are now being shown in

BELMAISON
Reproduction Furniture

Belmaison Adds New Vistas TO THE August Furniture Sale

Savings of 10 to 20 Per Cent.

When a great Art Museum opens a new wing of historic interiors, a whole city turns out to see and admire. Something like this—in a way something more!—has happened to Belmaison. For Belmaison has recently opened a new wing—occupying almost twice its former space—of furniture historic in the best sense of the word, in its inspiration, and faithful to the choicest a Museum might display. And now it is offering all the distinguished pieces in this greatly enlarged collection at the very marked savings of the August Sale. There are beautiful examples, unknown to the sales of former years, to add an element of delightful surprise. In addition to those fine reproductions whose classic distinction makes them perennial in Belmaison's collection.

Belmaison Furniture in America's Distinguished Interiors

Why is Belmaison furniture going each year into more and more distinguished and beautiful homes? Into the great country houses of Westchester and Long Island? Into town houses and apartments that are, decoratively, the last word of smartness and distinction? Why do people of taste and discrimination turn in ever greater numbers toward Belmaison in their furniture-buying quests—even without the added inducement of a Sale?

Because they know, for one thing, that Belmaison reproductions are authentic. Bearing the same relation to the fine antiques they so faithfully render, as a masterly translation to its great original. They are the modern classics of fine furniture making.

And then, because of their ever increasing variety—since Belmaison follows not one or two, but every good decorative tradition.

MANY LAWS GOVERN ALIENS IN SHANGHAI

Two and Sometimes Three Forms of Government in the Concessions.

NATIONALITIES EXCEED 50

'Land Regulations' and 'By-Laws' Organic Law of the International Settlement.

NEW AMERICAN CENTRE

School, Church and Auditorium in French Sector, but Club Is in Chinese Territory.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 9.—Foreigners living in the concessions of Shanghai always are under two forms of government and in some cases they are under three kinds of government.

In the international settlement foreign residents are, first, under the laws of their home Governments, and second, under the laws of the municipality. If, as often is the case, a person does business and owns property in the international settlement and resides in the French concession, or vice versa, that places him under still a third jurisdiction in some of his affairs and activities.

Take a case of an American who, let us say, has his business in the international settlement and lives in the French concession. He pays taxes in both concessions and is entitled to vote in both concessions in municipal elections; he may even be a member of the municipal Governments of both concessions.

In recent years more Americans live in the French concession than in the international settlement because residential expansion has taken that direction, rather than in outlying districts of the international settlement. The new American community centre, consisting of a school with dormitories and athletic fields, a church and an auditorium, is in the French concession. The Columbia Country Club (American) formerly was in the French concession, but the new clubhouse and grounds are outside of the concession, in Chinese territory. The American club is in the international settlement. Thus a majority of Americans here every day pass from one jurisdiction to another, perhaps several times, in their ordinary business and pleasures. That is true of all foreigners here.

Nations Having Consulates.

Nations now having Consular representation in Shanghai follow: Russia, Germany, Japan, France, Great Britain, Austria, Italy, Spain, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Sweden, Belgium, Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Chile, Switzerland, Portugal, the United States. Peru also has a treaty, but never has sent a consul; and Argentina now has a Consul here waiting for a treaty to be signed.

So we have foreigners living in Shanghai under the laws of more than twenty nations; for foreigners who have treaty rights enjoy extraterritorial privileges, except nationals of nations that never acquired that status and nations which have given up that status. Germany and Russia are important nations which, since the World War, have given up extraterritorial stauts in China. Therefore, Germans and Russians of are under the general jurisdiction of Chinese law; and in the foreign concessions also are subject to the municipal administrations. As there are more than fifty nationalities represented in this cosmopolitan place, a great many foreigners have not extraterritorial status. Indeed about one-third of the foreign population of the Port of Shanghai are without that protection.

The laws under which the International Settlement are governed are known as "land regulations" and by-laws." The land regulations constitute the organic law of the settlement, and the by-laws are like municipal ordinances and police rules in American cities. Under the original treaties foreigners were allowed to "rent" land inside the concessions from the Chinese owners; in theory they secured the land under lease in perpetuity. As the concessions became more populated it was necessary to expand their Government, and "land regulations" were drafted and approved by the diplomatic body at Peking. From time to time the land regulations have been revised and amended.

The land regulations always were too general in character to cover the necessary police powers of a community; so in due course it was provided that the municipal council could propose by-laws which, after being submitted first for the approval of the diplomatic body at Peking and also to the local consular body, and then to a special meeting of the land renters (now termed "rate payers") held for the purpose, would be adopted or rejected.

Settlement Now Has Own Laws.

In that way the settlement created its own laws, which stand quite distinct from the laws of the various treaty nations that apply primarily to the Government of their nationals here; just as, for example, the municipal charter and ordinances of New York City are distinct from the laws of the United States.

Those who have observed, in recent years the difficulty of coordinating the laws of the United States and the police authority of New York City in enforcing liquor prohibition will understand the broadly similar situation here; and if to that difficulty in America is added the fact that instead of one set of national laws and officials overlapping the local laws and officials we have in Shanghai more than twenty different sets of national laws applying with equal validity, an idea of conditions is obtained.

In previous articles I pointed out how in the beginning of these settlements only three nations—Great Britain, France and the United States—acquired rights and concessions. The prominence given to those powers then to a large extent has been maintained ever since. Those powers (especially Britain and America, which led in the early days of the China trade) are responsible primarily for the organization and legalizing of the settlements. To this day the American, British and French Consuls General are regarded as constituting the centre of authority in the consular body, although in the last decade the Consul General of Japan has taken almost an equal position and prior to the World War the German and Russian Consuls were important.

Confining discussion for the moment to the international settlement, the importance of British commerce and other interests in China led to the creation at Shanghai of a British Supreme Court to take care of the increasing litigation, which had become too much for a consular court to handle properly. It should be explained that in each foreign consulate a member of the staff is designated to act as judge of the consular court and to that court are referred all cases involving nationals of a consulate whenever that nation had not established a regular court.

It was not until 1906 that the United States followed the example of Great Britain and Congress created a United States Court for China. This court is organized as are the United States District Courts at home and it now takes jurisdiction in China of all cases of a certain importance, leaving the consular court to perform much the same function as the police magistrates do in American cities. If an American is charged with a serious crime or is defendant in a civil suit of consequence the case goes to the United States Court for China. If an American is arrested for being drunk and disorderly or for a petty infraction of the by-laws the case goes to the consular court.

Subjects of nations which have not extraterritorial status in China broadly are subject to the laws of China, and in the concessions they also are subject to the land regulations and by-laws. Thus today a Russian or a German charged with an offense under the by-laws, or appearing as a litigant in a civil action, is tried in the mixed court with a foreign (extraterritorial treaty nation) assessor sitting with a Chinese magistrate.

Why Foreign Courts Were Set Up.

The reasons for creating in China regular courts of foreign nations are simple. In legalized nations courts are necessary for the carrying on of business; by far the greater part of court calenders in Western countries are civil actions growing out of disputes about business and property. In regard to dealing with criminal offenses of, let us say, Americans, in China, the consular jurisdiction might have sufficed forever, for the consular officials as a rule were competent to mete justice in petty offenses; and more serious cases could be sent to courts at home or taken there on appeal.

But in respect of the large amount of business transactions between Americans and Chinese and between Americans and other foreigners which grew up in these concessions, and the inevitable contentions, disputes and differences that arose therefrom, it became practically indispensable that they be dealt with at the places where the disputes occurred and where witnesses could be obtained and where local conditions were understood, or that Americans would continue to be seriously handicapped in working here.

The same was true of other important trading nations. Germany had created a court in Shanghai and at Tsingtau before the war. Japan's proximity to China makes it unnecessary for her to do that.

The process by which foreign residents in the concessions are arrested or summoned into court is by consular warrants. (Of course a foreigner may be arrested at sight by the municipal police for disorderly conduct or an overt act.) If the charge or summons is against an American a warrant must be applied for by the police to the American consulate; and in the case of an Italian, a Spaniard, a Cuban, a Mexican, &c., they may be arrested or summoned only on warrants issued by their own consular officials.

Divergencies Lead to Anomalies.

Even about matters which involve no especial importance or turpitude the divergences of laws lead to many anomalies. As I have tried to show in these articles, Shanghai is a city which just grew almost by itself, and built up its character, laws and customs as it went along. At the bottom of everything that now exists here in permanent or stable form lie common sense and practical need. Take a case that occurred quite recently.

An American was arrested by the police of the International Settlement for, as I recall, having in his possession ammunition contrary to the by-laws. He was haled into the United States Court for China, where his lawyers put in the defense that the offense charged did not constitute an illegal act under United States statutes which apply here.

In giving decision Judge Purdy (April 23, 1925) said:

"It is conceded that the by-law in question has been in force in Shanghai for some time past and has been enforced, I presume, not only by the Mixed Court, but also by other judicial officers against their nationals in the same way as other ordinances and by-laws of the city. It also is conceded that the Commissioner of the United States Court in Shanghai for years has enforced municipal regulations, and prior to the establishment of this court these same regulations have been enforced by United States Consuls.

"It seems that at various times the authority to enforce these by-laws has been questioned, yet it does not appear that any case ever has been appealed to the United States Court of Appeals where a conviction was obtained and a sentence imposed, so there is no authoritative decision by the courts other than the United States Court for China and the other courts of other nationalities that exist in Shanghai and enforce the ordinances.

"The municipality of Shanghai is a rather unique governmental body. Possibly there is nothing like it in any other part of the world, and these regulations have been enforced by the courts of other nationals here. There has been no attempt of the municipality to establish a court of its own for the purpose of enforcing its by-laws, but there has been for years an acquiescence on the part of all nations concerned in the good order and government of Shanghai. American citizens come and reside here and own property here and so far as appears from the records of this court they have submitted to the regulations and by-laws of the Shanghai municipality. * * *

"It seems to me that at this late date it would create a condition of chaos for any one government to hold that it could not enforce these by-laws against its own citizens, and there seems to be some good reason for holding under the common law power which this court possesses that it can enforce the rules and regulations of the municipality that is existing within its jurisdiction. * * *

"I therefore hold that this court has the authority and it is its duty to enforce these municipal regulations, and if I am in error in regard to that matter of law there is a way to have the error corrected by appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals."

The American Judge construed the powers of the United States Court in China and the regulations of this international settlement to conform with practical common sense, and he would not allow technicalities to break down the government of the settlements.

Asks Court to Make Husband Who Growls at Meals Eat Out

Mrs. Mary Flannigan of 527 Nepperhan Avenue, Yonkers, who has been married thirty-two years, made an unusual request when she had her husband, Michael Flannigan, 58 years old, in Yonkers City Court on a technical charge yesterday. She asked to have him banished from her house and made to eat at a boarding house table so he would realize what a good meal is.

She told Judge David Garfinkel that after many years of good home cooking her husband was getting so particular about his food that it was almost impossible to please him.

"Why, your Honor," she said, "I set as good a Sunday meal before him as you could get anywhere, and he just shoved it aside and growled about it. Won't you make him leave my house and force him to eat his meals at a boarding house so he will learn the difference between good and bad cooking?" The Judge said he couldn't do that, but placed Flannigan on probation to reflect.

SHANGHAI ENTERS 10TH WEEK OF STRIKE

4 MOSCOW AGENTS ARRIVE

Americans Resent Mr. Borah's Charges—Say They Always Urged Treaty Changes.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—The end of the ninth week of the local strike finds the general situation unchanged, although outwardly Shanghai has resumed a normal appearance. Many women in the smaller businesses, about whom the strike leaders care nothing, have resumed work, but shipping and mills are still idle.

The strike leaders feel greatly cheered by the arrival of the four Bolshevist agents—Lepse, head of the Russian Metal Workers' Union, accompanied by Smorgins, Vaskroff and another. Those men attended a meeting of the General Labor Union yesterday and made many flowery promises. But it is reported with apparent authority that the Soviet is no longer interested in the strike and is quite willing to let it die a natural death.

Moscow is said to feel that nothing in particular is to be gained now by concessions wrung from foreigners, which mainly appeal to the bourgeoisie and students, and the Soviet intends supposedly to concentrate upon organizing the proletariat with the view of a real revolution later.

There is an increasing disposition among Chinese intellectuals and the local classes to be suspicious of Bolshevism and to repudiate it entirely.

Strike funds undoubtedly are very low and it is a mystery how the strikers get fed. There have been angry scenes at labor headquarters. Strikers are disappointed over non-receipt of their pay, and last night a riot on this account was prevented by Chinese police.

The Peking Government, however, undoubtedly is contributing to the strike fund, and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, whose members benefit by the boycott on foreign goods, is openly in its favor.

Feeling throughout China is still undoubtedly intense. A correspondent writing from Shansi, the famous "model" province of Governor Yen Shi-shan, says:

"The energy and careful organization displayed are almost incredible to those who recall the apathy of former days in regard to politics."

The same accounts come from other provinces.

Borah Surprises Shanghai Americans.

Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2.—A considerable stir has been produced here by the interview with Senator Borah, accusing the American Chamber of Commerce in China of imperialism and of being in league with the other imperialists in aggressions against China. There is also great curiosity regarding Mr. Borah's statement that he had facts available which, if published, would embarrass the American Chamber of Commerce.

American merchants, long experienced in Chinese trade, are said to be amazed at Mr. Borah's statement, when the State Department records show that the Associated American Chambers of Commerce in China have been conducting a campaign since the close of the Washington conference, urging the American Government to make the conference treaties effective and carry out the program for a revision of the unequal treaties. The Chambers' records here show that the campaign was so effective that it aroused the ire of former Secretary Hughes who reprimanded the Chamber, due to Mr. Hughes's fear that it might prevent the French ratification.

The Chambers' contention during the last three years was that the failure to make the conference treaties effective was largely responsible for the loss of American prestige in China and the cause of the Chinese loss of faith in America's ability to bring the other powers into an alignment on the American open door policy.

One member of the Chamber today called to the attention of the American commercial interests here that it constantly has favored the open door policy and was opposed to the Japanese twenty-one demands and to Japanese control of Shantung.

He said that the Chambers, when it was necessary, have protested against Chinese banditry, illegal taxation, Chinese militarism and military interference with legitimate commerce, but that certainly this is not imperialism. He stated also that it was not imperialism when the Chambers were protesting against Bolshevization of the Chinese Republic and urged American preventive action.

Another member of the Chamber, who is interested in the extensive sale of certain west coast products in China, said it was poor business when a distinguished Senator makes statements considered official here which are damaging to the prestige of American business development in the Far East, a field which is now taking a large percentage of the surplus of American products and undoubtedly is favorably affecting the prosperity of the United States.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 2 (AP).—A dispatch from Peking says the Foreign Office has cabled Chinese Ministers abroad, instructing them to inform the Governments to which they are accredited that the Chinese Government is opposed to another investigation into the recent Shanghai disorders.

SHOCKED BY CULT OF NUDE.

German Beaches Ban Unclad and Transparently Clad Bathers.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The cult of nudity, which is making great headway throughout Germany since President Hindenburg and the Federal authorities saw and warmly approved a cultural film called "Ways to Strength and Beauty" has given rise to a violent controversy at the German Summer resorts on the North Sea and the Baltic.

The aristocratic Junker set which spends its holidays at Borkum is indignant over the fact that several youths have been seen bathing and lolling in the sunshine on the public beach, without any clothing whatever, although so early in the morning few save themselves were up. Borkum being a anti-Semitic centre, the population's indignation was increased by a rumor that these offenders were Jewish. A strong force of police was placed on guard at dawn, but the nude bathers failed to appear.

At Heringsdorf, on the Baltic, which racially is the antithesis of Borkum, the Summer residents were equally shocked by a young movie actress appearing at the fashionable bathing hour attired in a one-piece swimming suit made of black silk like gossamer and as transparent of texture as a pair of silk stockings. Things got so unpleasant for the young woman that she had to leave Heringsdorf on the first train.

Sinnott & Canty Income Taxes for 1923 Indicate Its Members Earned $62,500 Then

The income tax payments for 1923 made to the Federal Government by the three members of Sinnott & Canty, the bonding firm which is suing city officials and eleven newspapers for a total sum of $11,250,000, shows that the indicated net income of the three members from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1923, was about $62,500.

The firm was incorporated at Albany in September, 1922, with a paid-in capital of $500. The Directors named in the papers of incorporation were James Paul Sinnott, Thomas F. Canty and Frank J. Coyle. Income tax returns on file at the Custom House covering the tax period of Jan. 1, 1923, to Dec. 31, 1923, show that the firm paid a tax of $951.94. The tax paid by Mr. Sinnott was $2,531.76. The tax of Mr. Canty, who is a resident of Connecticut, and filed his return at Hartford, Conn., amounted to $3,568.74. The income tax payment of Mr. Coyle, who lives in Brooklyn, was $293.65. These payments included the 25 per cent. reduction allowed in that year.

Mark Eisner, former Collector of Internal Revenue, now an attorney at 296 Madison Avenue, specializing in tax matters, expressed this opinion on the figures:

"I should say that the members of the firm did not derive their income solely from the firm. That is indicated by the amount of tax which the corporation itself paid. The corporation tax of $951.94 should be multiplied eight times, as it is paid at the rate of 12½ per cent. to get an approximation of the net income of the firm.

"The sum paid by Mr. Sinnott indicates an annual net income of about $25,000. The amount of tax paid by Mr. Canty indicates an annual income of about $30,000. The tax paid by Mr. Coyle indicates an annual income of about $7,500."

Figures on income tax payments for 1924 will not become available to the public before Sept. 1.

SOVIET CALLS UP RED ARMY CLASS

Communist Party Undertakes a Campaign All Over Russia to Bring In Recruits.

STRESSES WORLD HOSTILITY

Chief of Staff Denies the Call Has Any Bearing on Foreign Policy of the State.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—Extensive preparations were begun today by the military authorities for the calling to the colors of the young men of the 1903 class, which will be carried out all over the Federation during September. The Communist Party organizations and Soviet institutions are assisting the military authorities by carrying on a campaign among all classes of the population for service in the Red Army, saying the chief duty of every citizen is to defend the Labor-Socialistic State. In an interview in the local press, Levitsheff, Chief of the General Staff of the Red Army, denied rumors spread by the anti-Soviet press.

"This is the regular calling up of the young classes in order to replace the old ones who are being discharged and has nothing to do with military intentions of the Soviet union," he says.

Service in the Red Army is compulsory for every citizen who by January has reached the age of 21 years. Since the civil war the term of service has been reduced from three to two years in the infantry, four in the cavalry and five in the navy and flying corps. The territorial system introduced in the Red Army permits assignment of most recruits to serve within the same district from which they are drawn and conditions in barrack life as well as treatment of young soldiers have so much changed for the better that a majority regard service in the Red Army as a school of political and general education. Recruiting was undertaken last year by the authorities for the first time since the civil war on a small scale as an experiment and gave good results. This year recruiting will be undertaken on a larger scale and authorities are confident of a good response in the campaign which is carefully carried on by the Communist Party organizations by lectures and literature. Special stress is given to elucidation of the international political situation, emphasizing the statement that the Soviet union remains surrounded by bourgeois enemies who strive to strangle the solitary proletarian republic. Economic questions play no less a part in recruiting propaganda, attention of the peasantry being drawn to the fact of this year's plentiful harvest, which frees recruits from worry over the fate of their homesteads and families, guaranteeing at the same time better material conditions for the Red Army.

Certain small nationalities will not be called to the colors. These include Caucasian, Turkestan and Northern nationalities, except the Karelians, Buriats and Mongols, who will be called up this year for the first time.

Others may join the Red Army as volunteers.

The right to bear arms belongs only to workmen and peasants; non-laboring classes are denied this privilege, as according to former War Minister Trotsky the proletarian State cannot trust them with arms. The Soviet military code provides for a special auxiliary force of recruits belonging to the bourgeois and commercial elements. A project is under discussion to substitute for military services by bourgeois elements a certain monetary fee to the State.

TRAFFIC POLICE SPEED STOLEN FIRE DEPT. CAR

Clear Way for Fugitive Chased by Officer in Ford, but Pursuer Makes Arrest.

Chasing a stolen Fire Department roadster, in the opinion of Policemen O'Leary and Wilson, is something like pursuing that fabled ship of the seas, the Flying Dutchman. Yesterday, whenever O'Leary and Wilson, in their coughing flivver, threatened to catch up with the roadster, a traffic cop, sighting the red paint and hearing the siren of the quarry, obligingly waved a clear path for the roadster and came over to argue with the policemen.

The roadster, shining in a new coat of paint, was outside Fire Headquarters at 155 East Sixty-seventh Street yesterday afternoon. Along came James Stockdale, 32 years old, of 73 East Ninth Street, and John Fay of 2,369 Third Avenue. According to the police the young men climbed into the car and departed.

O'Leary in his flivver was at Second Avenue and Forty-sixth Street when the Fire Department car whizzed past. O'Leary thought it odd that the occupants should be in civilian clothes. He drove alongside and signalled a halt. A sound like a snort came from the siren and the chase was on.

With the fire gong sounding loudly and the siren playing an accompaniment, the roadster sped north on Second Avenue to Forty-seventh Street, east to First Avenue, north to Forty-eighth Street, west to Second Avenue and then headed north. The machine moved at a rate that suggested a "borough" fire call at the least. Whenever it approached the post of a traffic officer, that guardian would efficiently wave traffic right and left and then, with a snappy jerk of his hand, beckon the fugitive car to go right ahead and escape.

The roadster took the turn out of Second Avenue into Fifty-seventh Street on two wheels and with a deafening blast of its siren. The officer on point duty at Third Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street was just getting into action to make that cross-over safe to the fugitives, when the car barked a couple of times and came to an abrupt stop. O'Leary caught Stockdale and Wilson arrested Fay in the machine. They were held in $2,500 bail each for grand larceny by Magistrate Jesse Silberman in Harlem Court.

MOTORISTS WARNED OF WALKERS' RIGHTS

Police to Begin Distributing Red Cards of Caution to All Drivers Today.

STREET DEATHS DECREASE

Commissioner Collier Reports 65 Killed in July, Compared With 82 a Year Ago.

The distribution of white cards of warning to jaywalkers has worked so well, said Deputy Police Commissioner Barron Collier yesterday, that red cards of caution to motorists will be distributed, beginning this morning. Commissioner Collier said that deaths in the streets for July numbered sixty-five as compared with eighty-two in July last year.

The motorists' cards, which policemen will begin to hand out today, read as follows:

"The police warn you:

"To avoid blocking the way for the pedestrian when stopping for cross traffic.

"To avoid starting before pedestrians who are crossing in front of you can get clear.

"To refrain from turning corners quickly, carelessly or driving too fast.

"Pedestrians are urged to use only regular crossings and to look both ways, but motorists must help protect them.

"Last year motors killed 1,045 persons in New York City. We must stop this."

Commissioner Collier said that all members of the uniformed force, except traffic officers, will distribute these cards to motorists whether they have violated traffic ordinances or not.

"Distribution of the cards to jaywalkers has been helpful," he said. "Of course we cannot point to specific cases of lives saved by the cards, but we do know that seventeen fewer persons were killed in the streets during last month than were killed during the corresponding month last year."

129 SOLDIERS FOR SPAIN FIGHT TO LAND HERE

Recruits for War With Riffs Subdued With Police Aid After Battle on Ship.

One hundred and twenty-nine soldiers of fortune recruited in Havana for war service against the Riffs, in the Spanish Foreign Legion, stopped in New York Harbor Thursday on the Spanish steamship Antonio Lopez on their way to Spain. The men, of a half-dozen nationalities and several colors, had agreed to fight in return for their transportation to Europe.

But after they passed the Statue of Liberty and found themselves within sight of the lights of Manhattan and within the shadow of the massive buildings of the country they had always heard so much about their desire to go to war vanished and they began agitating to get ashore and settle in America.

Captain A. Muslera, in command of the steamship, was obdurate and refused to let a man ashore. Friday they became mutinous and last night the entire group of volunteers battled with the seamen back and forth on the decks of the steamship, anchored off Pier 48 in the East River, and fought with fists, clubs, chairs, knives and any other weapon they could lay their hands on.

While the volunteers were besieging the ship's brig, in which five of their party were imprisoned, six men jumped overboard and started swimming toward the pier. The police were called at that moment and twenty-five policemen of the reserve of the Old Slip Police station went aboard and subdued the recalcitrants.

The Marine Division of the Police Department also was notified of the riot and when the police boat Manhattan, which was cruising near, made toward them the six who had started hastily put back to the ship and were locked up.

The ship will sail for Spain on Tuesday, and the 129 volunteers will go with her. The police said there were no serious injuries in the mutiny and the damage was confined largely to bruised heads. When one of the few men armed with knives started to use his weapon, they said, he was felled with a club before he could do any damage.

Man Failed to Pay for Child, Says B. M. T. Employe, Who Is Also Held

Following an altercation with a B. M. T. subway platform guard over the fare of his ten-year-old child, Harry Moscowitz, 40 years old, of 910 Bryant Avenue, the Bronx, was arrested yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct and locked up at the Oak Street Station. The guard, S. Roys Weldon, 35 years old, of 429 State Street, Brooklyn, arrested on the same charge and for carrying a concealed weapon, was also locked up.

According to the guard, Moscowitz, with his wife and two children, passed through a turnstile at the Municipal Building Station, paying fare for only three. The boy, the guard charged, crawled under the stile. In the altercation which followed the guard had his glasses broken and Moscowitz his straw hat crushed. Moscowitz said that the guard had hit him with a "billy."

Austria and Hungary Still at Odds.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—There is no present prospect of reconciling the differences between Austria and Hungary over the negotiation of a commercial agreement, it is semiofficially announced. All attempts to reach a provisional agreement based on Austria's acceptance of Hungary's surplus crops of fruit, vegetables and wine grapes in return for Hungary's reduction of tariffs on specified Austrian manufactures have been abandoned. Negotiations for a general agreement about tariff and railway rates will be resumed after a short interval.

WEATHER TO SPEED MOROCCO OFFENSIVE

Big French Attack Must Be Made This Month—Strong Positions to Be Taken.

FIGHTING DIES DOWN AGAIN

French Report Heavy Enemy Losses at Ain Bou Aissa—Spaniards Lose Fifty Men.

PARIS, Aug. 2 (AP).—In the absence of any fighting of importance between the French and the rebellious tribesmen in Morocco, attention has turned chiefly to the reported approaching French offensive.

The correspondent of the Temps in Fez repeats that the offensive must come at the end of August, as a winter campaign is unthinkable, for all the roads will be impracticable for use after Oct. 16, when the rainy season commences.

As a preliminary to the offensive various strong Riffian positions southward of the Ouergha River, which now form bases for raids, will be cleaned up by the French. These positions are strongly manned by rebels. As an instance, Mount Amergou, at the bend of the Ouergha between Koleine and Fez-el-Bali, holds 2,000 Riffs.

Abd-el-Krim, the rebel chieftain, is credited with having agents in towns south of the French lines who post letters to leading Moroccans and Europeans in order to create the impression that he is occupying the towns.

150 Riff Dead at Blockhouse.

FEZ, Aug. 1.—More than 150 bodies of Riffians were found around Ain Bou Aissa by mobile groups which spent the day finishing the destruction of the walls of the fort remaining after the explosion of munitions. The French cleaned out the enemy from the region and completed its devastation in reprisal for enemy activities.

The number of dead Riffians around the fort, testifying at once how bravely the sixty men forming the garrison defended themselves and how boldly the Riffians attacked, does not tell the full price Abd-el-Krim paid for the post. It is a point of honor among the Moors to remove wherever they can their dead from the battlefield and bury them. They could and did do this up to the last moment of the battle. Those which the French found show above all how fierce was the final stage of the battle.

The mobile groups also recovered the body of the Captain pilot whose plane crashed in the Riffian lines at Aissa yesterday. The Lieutenant who was with him firing the machine gun when the plane smashed is still missing, as is the wounded Lieutenant who commanded the defense at Aissa. No more members of the garrison have reached the French lines.

Hot weather seems to be causing even more lassitude among the rebels than the French. The whole front had a quiet day for a change, the only operations being carried out by the French, all without encountering serious resistance. The aviation corps, bombing the mountains west of Ouezzan, cleared the lines of communications, driving raiders who had been burning villages of loyal tribes back toward the Loukkos River. North of Fez a mobile group easily revictualled Bab Taza, which ordinarily is a difficult operation.

Rebels were driven from the mountainous region ten miles north of Taza by Poulet's group, marching from Djebel et Halfa, encountering Boutry's group coming west from Ain Bou Kellas and native partisans coming north from Meknassa and Tahtania.

Spanish Columns Aid French.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 1.—Despite terrible heat at Tetuan, the Spanish flying columns have operated actively in the Rio Martin sector. Spanish columns are widely spread out, insuring neighboring French troops against unforeseen attacks directed from the Spanish zone. It is reported that an increasing number of enemy groups six kilometers from Ouezzan cannot be withstood by mobile groups commanded by General Gourant and Colonel Le Fevre. The terrain is thickly wooded and the fanatic warlike natives all may be counted as allies of Abd-el-Krim. The columns not only must fight rebels but also watch suspicious places.

Reports reaching Tetuan from the enemy camp say tribesmen proceeding from the Spanish zone have crossed the Laukkos for the purpose of attacking the French, while the Djebala tribes in the Spanish zone are awaiting developments of a desperate attack intended by the rebels.

Spaniards Lose Fifty Men.

MADRID, Aug. 2 (AP).—Fifty Spanish soldiers were killed or wounded yesterday in dislodging a concentration of rebels between Bulherif and Tauriat Amaran. This announcement was contained in a War Office statement issued today. The fighting in the operation is described as having been fierce.

Twelve Spanish casualties in a "police" operation on the western front also are recorded in the statement.

SAYS WAR WILL END SOON.

Spanish Author Explains That Tribesmen Return Home in Fall.

Enrique de Meneses, Spanish novelist and playwright, who is in this country to arrange for the production of some of his plays, said yesterday that the resistance of the Riffians to the forces of Spain and France probably would end next month. He said that the rainy season in Morocco would then set in and that the soldiers of Abd-el-Krim would return to their pastoral pursuits.

The Riffians always fight hardest during the Summer months, Señor de Meneses said, chiefly because they have nothing else to do at that time. They complete the gathering of the harvest in May of each year, he explained, and after that they are available as fighting units for any militant chieftain who chooses to employ them until the following Autumn. He pointed out that the Spanish disasters of 1909 and 1911 and the heavy attack they suffered in 1921 occurred during the Summers of those years and that there had been comparatively little military activity in Morocco in the Winters. He attached great importance to the agreement recently reached by Marshal Pétain and General Primo de Rivera, because, he said, it would result in the closing of the gap which has hitherto existed between the French and Spanish forces, through which the Riffians have been able to infiltrate.

Señor de Meneses, who was wounded two years ago while serving in Morocco with the Spanish cavalry, has written a book around his experiences there, which he says has attained a large circulation in Spain.

Iodine Tells Housewife If Corn Is Not Sweet

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, N. J., Aug. 2.—The woman who goes marketing may in the future slip a vial of iodine into her vanity case as a first aid to successful selection of the sugar corn she buys. Experiments made by Federal and State agricultural agents indicate the practicability of the test.

Farmers say that not all is sweet corn that masquerades as such in the market. Some is merely white field, or horse corn in its green stage. Complaints of consumers brought about the test. Ears of different varieties of corn were used. A few kernels were split and a daub of iodine applied. Field corn turned a light brown. The poorer kinds of sweet corn became a darker brown, while genuine sugar corn changed to black.

PRODUCTION RECORD BROKEN IN NEW YORK

GAINED A BILLION OVER 1921

Industrial Workers Here Produced 8.8 Per Cent. of Country's Total.

New York City made a new record for industrial production in 1923 according to figures just received by the Merchants' Association from the United States Census Bureau and made public yesterday. Total production amounted to $5,349,077,000, a billion dollars above 1921 and $100,000,000 over the 1919 figure. The city's production for 1923 equaled 8.8 per cent. of the total for all goods manufactured in the United States.

Its products were made by 579,005 wage earners employed in 27,493 factories. As there were 10,176,750 persons engaged in all factories of the country, those working in New York City's factories equaled 6.6 per cent. of the total. This means that New York City factory workers made 8.8 per cent. of the country's total products.

Clothing, men's and women's	$1,528,365,400
Printing and publishing newspapers and periodicals	281,236,055
Millinery and lace goods	193,968,280
Bread and other bakery products	176,540,616
Fur goods	155,267,779
Printing and publishing, book and job	148,867,642
Slaughtering and meat packing	143,369,082
Tobacco, cigars and cigarettes	116,666,064
Knit goods	116,617,613
Boots and shoes	84,665,330
Gas, manufactured, illuminating and heating	81,903,188
Foundry and machine shop products	81,432,339
Shirts	78,764,670
Furniture	56,372,856
Confectionery	54,025,584

POSTAL COMMISSION TO MEET HERE TODAY

Congressional Body After Views of New Yorkers on the Increase in Rates.

The United States Postal Commission, of which Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire is Chairman, will begin public hearings on postal rates at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel this morning at 10:30 o'clock. The commission wants the views of business men and others on the new rates which have produced a 20 per cent. increase in revenue. Senator Moses has indicated that a reduction in the rates will follow his commission's report.

The commission held public hearings in Philadelphia last week. The commission includes besides Senator Moses, Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado, Representative W. W. Griest of Pennsylvania, Representative C. William Ramseyer of Iowa and Representative Thomas M. Bell of Georgia.

The commission will hold hearings also in Boston, Augusta, Me., Buffalo, Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul. It will hold a final hearing in Washington on Oct. 15.

LONDON CLUBS GRUMBLE.

Object to Restrictions on Drinking Hours and Serving Liquor.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Ninety-five per cent. of the London clubs are discontented with the restrictions imposed on them in serving alcoholic drinks. They want to be allowed to serve drinks ten hours daily and, if desired, until midnight. They object to asking the authorities for permission to extend the drinking hours every time members want to have a special celebration. They want to be allowed to regulate their own internal affairs.

A plebiscite of 1,500 clubs disclosed only 5 per cent. satisfied with the present drinking rules. Others point out that when Lloyd George curtailed the hours during which thirsty clubmen could seek relief he promised to restore pre-war conditions as soon as the war was over.

"But he didn't," they wail, "and neither did his successors."

In view of the dissatisfaction in club circles, the Home Secretary has agreed to meet a deputation of clubmen and listen to their grievances. It has been suggested that the clubs should introduce in Parliament a bill embodying their desire for longer drinking hours.

BOY KILLED BY FOUL BALL.

Hit on Head While Watching Game at Camp Warren, Staten Island.

Chester Mendizs, 11 years old, of 121 Seaside Boulevard, South Beach, S. I., was hit on the head by a foul ball in a baseball game at Camp Warren, Staten Island, yesterday afternoon and died before he reached the Staten Island Hospital at New Brighton.

He was standing near third base when a ball batted by Harry Korrbush, 19, of Camp Warren, hit him on the right temple. The game broke up when it was found the boy was seriously hurt. Korrbush was taken to Staten Island to Police Headquarters, where Chester's father, William, refused to make a complaint. Korrbush was ordered to appear before Magistrate Henry Bridges this morning, however, when it will be determined whether a technical charge of homicide will be made.

SAYS BIRTH CONTROL IS ITALY'S REMEDY

Professor East Answers Cippico, Who Urged Emigration as Population Relief.

WOULD STOP "SPAWNING"

Inexorable Laws of Nature, He Says, Make Other Relief Measures Temporary.

GRADE A MEN WELCOME

But Economic Pressure in Italy Is Not Driving That Class Here, Lecturer Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 2.—Professor Edward M. East of Harvard, author of "Mankind at the Cross-Roads," and an authority on population problems, declared in a statement today that Italy should solve her overpopulation problem by birth control. His statement was in reply to last night's lecture at the Institute of Politics by Count Antonio Cippico, Italian Senator and Fascist, who said the Italians would never accept "the infamous remedies of Malthus" and called birth control advocates "apostles of infanticide."

Professor East, who is leader of the institute round table conference on "Agriculture and Population Increase," said:

"Our distinguished visitor, Count Cippico, like the astute politician that he is, has brought with him several sugar-coated pills of Italian expediency. These medicaments he would have the American public swallow, after the rather paradoxical Chinese method, in order to cure his country of the ills which her own reckless living has brought upon her. I refer to his views on the population question. He says, in effect, we must not accept these hard, cruel laws of Malthus. They are not valid in the first place, and, even if they are, they are materialistic and un-Christian and ought to be repealed by statutory enactment. Italy, he somewhat bitterly admits, was tricked at Versailles when the spoils of war were divided; and now the least the world in general and the United States in particular can do is to allow the excess army of half a million, which the country throws off each year, to be farmed out on other lands.

"The eminent Senator has our sympathy. We give it as one would give it to any suffering individual whose recklessness has brought him pain; but the cure does not lie in aiding a continuance of self-indulgence.

Mathematical Law Governs.

"The first Malthusian law is a mathematical law, inexorable as such laws are. Population does tend to press with irresistible force upon the means of subsistence in any given circumscribed unit. The thesis has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt by an avalanche of quantitative evidence. Under natural conditions population increase is finally repressed and stabilized by the intensity of the struggle for existence, and Count Cippico grants this to be the fact when he says: 'The truth is that her [Italy's] territory is insufficient to support her population.'

"Such a natural law may be harsh, it may be cruel, but we must accept it for what it is, like the law of gravitation. When Christ was led to the highest pinnacles of the temple and asked to dispute the cruelty of the latter law by casting himself down, he refused. He climbed down in the regular way and went about his business. The world asks Italy to follow his example, to extricate herself from her perilous position with respect to overpopulation, in a perfectly natural and reasonable way; not by denying the truth of a law of nature, not by lamenting over its harshness if its validity be granted, but by taking care not to remain in the path of its crushing force.

"Does the world make an unreasonable or unethical request? No. It asks that Italy set her house in order, that instead of spawning children on the world with haphazard recklessness when they can be given no fair chance for a life of happiness and usefulness, to restrict the families in accordance with opportunity. It asks that the sons of Italy be brought into the world by choice, with some regard for the paternal income, the maternal strength and the health of the child. Italy's terrible infant mortality is directly traceable to too frequent childbearing and over-large families. Why not reduce it? Why should man emulate the lobster in the matter of reproduction when God has given him brains? And our visitor should know when the world gives this neo-Malthusian advice that it is not speaking of infanticide, as he stated in his third lecture at the Institute of Politics.

"This advice is not incompassionate. It is the advice of a benevolent family physician who does not want to see a great career ruined by foolhardy indiscretion. It has back of it good and sufficient reasons.

Emigration No Remedy.

"The first reason is the second law of Malthus, which says that the emigration which Count Cippico recommends is no permanent relief to a land of poor people oppressed by the results of their reproductive talents. It is as sound and as inexorable as the first law. It has been proved statistically so many times that continued elaboration of figures is superfluous. Emigration relief is temporary. There is immediate birth release and the harassed people are again back in the same situation. Has not Italy been sending out her overflow for fifty years? And is she not asking to continue this illogical process indefinitely?

"The second reason is still more important. No nation wants the dregs drained from the bottom of the vat. Those of Italy are not less welcome than those of any other nation, but they are not welcome. We know Italy's greatness, her Galileos, her Leonardos, her Michelangelos. Does she send us these, even in humble imitations? She does not. Look over 'Who's Who in America' for Italian names. They are conspicuous by their absence. Look at the army intelligence test records. They are low, so unconscionably low that they are a reproach and a shame to Italy's greatness. She is as well rid of them as an individual would be well rid of a cancerous tumor. I yield to none in my appreciation of Italian art, architecture, literature and science. Our culture here would be immensely improved if we could import and make our own some of the creative geniuses comparable to those who built so grandly in the Renaissance. Have we the slightest chance of obtaining them? Again I say no. The Grade A men of Lombardy and Tuscany are not squeezed out by economic pressure. Such people take care of themselves. Furthermore, these northerners are men of brains, thoughtful and foresighted. They are not producing Italy's excess. The excess comes from below Rome, people of a different race, people where Grade A men are negligible in quantity, where grades D and E predominate. The incompetents from Italy's population curve are the ones the astute Senator asks us to receive. And he is so complacent in his absurd proposal. We don't need these people, that is all. We produce enough of that quality ourselves."

COOK SEES NATION 'MILDLY CHRISTIAN'

Says It Is Immune to Real Religion Because of Inoculation of Dilute Faith.

FINDS VALUE IN THIS FORM

Declares It Has Helped Us Meet Some Issues of Life, but Has Left Larger Ones Untouched.

America is inoculated with a mild and diluted form of Christianity which renders the country immune from any "violent attack" of real Christianity, according to Bishop Philip Cook of Delaware, who preached yesterday morning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The adulterated form of Christianity which he found widespread in the United States is of great value, according to Bishop Cook.

"But it is vital Christianity alone," he added, "which can work miracles of Christianity in the life of the world." He said that "Christian activities" were developing more rapidly than "Christian faith and Christian experience," and that the Church was not making full use of its greater opportunities.

"Here in America the influence of the Christian religion runs far and wide in the life of its people and more or less permeates the social organism," said Bishop Cook. "News which relates to Christianity, so long as it is news, takes a place on the front page of the daily press. Current magazines find such an interest among their readers in a religious page that they give it a permanent place in their publications. More books are printed on questions which relate to religion than on almost any other topic. Popular editions of the life of Christ rival the best sellers in fiction. Prominent visitors are impressed with the zest we show in the discussion of religious problems.

"To say that Christianity does not influence and affect our national life would be as far from an accurate statement of the case as for us to pretend that America is vitally and truly Christian. Perhaps the best description of us is that we are mildly Christian.

"If the method of the pure food law were applied in order to determine the ingredients of American life, the greatest expert would find it impossible to determine just what percentage of unadulterated Christianity is to be found in the mixture of worldliness, greed, rank materialism, unbelief, agnosticism, paganism, humanitarianism, sentiment, heedlessness and common easy-going good nature, which constitutes the composite character of American life.

"But something of Christian spirit and from Christian source would be found almost everywhere and in everything. Mostly it would be found adulterated and in a mild form. Our morals are mildly Christian, the press is mildly Christian, business is mildly Christian, education is mildly Christian, industry is mildly Christian, politics is mildly Christian. Most of us are mild Christians, and we bring this mildness into the Church. Being pretty thoroughly inoculated with this type, we are more or less immune from violent attack.

"This arises largely from the general habit of seeking to make Christ conform to our ways rather than to make our ways conform to Christ and his teachings. Our efforts usually end in compromise. We take so much from Christ as taste, private judgment and personal habits of life will permit, and try not to concern ourselves seriously about the remainder. We brace ourselves so as not to be swept off our feet. We regard many of His precepts as not to be taken too literally. Most of us escape that moral turpitude which might cast us into the darkness of social ostracism, but we also lack those burning convictions and mastering impulses which brought the Apostles within sight of the shining battlements of the Kingdom of Heaven.

"With this equipment we are able to meet some of the large issues of life with a fair amount of success. We have enough of the light of life and salt of the spirit to keep society from pollution and ourselves unspotted from the world. We live and move in an atmosphere of order and quiet even in the centres of great population. Let no man undervalue the achievements of the present day. They are of an imposing character.

"But there are larger and more insistent problems as yet scarcely touched. We do not know as yet how to provide for a fairer an more equitable distribution of wealth and all the privileges it carries with it. We have not learned how to work out the problems of a divided Christendom and present to the One Shepherd one fold, and to the world a united Christian force."

CALLS THE BIBLE FOLKLORE

Dr. Bishop Denies Literal Belief Is Necessary to Christianity.

The Rev. Dr. Shelton Hale Bishop, curate of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, told his negro audience yesterday that the Bible was a glorious folklore, comparable with the negro folklore. The Bible contained great religious truths, the preacher said, but he denied that literal interpretation was essential to Christian faith.

"Evolution does not contradict the basic truth of the Bible," he said. "Like the Bible, it teaches that out of the void the earth was formed, that first the plants were created and then higher forms of life, culminating in man. What difference does it make whether the earth was created 600,000,000 years ago as some scientists claim, or 6,000 years ago, as some people are still blind enough to believe. On the contrary, seeing with our own eyes how far humanity has traveled, how high it has risen, we may gain confidence in the future. For if we bar the possibility of changing into something better and nearer perfection we shall ask ourselves whether striving for the better is of any use.

"Science and religion are not antagonistic, as some ignorant men would like us to believe. They both contain immortal and everlasting truths, and earnest men always endeavor to find these truth that are deeply hidden in the heart of God. You can accept the principle of evolution and the Bible, and then you will believe that the day will come when men will be so much better and nobler than they are today that they may be like the Lord Jesus."

DEFINES EVOLUTION AS THE BINDING TIE

Dr. Shelander Says the World Is Witnessing a New Order of Religion and Science.

It is no more religious to believe the world 6,000 years old than to believe it a billion years old; it is no more religious to believe the world flat than to believe it spherical, according to the Rev. Dr. A. R. Shelander of the First Unitarian Church of Trenton, N. J., who preached yesterday at All Souls Unitarian Church, Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street.

"We are now witnessing a new world order," he said, "a new world system which embraces our political, economic and religious life and results from scientific investigation. In modern scientific thinking we do not deal with absolutes or supernatural at all. We do not claim to know the beginning or the end of anything. We believe that all things are related to one another, but we do not know where the original spark of life came from.

"Since our knowledge is relative, then it may be said to grow out of our experience. I would say then that there are not two truths, revealed and acquired, but only one truth—that coming through knowledge after painstaking scientific investigation. It makes a great difference whether one holds to the Platonic idea of revealed knowledge or the scientific idea of knowledge growing out of our human experience.

"The doctrine of evolution underlies all science. It has been said that without that doctrine we would not have had the marvelous scientific progress of recent years. What is evolution? The Fundamentalists say 'Evolution maintains that man has descended from the monkey.' But evolution means a great deal more than that. It means that we are related not only to the monkey but to all other animals, including the microscopic one-celled animals. It means that we are related to the entire vegetable kingdom. It means that we are related in a vital organic way to the mineral world.

"It means that if there are any intelligent beings in any other part of this universe, we are their blood relations. And there are intelligent beings in other planets, because it is absurd to think that this little world of ours is the only spot in the immense universe which is inhabited.

"And if there is an intelligent Being in supreme authority over all the universe, as there must be, or else it wouldn't run, then God is not supernatural, but we are related to Him organically, vitally. The relationship is almost a blood relationship. What evolution means is that all things that exist are bound up together with vital, intimate ties to form one organic whole."

DR. GILMORE CONDEMNS QUIBBLES OVER BIBLE

In Present Controversy, He Says, One Side Seeks Inconsistencies, the Other Tries to Cover Them.

The inspiration and influence of the Bible are suffering because of the uses to which it is being put in the Modernist-Fundamentalist controversy, according to the Rev. Dr. O. T. Gilmore, who preached yesterday at Grace Methodist Church.

"One is searching critically with a microscope to find inconsistencies and defects," he said, "while the other is working with logic to cover up inconsistencies, to bolster up all theories of the past and to defend every letter."

Quarreling over small questions of the text was condemned in the days of the Pharisees and is equally open to condemnation today, according to the preacher, who continued:

"When the Bible, either in the days of the Pharisees or today, is used merely as a handbook on religious etiquette, it becomes a devitalizing instrument and is dangerous to man's higher life. To many people the Bible linked with their church ritual is no more. They study them so that they may follow along with the church mass in just such a way that they will feel they have not committed social-religious blunders. They have meager standards of life. Such people certainly do not find life in the Scriptures. They and the Pharisees would have found much in common hobnobbing together.

"Neither will the very common and old use of the Bible, that of a 'manual of rules for daily conduct,' give men life. Rule books are of value in their place. However, they have to be often revised and rewritten to meet the changing customs and needs of society. Many people try to put the Bible in this category. It is probably a fine practice to make for oneself a daily dozen in accord with principles of the scriptures but to make the scriptures such is to destroy the book that contains them. There is a vast difference between an essay on how to play baseball or a history of baseball and a baseball rule book. There is an even wider gulf between the Bible as it really is and it considered as a book of rules. Our law-crazy age would be happy to have such a pocket edition on conduct. So we try to force the Bible to supply the demand.

"People who treat any scripture as so much religious etiquette or as a supremely authoritative rule book almost invariably develop a magic complex. They come to treat the book as an oracle; they worship it. This is especially true of the great-grandchildren of the Pharisees. It is easier to worship the book than the God of the book. The book is visibly concrete and makes an excellent idol. 'Just open it anywhere and you will find out what you should do.' That is one of the attitudes. Another is that of considering it as without error, infallible in every letter. This is the most simple and most certain way to completely miss its message, its purpose, and to destroy it. Furthermore, it usually means for those taking this attitude a gradually widening gulf between morality and vital religion."

URGES FIGHT FOR JUDAISM.

Rabbi Levy Deplores Drift to Christian Science and Asks Halt.

Judaism should have met Christian Science on its own ground long ago, according to Rabbi Clifton Harby Levy, who spoke last night at the opening session of a conference of rabbis at Temple Beth-El, Rockaway Park, where several leaders in the teaching of "Jewish Science" will discuss during the week such topics as "The Cure of Nervousness Through the Spirit," "The Banishment of Fear by Spiritual Certainty" and "The Ending of All Worry in the Light of the Spirit."

"When some Jewish people, not having found spiritual nourishment in their own faith, began to drift into Christian Science and New Thought," said Rabbi Levy, "then was the time for Judaism to call a halt on the loss of our own people. Judaism has always fought the enemy on its own ground.

"Judaism is elastic enough to evaluate and interpret doctrine in the currency of the day. It was never assimilated. So today the rabbis are called upon to interpret the Bible so that it should no longer be a sealed book to the people. The label matters not. What we aim to give the people is a revelation of Judaism so that we may find solace and comfort in the faith that has been so long the staff of life."

COMPARES BRYAN WITH ROOSEVELT

Both Devoutly Religious and Champions of Right, Says Dr. Sheerin in Sermon.

SEES PATHOS AT DAYTON

Declares Picture of Big-Hearted Commoner Tricked by a Cynic Is Memorable.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 2.—The Rev. Dr. James Sheerin of New York talked on Bryan, comparing and contrasting him with Roosevelt, in his sermon this morning at Christ Church.

"Like most earnest men of similar temperament, Bryan was carried away at times by superficial and warm-hearted humanitarian impulses," he said. "He adopted suddenly and advocated heatedly programs of thought or action which wiser men could not accept. He never ceased to urge upon the nation policies that a longer experience would hardly justify.

"Sometimes, by impetuous ways like this, William Jennings Bryan and Theodore Roosevelt seemed a good deal alike. Each was eager to see righteousness prevail; each was a rebel when party tyranny seemed to get in the way of what he thought right. Roosevelt had wider and deeper knowledge. He had more ability to make important decisions that were immediately workable. Both were preachers of righteousness and both were devoutly religious, but Bryan was by far the more imaginative and oratorical in temperament, and therefore the less able to cause immediate results. Both had a yearning for human good seldom equaled by public men, and never surpassed by great party leaders.

"It is well to keep such a man as Roosevelt in office, but it is equally well, perhaps, to keep such a man as Bryan out of office. This is not said to belittle him, but to discriminate as to functions. Much as the world is inclined to slight the public speaker and scoff at the prophet, the truth is that it needs the man who can speak fully as much as the public man who can plan and manage.

"One of the most pathetically glorious pictures in American history will remain the recollection of this big brained, big hearted man, William Jennings Bryan, buffeted and tricked into saying what many scholars call stupid things by so clever and cynical a rival as Mr. Darrow in the hectic day at Dayton.

"Wrong as he was in interpretation of the times, somehow unable to place in true perspective the surface matters of science and religion, he seemed the personification of all the dreams and hopes of multitudes of devout people who refuse to reconcile themselves to even the better modern ideas of spirit and flesh.

"He may be the last of his great race to champion what is called the old fashioned Christianity, but it will be long before men see anything more beautiful than the character produced by that old religion, and high among those who loved and fought for it will be set the great and good man we are remembering today."

CALLS PRESS FAIR TO BRYAN.

Bible Institute Head Praises His Faith, Industry and Sacrifice.

Memorial services for the late William Jennings Bryan at the National Bible Institute, 330 West Fifty-fifth Street, were attended yesterday by more than a hundred persons who crowded the small auditorium. The service was patterned after that which was held in Dayton, Tenn., and began with the hymns which were sung there.

Don O. Shelton, President of the institute, made a short address in which he commended the fair treatment accorded Mr. Bryan by the newspapers both before and after his death. "A personality that is able to evoke such wholesome publicity as he did, when THE NEW YORK TIMES, three days after his death, allotted thirteen columns to his unspoken address, must be accounted a truly extraordinary power in American life," he said. "Mr. Bryan had three outstanding virtues. First, was his faith in God, and in the authority of His written word; second, his industry; and third, his ability to withstand personal sacrifice and malignant abuse for the sake of the cause for which he fought."

Hugh R. Monro, Treasurer of the institute, also spoke. "The standards of every generation are set by a few men," he said, "despite the fact that there is a common belief that social progress is dependent on mass information and culture. One of the leaders of this generation was Mr. Bryan, and he takes his place in the succession of leaders with such men as Moses, Abraham and Paul. It is still too early to praise him.

"There are persons who question the religion he fought so steadfastly for, and there are others who question his mental power, and both classes obscure the view of the fruitfulness of his work. We can, however, definitely appraise his unblemished personal character, a great social asset in a day when every man in a high place must stand rigid investigation into his private life. Even those who disagree with him most bitterly are forced to admire his integrity. He was a man of great spirituality and Christian devotion.

"There is not a single man in public life today who has the grasp of the Gospel that Mr. Bryan had, and this quality is indeed a rare endowment for a man in high public position. No man ever held the hearts of the common people as did Mr. Bryan, and it will be impossible to measure the extent of his influence for some time to come. He believed in Fundamentalism, that is, the irreducible minimum of truth without which there would be no Christianity, and he fought for it regardless of himself."

POSTPONES HYMN PROGRAM

Golden Says They Are in Dance Time, Not Jazz—Yields to Protests.

Ernie Golden, director of the Hotel McAlpin's roof garden orchestra, yielded last night to the objections made by the Methodist Men's Council at Round Lake, N. Y., against his announced intention to broadcast hymns in fast dance time from Station WMCA, and omitted that part of the program. Golden said that more than a hundred other messages had been received asking that he postpone the program until it had had a preliminary trial.

Golden is the son of a minister and formerly was organist in New England churches. He said that he had arranged last night's scheduled program at the request of a prominent New York clergyman, who had organized a saxophone orchestra which would play in his church every Sunday this Fall. He denied that he had intended to "jazz" hymns, but said he merely recast them in dance time to make them more attractive.

The McAlpin management announced that Golden would play his dance-time hymns on an organ at the meeting of the Exchange Club next Thursday noon. More than 350 ministers have been invited to attend, it was said.

ATTACKS INTOLERANCE OF LITERAL BIBLE VIEW

Dr. Romig, Praising Bryan, Sees Peril in 'Apathy of Those Boasting Greater Enlightenment.'

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 2.—"The danger to our common religious life today is not in the misdirected zeal of the religiously credulous, but in the self-satisfaction and the apathy of those boasting greater enlightenment," said the Rev. Dr. Edgar F. Romig of the Middle Collegiate Church of New York City at the union service of the North and South Congregational, Methodist and Baptist Churches of Middletown today. "Bryan, American and Christian," was the subject of his sermon.

Referring to Bryan, Dr. Romig said: "As he spent himself in his formidable task in that little Tennessee town which for the time was the cynosure of the eyes of the world he won from critics the most biting and contemptuous epithets that could bruise the spirit of man. Does it seem quite right that it should have been so?

"We claim to be broad-minded men and women, liberal Christians, but are we worthy of the name? Sometimes it seems to me that, in its reaction to the trial at Dayton, liberal Christianity, so called, was contradictorily narrow, obtuse, pedantic and unsportsmanlike. Of course, we resented the uncompromising attitude of the framers of the anti-evolution law and those who rallied to its support. But all the more did it behoove us to be willing to discern the spiritual values in what they stood for. We, in the United States, shall never make genuine progress in the direction of ultimate truth until we are willing to concede every iota of actual truth in views opposed to our own. Fundamentalists may be sneeringly labeled 'Ignorance with an Amen attached to it,' but Bryan at Dayton was emphatically not a symbol of ignorance. In the first place, he knew one book well, the Bible. How many people who express themselves so glibly in this controversy really know well one book of any kind?

"And again, Bryan at Dayton was a type of that earnestness of spirit without which no great movement in history has ever gained momentum. It could not be said of him as, alas! it can be of many who glory in their tolerance, that in the school of makeshift he had lost that original enthusiasm for righteousness.

"Fundamentalism in this land will die hard, but it will die. But long after it has been relegated to the obscurity of forgotten causes, the earnestness of some of the advocates like William Jennings Bryan will be held in honor as an indispensable fibre in the weaving that constitutes America."

PREDICTS EVOLUTION WAVE.

Dr. Cotton Calls Theory One of the Grandest Man Has Evolved.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 2.—In a sermon at the Unitarian Church here today the Rev. Dr. Edward H. Cotton predicted a sweeping wave of reaction in favor of evolution following the Dayton trial.

"Evolution," he said, "is one of the grandest theories ever evolved from the mind of man to explain his origin, his mission here and his destiny.

"Now, there is no phase of life to which evolution more directly applies than to the development of the religious instinct. Religion, as man, had crude beginnings. It consisted first, among the early Egyptians, for instance, in the worship of sacred crocodiles, cats and beetles; among the Hebrews of sacrifices of bulls and goats; among the people of India in the car of juggernaut and widow burning; among the Greeks of the building of statues and temples to beings half gods, half men, as Jupiter, Mars and Venus; among the Germanic peoples of devotion to the war heroes, Odin and Thor. Christianity is the latest development of the religious impulse, but a better one may yet dawn upon us.

"Now an outstanding law of evolution is the struggle for existence. You have but to read the story of the child sacrifices to Baal and Ashtoroth, and the terrible proceedings in the grim chambers of the Inquisition in Europe and America in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. But this struggle finally resulted in elimination of the worse and dominance of the better. Today we could not have child sacrifices and an Inquisition. Thus evolution and religion travel hand in hand."

PLEADS FOR PRAYER-LIFE.

Dr. H. N. Holmes Finds Overorganization in the Churches.

Overorganization and an attempt to substitute machinery for personal devotion and enthusiasm are growing evils in the modern church, according to the Rev. Dr. Harry N. Holmes, who preached yesterday at the Central Church of the Disciples of Christ at 142 West Eighty-first Street.

"I tremble for spiritual movements today with their emphasis upon organization," said Dr. Holmes. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. I'd willingly part with the purse of the Church, and with its structure, if we could regain some of our spiritual peace, and attain a 'prayer-life.'

"With our superfluity of organization we want flowers the day after we have planted the seeds. We are not willing to prepare. Have you ever seen the glories of the Grand Canyon? In this rushing, complex civilization in which we live, we forget the millenniums necessary to the cutting of the Grand Canyon.

"It takes not only a big man to do a big job, but a good man with a purified, sanctified spirit.

"How do you suppose the boy who will be the leader of our Government twenty-five years from now is spending his night now a-days? Is he passing three nights a week in the picture palaces and four in the dance halls? No, he is burning the midnight oil in study in some garret here in New York."

FETE AT LUTHERAN HOME.

Over 400 Attend Annual Celebration at Herrlish Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

TOWNERS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Between 400 and 500 Lutherans attended the annual celebration yesterday of the Wilbur A. Herrlish Memorial Farm, a fresh air home for Lutheran children from New York City. Most of the visitors were from Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The Rev. Dr. Augustus Steimele, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Advent, Manhattan, presided. The host was the Rev. Clarence Krumholz, superintendent of the home. The farm accommodates ninety children, including some of the clinic patients at the Lutheran Hospital, 144th Street and Convent Avenue, Manhattan. They spend two weeks here.

PASTOR SAYS FAITH LIFTS UP THE ABJECT

Dr. Hutton Declares That Belief Helps Man to Overcome Moral Weakness.

QUOTES FROM STEVENSON

London Minister Counsels His Hearers to Maintain a Lofty Mood in Life.

The justification of faith is that it enables man to confront the facts of the universe which tend to make him abject in his own eyes, according to the Rev. Dr. John A. Hutton, pastor of the Westminster Congregational Chapel, Buckingham Gate, London, who preached yesterday morning at the Central Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. He said that faith accomplishes those ends by persuading man of his significance.

"Another region of disquietude that faith enables man to confront is that sense of weakness that he confesses before the moral demands of his own nature," Dr. Hutton said. "Man is not a natural being. That is the great contention of the Christian religion. To ask a man to live naturally, in the sense in which that word is usually construed, is to ask him to live more naturally than he was intended or equipped to do."

Referring to St. Paul's appeal to Timothy, "Take thy share of hardness," Dr. Hutton drew the attention of the congregation to the obvious necessity under which the writers of the New Testament labored of encouraging the people to face the various causes of discouragement and depression. He quoted several verses of Stevenson's "Virginibus Puerisque," appealing to man to maintain a lofty mood in life.

"Apostle of Doom" Sees New Wars.

War between England and Soviet Russia this Fall; a death-struggle between capital and labor and the ultimate conquering of the world by Japan were "prophesied" by Robert Reidt, the "Apostle of Doom," in a talk yesterday afternoon before the West Side Religious Forum in the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway at Sixty-sixth Street. Mr. Reidt, who predicted that the world would come to an end on Feb. 6 last, said that "the coming of Christ will follow the great conflict between the white and the yellow races."

HOLMES PRAISES BROWN.

Calls 'Heretic Bishop' a 'Saint' and Says He Founded a New Gospel.

Persons termed heretics are more genuinely religious than their persecutors and are the intellectual trail-blazers of all times, the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes said yesterday morning at the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. He called Bishop William Montgomery Brown a "saint" and said that the former head of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Arkansas had been expelled because Christian orthodoxy was more interested in belief than in character.

In 1912 when he had retired from his see in Arkansas, Dr. Holmes said, Bishop Brown first came in contact with modern thought.

"He read two books during that year which completely revolutionized his outlook," Dr. Holmes went on. "The first was Charles Darwin's 'Origin of the Species.' It destroyed his faith in Christianity, its transcendent God, its divine Christ, its infallible Bible, the soul and immortality. After completing it he believed that the whole philosophy of supernatural spiritism, including Jesus, was a myth.

"The second book that the Bishop read in the year of his conversion was Karl Marx's 'Das Capital.' This completely wiped out his faith in the existing political and economic order as a divinely established system of society. He then put the two books together and produced a new gospel. Negatively, it is a twofold attack on Christianty—from the scientific standpoint as untrue and from the social viewpoint as unjust. Positively, it is a new religion of naturalistic humanism—naturalistic in the sense that it would utilize the natural forces of the world as the bases of existing scientific knowledge; humanistic in the sense that it would direct these forces to the liberating service of mankind."

LAYS STRESS ON RELIGION.

Must Be First Interest, No Side Issue, Says Father Hammer.

Those who take their religion as a side issue instead of the major interest in their lives were criticized by the Rev. Father Henry Hammer, preaching yesterday morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street.

"Sometimes people seem to think that Christ is just some kindly ideal," he said. "They give no consideration to their spiritual welfare. The eyes of Jesus Christ would be horrified at the spectacle of their souls. They need inspiration to more accurate thinking, and to better behavior."

Park up yonder on the mountain

"WE outdoor chaps all have some favorite hang-out in the hills, where peace descends like a mantle, and the music of moving waters is sweeter far than the clamor of the cities.

"Don't go on cheating yourself. Body and soul alike resent the strain and strife of these long days and longer nights under torrid roofs.

"Park up yonder on the mountain. It's not so far away. There wait the cool quiet of the hills and the playground of the winds. There sound sleep comes, and with it zest for whatever task the morrow may bring.

"And no matter how steep the grades, or how rough the road, with Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil, there's still power in reserve to conquer new heights.

"There's health in the motor ride—longer life and happier."

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—The northeastern disturbance has advanced to Newfoundland and the northwestern disturbance is central over Alberta and moving slowly eastward. Pressure is higher off the North Pacific Coast and almost generally from the plain States eastward beyond Bermuda. Generally fair weather has prevailed during the last twenty-four hours except for scattered showers in the Ohio Valley, Southern Michigan, Southern Texas, the Florida Peninsula, Central Iowa and the plateau region. The weather has become slightly warmer almost generally east of the Rocky Mountains, except along the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts, and the temperature is now much above normal in the Dakotas, Montana and the Canadian Northwest.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Monday and Tuesday in the States east of the Mississippi River. The temperature will not change materially, although it will be slightly higher on Tuesday in the southern lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. LELONG'S FASHIONS COVER WIDE RANGE

Silhouettes Are Straight or Flaring, Severe or Soft, as Best Suits the Particular Gown.

TWO EXTREMES ARE SHOWN

"Boa Constrictor" Coat Reproduces Serpent's Skin—Pyjama Suits Are a Novelty.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—A wedding gown of panne velvet, untrimmed and veiled in clouds of tulle, concluded the program of fashions shown at the establishment of Lucien Lelong tonight. The exhibition was one of great importance, presenting a kaleidoscopic array of new styles, ranging from the extremest type of sports dresses to a siren's robe of glittering spangles. In these models, illustrating the advance modes for Autumn and Winter, M. Lelong handled the matter of lines with delightful indiscrimination. The silhouette is straight or flaring, severe or soft, as best suits the type of gown and wearer as the designer has visualized her in the costume.

No attempt is made to place a formal waist curve, but a straight overblouse or bodice is drawn more closely about the figure, which reveals soft curves and is altogether feminine in effect. A higher belt line is achieved in some of the most chic informal afternoon gowns by blousing the waist and by a sort of bolero and sash.

This is shown in an ultra smart frock of black satin having a loose bodice of scarlet crêpe dropped over a narrow belt. A coat of black satin was lined with scarlet and trimmed all around with a band of natural fox.

Among other models of distinctive character was one named by the creator "Peggy." The material is embossed chiffon of velvet gold and mennon on black and a large diamond shaped pattern. "Nadine" was an afternoon gown of crêpe in a design of bright colors on a neutral background designated this season as "Arts Décoratif."

The military note is accentuated in several informal day frocks and coats with much scarlet and black and touches of metal in steel nail heads and braid buckles. Evening gowns were symphonies of grace and color. "Blue Butterfly," in blue and silver; "Lotus," a gorgeous manteau of brocade in lotus flower pattern over a gown of leaf green, silver and mauve, and "Insouciante," a jeune fille frock of white satin with a border of dangling gilt hearts over which was worn a voluminous wrap of ermine, were among the tableaus which drew applause from the audience that packed the long, spacious rooms.

Two extremes in style were shown. One which provided a thrill was a fine quality of panne velvet imitating alligator, lizard and snakeskins, which now are so fashionable. The most conspicuous of these was a coat named "boa constrictor," a faithful reproduction of serpent skin trimmed with a border of jet black shaggy fur. The other novelty was a group of pyjama suits as "robes d'intérieur," in beautiful color combinations. Trousers of green satin made quite tight were shown, with a smock of white chiffon. Black and white were combined in some especially handsome gowns and white mouflons were used on several wraps—with stunning effect on an evening wrap of black velvet.

Massachusetts Governor Calls Commission to Account for Granting It.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 2.—Governor Fuller is disturbed because the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission allowed the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company the increases in rates approximating $8,460,000 a year which the commission announced Friday. The Governor, at his Summer home in Little Boar's Head, N. H., declared that, while he did not impugn the motives of the utilities commissioners, he had called them to meet him at the State House tomorrow to justify their finding and to tell him especially why they believed the company was entitled to the 8 per cent. dividend rate and to pay high salaries to officials while the organization was in direct need of capital.

Governor Fuller is reported to have a conference scheduled for tomorrow with Attorney General Benton on the telephone finding, and will inquire if there is not some way in which the commission's order may be altered.

After handing down the order in the important case yesterday the five utilities commissioners scattered on their vacations.

Meantime, the telephone company is working day and night to put the increases into effect. President Jones maintains his attitude that even with the increases the company still will require funds. He contends that the salaries of the officials, including his own of $30,000 a year, are beside the point.

OUTLINES FALL TRENDS.

Forstmann & Huffmann Book Tells of New Season's Fabrics.

The Fall, 1925, edition of "Fabrics and Colors," which is issued each season by the Forstmann & Huffmann Company for the information of the sales forces of retail stores, is being distributed today. It analyzes the fabric and color demand as it has developed so far for the Fall and Winter seasons, and explains the purposes to which garment manufacturers are putting the concern's materials.

The book stresses the tendency toward thinner and lighter worsteds, which possess the characteristic of silk in touch, weight and finish. The company calls special attention to its mirroleen, which is described as the lightest and most silk-like fabric ever produced in a worsted material of its type. It is designed to replace silk in dresses, the company says, and also for the lining and facing of the separate and ensemble costume coat.

A complete description of the company's new wool and cashmere fabrics is also given by the book. In these a lustrous bloom is featured. The materials are soft and possess a fine nap. Kashoretta and needlepoint are two of the biggest selling weaves in the cashmere coatings. The importance of the plumage shades for Fall is outlined in the discussion of color developments for the approaching season.

French Plane Tested for Flight Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—One of the types of airplane engines which the French have been studying with a view to attempt a direct flight from Paris to New York came to grief yesterday while being tested in the Paris-Constantinople postal service. The pilot, Raveu, was able to make a landing in a wheatfield without serious injury. A few days ago with the same engine he made a flight from Paris to Strasbourg and return, about 570 miles, in five and a quarter hours.

FALL TRIMMINGS ORNATE.

Those Used on Tailored Dresses Include Several Novelties.

Among the features of the new types of tailored dresses for Fall is the impressive use of ornate detail. Collections of import models recently opened, according to a special bulletin issued yesterday by the fashion service department of the Botany Worsted Mills, bring forward several examples of this. They include not only the already popular scarf or long ties, introduced as part of the basic design, but also little velvet or taffeta cravats, which hitherto have been designed as a complete hat and neck-scarf set.

"The fur choker and metal fabric, metal leather and novelty suede neck garnitures," the bulletin continues, "are also given prominence. Solid embroideries are introduced in new ways in detachable cravats. A hint of these elaborations also reappears in fine lines at the wrist.

"Where contrasted plain fabric brings about a trimming detail, velvet is frequently favored. It appears as collar and turn-back cuff upon the soft-line tweed dress, as a long, knotted cravat or as a full-length inner waistcoat of semi-formal frocks. Velvet also is smartly introduced as a unique accessory of formal dress, where it is used for wide borders and ends of a tinted lace scarf.

"This vogue for elaborate scarfs, which extend their lines into almost shawl-like proportions, carries over into evening dress as a significant advance note. Velvet, satin, crêpe and metal godets and circular end pieces contribute to such chiffon and georgette scarfs, bringing them into the list of most luxurious accessories. Lanvin's success last season with the metal tissue scarf showing circular fur borders has induced this year a series of exceptional creations from both French and American sources for theatre, restaurant and formal evening wear.

"Brocades of small, intricate patterns and jewel-like colorings introduced carefully conceived touches upon velvet, satin or faille frocks of formal type. Metal cloths of plaid or geometric designs are also brought into the decorative scheme of otherwise plain velvet gowns.

"For the lace dancing frock, whether of metal or the Calais silk laces, a garniture of metallized velvet or chiffon flowers is accepted as a youthful note. These are threefold in expression. A single large rose may be placed on the shoulder, with a corresponding one at the hip line, front or back. For the dancing frock of circular genré there are flora cientures in brilliant or pastel shades, frosted in gold, silver or copper, on velvet, silk and delicately wired chiffon petals. With the new bustleized draperies, flat floral disks are strikingly accented against velvet, satin crêpe or metal swathings."

New Season's Styles and Patterns, as well as Standard Lines announced by Representative firms.

Beginning today, the value of the Wholesale Market Page, Department of Buyers' Wants and Offerings to Buyers, to both readers and advertisers, will be increased by a re-classification of advertisements.

Under Buyers' Wants there will be two general captions—"Standard Merchandise Which Can Be Reordered" and "Close Outs." To be followed by subheadings: Coats, Suits, Dresses, Cotton Goods, Furs, Silks, Woolens and Miscellaneous.

Under Offerings to Buyers there will be a new general classification of "Manufacturers, Mill Agents and Converters, Standard Merchandise Which Can Be Reordered." And a new general heading of "Close Outs." Each of these to be followed by the subheads named above.

The purpose of this new arrangement is to separate limited offerings from those of Manufacturers, Mill Agents and Converters who offer standard lines of goods.

$80,000 FIRE IN FACTORY.

Flames Spread to Owner's House, but Dog Warns Sleepers.

Special to The New York Times.

RUTHERFORD, N. J., Aug. 2.—Fire which started at 1:45 o'clock this morning in the plant of the Holdfast Manufacturing and Novelty Company at Carlstadt, near here, burned until 8 o'clock and wrecked the plant, causing damage estimated at $80,000.

The flames spread to a four-family dwelling next door, occupied by J. H. Krumpetz, President of the Holdfast Company, and his family. Mr. Krumpetz was out of town, but Mrs. Krumptez was home. A dog, frightened by the fire, aroused Mrs. Krumpetz. She warned others in the house, then ran over to the factory to try to save the company's books. Bystanders, fearing she would be trapped in the flames, seized her as she was entering the building. A moment later the floor of the office caved in.

Chief Henry Kaiser of the Carlstadt Fire Department obtained help from East Rutherford, Rutherford and Woodridge. Mr. Krumpetz arrived in Carlstadt after the blaze had been extinguished, and collapsed when told his factory had been destroyed.

STIRES MAY GET HIGH POST.

Bishop Coadjutor-Elect Backed to Head Episcopal Deputies.

There is a movement on foot to elect the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, the retiring rector of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, President of the House of Deputies at the triennial General Convention of the Episcopal Church in New Orleans, beginning Oct. 7, it was learned yesterday.

Dr. Stires is the Bishop Coadjutor Elect of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, but until he is consecrated he is eligible to be head of the House of Deputies, which is the highest office that can be given to a deputy to the convention. It is planned to defer his consecration until after the convention.

If Dr. Stires is elected President of the deputies he will succeed the Right Rev. Alexander Mann, now Bishop of Pittsburgh.

POSTMEN TAKE INSURANCE.

Policies for Montreal Men—Chemical Head Insured for $1,000,000.

Four hundred and twenty-five letter-carriers in Montreal, Canada, have joined in acquiring life insurance of $1,000 each, the Prudential Insurance Company of America announced yesterday in Newark. The total insurance involved, $415,000, is carried by the Montreal Syndicate of Letter Carriers, of which they are members.

Abe Plough, President of the Plough Chemical Company of Memphis, Tenn., has increased his life insurance to $1,000,000, it was also announced by the Prudential, one of a group of companies participating in underwriting his additional policy of $675,000.

The insurance, which is in favor of the chemical company, was subscribed to the extent of half a million by Mr. Plough's associates in the business, although he himself is only 33 years old. The transaction is declared to be in line with a tendency among executives to safeguard not only their families but their business associates also.

TO ELECTRIFY RUMANIA.

American Plans Involve Bucharest, Railroads and Oil Fields.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 2.—Negotiations are in progress between an American financia l group and the Municipality of Bucharest for a loan to construct a hydroelectric station near Bucharest.

The River Argesh, which will be joined to the River Dambovita by a canal, will provide the power. The negotiations are said to have reached an advanced stage and it is probable that the proposal will be submitted to the Cabinet next week.

The same American group has also proposed a greater plan involving the utilization of the waterpower in the Bisztra Valley, as well as in the Prahova district, to provide power to electrify the railways and oil fields.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Causes and Aspects of the Prevalent Cheerful View of the General Outlook.

The remarkable fact about the financial mood of the moment, as expressed in its expectations and predictions for the Autumn, is that the spirit of cheerfulness is not based on indications of a vigorous "forward movement" in finance and industry such as usually stirs up enthusiasm in the markets. Prevalence of a similar spirit at this time in 1919 had for its cause belief that rising prices for everything were ahead of us. In 1922 it had become plainly evident that the "deflation economies" practiced by merchants and consumers had gone entirely too far and that exhausted supplies and emptied shelves were about to compel purchase of goods immediately and on an exceptionally large scale. In midsummer of last year a very discouraging industrial situation was suddenly reversed, first by a wheat harvest far above expectations in the face of foreign shortage, next by the first abundant cotton crop since 1920, and finally by assurance of a sweeping conservative victory in the Fall elections.

There are no such outstanding indications of a changed condition in the present outlook; the most that even Mr. Mitchell had to say in his highly optimistic forecast of a fortnight ago was that the influences behind the revival of trade at the beginning of the present year are still dominating the general situation. Yet that diagonsis of the existing situation really sums up the grounds for the present hopefulness. It will be remembered that the recovery in finance and industry which took aggressive shape after last November's election and which was translated on the Stock Exchange into the largest investment purchases in many years on a rising market, came to a halt at the end of the year. Prudent investors then made up their minds that "discounting of the results of last year's favorable developments had been carried pretty far; that it would be the wiser policy to wait and see how far those results were permanent.

The speculators, being under no such restraint of judgment and experience, proceeded to "discount" more than any one could see—notably in the bidding up of wheat prices to $2.05¾. The wheat speculation and the stock speculation both broke down when it was found that not only investors but merchants and consumers were adopting a program of cautious watchfulness until the scope of permanent readjustment as a consequence of the events of 1924 should be determined.

It now appears to have been determined. The question of doubt, six months ago, was whether the increase of $753,000,000 in the value of last year's American crops as compared with 1923, and the increase of $1,663,000,000 over 1922, would be merely devoted to repayment of the long accumulating "frozen credits" of the farm belt, or would be translated into a new prosperity in that lately discouraged section of the country, with consequent revival of trade and industry throughout the Northwest and Middle West. Experienced financiers had been hopeful. Most of them were all along convinced that, even if debt extinction were to absorb the greater part of the farm profits of 1924, the agricultural district would none the less be placed on its feet again, with restored credit and renewed purchasing power. Some natural hesitancy was occasioned, however, by the fall in wheat prices during April, on the collapse of the Chicago speculation, to $1.27⅝. It was pointed out that if wheat were to go back again to the dollar price, and the cost of other than agricultural products were to rise, then the farmer would be slipping again into the predicament of 1923. But the past two or three months have indicated that this was not to happen.

Agricultural prices have moved back to a remunerative basis, substantially above even those of a year ago; non-agricultural prices have not risen; the margin above pre-war values in what the farmer has to sell is practically equal to that existing in what he has to buy, instead of being nearly 20 per cent. lower, as it was at times in 1923 and 1922. All of the current Western and Northwestern trade reviews, notably the monthly Reserve Bank bulletins, report reviving trade; one of them describes the volume of business in the Middle West as surpassing all records for the season since 1920, and perhaps all other records. The discouraging trade of two or three years ago was reflected in progressively decreasing bank clearings; the latest monthly figures show increase of no less than 20 to 25 per cent. over 1924 in the entire Western district. Returns of railway traffic in the same section are showing much the largest distribution of goods in five years past.

The inference is therefore reasonably plain; the cheerfulness of financial sentiment and the hopeful attitude of the Stock Exchange have been reflecting tangible evidence that the new influences which came into play during 1924 have not spent their force. The change for the better in the American situation was more permanent than the faint-hearted markets of last Spring imagined. Back of these considerations, in their bearing on the business outlook, stand easy money and a condition in general industry which is possibly sounder than in many years; which is so, indeed, not in spite of the careful balancing of mercantile orders with visible requirements, but because of its

RISE IN GOVERNMENT BONDS CHEERS PARIS

Ascribed by Market to Successful Progress of the Debt-Refunding Plan.

SOME LOANS RISE 8 POINTS

French Banks Support the Movement, but General Public Also a Confident Buyer.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The event of the past week on the Paris financial markets, and a notable comment on the changed financial position, has been the rise of all French Government bonds, which began with the successful opening of subscriptions to the new conversion loan and has now, after an exceptionally rapid advance, carried prices during the last few days to the highest level since the beginning of 1925. The rise in the 3 per cent. rentes of the pre-war issue, which has been especially remarkable, is ascribed by Paris bankers wholly to the financial policies of Caillaux which, they are now confident, will shortly occasion real improvement in the entire field of French public finance.

It is commonly pointed out that the Government, having now guaranteed the value of the franc which will be the basis of interest payments on the loan, must necessarily be prepared to pursue a sound program both in finance and politics if it expects to prevent the burden created by that guarantee from becoming crushing. Heretofore all risks involved by a fluctuating exchange market have been borne not by the Government but by the holders of Government securities, who had no immediate redress from bad methods of public finance leading to inflation or currency depreciation. This favorable impression on capitalists and investors is only another proof of the disappearance of the recent "crise de confiance" which seemed to be so formidable in June.

French Banks and Rise in Bonds.

The recovery in the public funds has also been helped by intervention of the big banks on the initiative of the Finance Minister, their action consisting of freeing the market from the pressure of overhanging offerings. As is usual in financial markets, everybody was a seller when rentes were weak and going lower, whereas now, since the strong recovery in the market, nobody thinks of selling. The growing prestige of Caillaux in financial circles, and doubtless also a local speculation for the rise, have emphasized the upward movement. Last week the movement begun by the bank intervention continued automatically on the basis of steady buying orders from customers of the banks.

The 3 per cents, which on July 20 reached their low level around 43, were quoted at 51 on July 30, thus nearly touching the year's maximum. In 1924 their quotation ranged between 59 and 48; in 1923 between 59 and 51. The scope of recovery has been nearly as great.

Scope of the Recovery.

In the other public funds, the 5 per cent. bonds which were issued in 1915 and 1916 sold last week at 60, against 54½ on July 20. The highest figure for these bonds in 1924 was 71.95. In 1923 it was 76.70. The 4 per cent. bonds of 1918 went to 49.80 last week, as against 43.70 at the recent lowest. They sold as high as 60.50 in 1924 and 63.20 in 1923. The 6 per cents of 1920 have also advanced since the opening of the new loan from 60.85 to 68.90. Their best price in 1924 was 88.50, in 1923 it was 91.70.

That the subscriptions to the new loan are continuing on a satisfactory basis is considered to have been proved by last week's Bank of France return. In the corresponding week a year ago the advances to the State, on account of the August payments by the Treasury, increased 500,000,000 francs; two years ago the increase was 700,000,000. Last week's statement, on the contrary, showed a decrease of 150,000,000 francs.

COURSE OF MONEY RATE A PUZZLE TO LONDON

Belief That Slackening of Gold Imports Hereafter Would Cause Higher Money.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The money situation is difficult to judge. The first effect of the influx of gold after resumption of gold payments at the Bank was to broaden the basis of credit. Easier money conditions which were thus created have not, however, been sustained. The money market in fact has been strictly controlled in the interest of the gold standard, to support which every effort has been made to keep up discount rates.

Thus far, however, attempts at higher discount rates have not been very successful, chiefly because the steady Continental demand for fine commercial bills on this market, of which Holland has been a substantial buyer, has prevented any upward movement of rates. It is recognized, however, that if the gold imports were to decline and exports were to increase (which is considered as probable during the Autumn season), the discount market would automatically be strengthened. All ideas of a reduction in the bank rate as a result of the gold influx have been abandoned. But on the other hand the position has been so far strengthened that it is felt that considerable withdrawals of gold could be permitted before any advance in the bank rate would need to be considered.

REICHSBANK PLANS MORE GOLD IMPORTS

Announcement That 'Foreign Exchange Reserve' Will Be Converted Into Gold.

WILL DRAW ON NEW YORK

Generally Favorable Turn in German Trade Situation, and Excellent Public Revenue Results.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—President Schacht of the Reichsbank made a highly important statement of general policy to the bank's committee last week, in which he declared his purpose of resuming the accumulation of a home gold reserve through converting into gold the entire legal reserve of foreign exchange bills now held by the bank. This "exchange cover" now amounts to 368,000,000 marks.

Schacht took the ground that the clause of the new bank law permitting use of foreign exchange as a legal cover for circulation is a makeshift. He held that an actual gold cover is "far preferable for a bank of issue." Introduction of the new policy will mean gold withdrawals from New York. Along with this action, Schacht refuses to reduce the discount rate or to abate the credit-rationing system, and repeats his warning against borrowing abroad on short term on the ground that repayment of such loans puts a heavy strain on the Reichsbank's exchange reserve.

Outlook for Industry Good.

With the exception of coal and steel, the industrial situation is improving. Unemployed workingmen in Germany number 197,000 by the last report, as against 593,000 very recently. The particularly active industries are the paper and electro-technical branches. Demand for papers exceeds supply. Prices are rising, but there is insufficiency for paper wood and shortage of capital wherewith to import it. The electrical branch has orders for nine months ahead, the boom in that trade being due to increasing electrification and to big orders by municipalities.

There is also a big foreign demand, and the result is increasing consumption of copper, which the Hirsch Copper Corporation puts at 320,000 tons in 1925, against an average of 290,000 tons before war. The copper authority, Dr. Rubinfeld, predicts further increase in consumption.

The raw steel syndicate has reduced production for August, but already there are signs of reviving activity, owing to increasing demand from engineering manufacturers, and prices this week slightly recovered from the lowest level.

Public Revenue Exceeds Prediction.

The revised budget for 1925-26 as now submitted to the Reichstag put the taxation revenue at 6,344,000,000 marks, against 5,243,000,000 in the original budget. But even the new figures heavily understate the probable yield, because, on the basis of 1,825,000,000 received in the first three months, the tax yield of the whole year will be 7,300,000,000.

The Finance Ministry persists that the yield will be less favorable than last year's, but this pessimism cannot easily be reconciled with the fact that the yield in the quarter mentioned was 311,000,000 more than in the corresponding quarter of 1924.

EUROPE'S IMPRESSION OF THE NEW YORK MARKET

Rise in Stocks Considered Speculative—May Be Affected by Higher Money.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Although not exactly amazed at the continued activity and strength in the recent New York stock market, financial London has been wondering when the reaction was to come and expressed no surprise at the moderate recession last week. In the view of financial London, your general business conditions appear to be sound enough, but if the later American crops were to turn out as well as they are said to promise it is argued here that tight money must be a consequence.

It is not believed that the present tendencies of the New York stock market could persist under actually dear money. On the whole, the New York market looks distinctly professional to observers here, who do not believe that it has a substantial public backing. If this is true it should be more vulnerable to development even of a moderately unfavorable nature.

HIGH VIENNA BANK RESERVE.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—The position of the Austrian National Bank has improved still further. Outstanding note circulation is now covered up to 60 per cent. by the cash reserve. Since the last return the circulation has decreased 23,000,000 schillings to 742,000,000.

Notwithstanding the reduction of the bank's discount rate, outstanding discounts amount to only 82,000,000 schillings. This is only one-fourth of the highest figure reached during the crisis of August, 1924.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The bi-monthly balance sheets of the leading joint stock companies as of June 30, compared with April 30, show increase of deposits from 3,848,000,000 marks to 5,179,000,000. Loans have increased from 2,750,000,000 to 2,960,000,000.

The percentage of liquid assets to current liabilities rose from 43.3 to 44.7 per cent.

CENTRAL EUROPE'S GOOD CROPS AID RECOVERY

Believed Commercial Treaties Between Danube States Will Be Favorably Affected.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—The general economic situation of Central Europe has already been greatly influenced by the exceedingly favorable crop returns announced from all the "succession States." There is now confidently expected for the Autumn a reduction in the high cost of living, which was aggravated by the shortage of food supplies last year. At Vienna this expectation has already been partly realized, bread being quotably cheaper.

Hungary is certain to produce 15,000,000 hundredweight more grain than last year, and Yugoslavia, Rumania and even Poland will have large quantities left over for export. The Neue Freie Presse yesterday stated editorially that there can be no doubt that Europe will this year provide full requirements of its own population through its own production of grain.

At the moment rain has retarded the arrival of new grain in the market, so that the tangible results of the harvest will not be positively ascertained until some weeks hence. It is already evident, however, that even Austria has produced 25 per cent. more grain than it raised last year and industrial circles are basing many hopes on this result. Among other influences of the abundant harvest, it is thought that negotiations now in progress for commercial treaties between Hungary, Yugoslavia and Austria will be advantageously affected.

The excellent harvest in Hungary and Yugoslavia will create a need for an Austrian market on the part of both those States, and the feeling is that this should help toward the relaxation of the present prohibitive duties of such Central European States, which have hitherto been the greatest hindrance to Austria's economic reconstruction.

PARIS NOT DISCUSSING REVALUATION OF FRANC

Bankers Hold That War Debt and Reparations Must Be Arranged First.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Up to the present time the Treasury has been giving no public consideration to the revaluation of the franc, and there has been no need of it. It is fully recognized by the Paris banking community that the announcement of any such plan would be inadvisable under present financial conditions.

The reason for this opinion is that, before the State can possibly fix the future legal value of the franc on a gold redemption basis, it must know exactly what commitments will confront it and what resources will be available. Furthermore, it has felt that the double question of the interallied debt and of German reparations must reach definite shape before any consistent program of currency reform can be undertaken.

KEYNES'S ATTACK ON BRITISH RESUMPTION

Used Mostly for Politics—Public Not Disposed to Follow Hostile Critics.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The fresh incursion of J. M. Keynes into the anti-gold-standard campaign, supported as it was to some extent by so good an authority as Sir Josiah Stamp, was regarded last week as making more difficult an already sufficiently difficult situation. Unfortunately Keynes finds a ready press, because political attacks can thereby be indirectly made on the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Churchill has seldom enjoyed a peaceful political career, and the gold standard is now the stick which is chosen for beating him.

In attacking the gold standard Keynes is believed to be doing more mischief than he probably himself intends. Nevertheless, most business men are not misled into believing that our present industrial troubles are due to the gold standard. The troubles existed long before payments were resumed, and the public, although at times apparently drawn into a state of doubt by the attacks on the gold standard, appears still to be content to accept the general verdict of all our leading bankers. Most of these are reiterating their previous strong support of the gold resumption policy.

In any case, the judgment is entertained in all serious quarters that the agitation of the disgruntled theorists is futile; because Great Britain, having returned to the gold standard, cannot move off from it except under unimaginable circumstances.

BREAK IN POLISH ZLOTY ASCRIBED TO TRADE WAR

Berlin Points to Adverse Balance in Commerce Between Poland and Germany.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Last week's sharp break of the Polish zloty from parity made a big stir in the Berlin market. It was pointed out that this was the first time that any of Europe's newly stabilized currencies has broken down. Berlin financiers ascribed the collapse in the zloty ultimately to the German-Polish trade war.

Whereas Poland has been buying less than 5 per cent. of Germany's exports, Germany bought more than 33 per cent. of Poland's. The trade war therefore makes it impossible to hope for speedy improvement in Poland's balance of payments.

MARKET EXPECTED COAL SETTLEMENT

Financial London Is Relieved, Although Opposed in Principle to Subsidy Plan.

OTHER INFLUENCES MIXED

Reduction of Important British Railway Dividends Comes as Shock to the Stock Exchange.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The week naturally ended with a much more hopeful note in financial circles because of the Government's successful intervention to avert the coal strike. Notwithstanding what had seemed to be an apparently hopeless deadlock in those negotiations, the financial markets had resolutely clung to the belief that at the eleventh hour a way out of the coal dispute would be found. Therefore, while the stock market was depressed as the critical moment approached, there was no exceptional decline.

In principle, financial London is very strongly opposed to Government subsidies, except for young and struggling industries. Opinion is quite unanimous that the country cannot properly afford a subsidy for the coal mining industry, and the City is resigned to the Government's present promise of financial assistance only because it is recalled that the last great coal strike directly and indirectly cost the country something like ten millions sterling, and that it is probably wise to spend money to avert repetition of conditions which the country is less able to endure at the present time than in the previous coal stoppage.

Opposing Influences on Market.

Financial sentiment was also assisted last week by a small oversubscription to the South African loan. This issue was for 4,000,000 in 5 per cents, offered at 99½. Seeing that this was 1 per cent. dearer than the previous Australian issue, the market had been very skeptical concerning its reception, in spite of the usual popularity of South African loans.

On the other hand, the railway market received a shock last week from the reduction of dividends on the London, Midland & Scottish and Great Western companies. It was known the railways had done worse this year than last, but it had been hoped that any cut in dividends would be reserved for the second half of the year. Probably the coal situation, together with the generally unsatisfactory industrial outlook, influenced the dividend policy.

Outlook for Sterling.

The outlook for sterling is conceded to be uncertain, although improved at the moment by the favorable turn taken in the British coal situation. Financial markets here are very sensitive to anything which promises to reduce the already weakened power of export. At the moment the coal settlement is restoring confidence, but the real reason for confidence in the longer outlook of sterling is based on the improved crop conditions of Europe. This part of the situation, it is felt, will render Europe so much less dependent on American grain during the coming season that the demand for dollars in the exchange market will necessarily be far less than last Autumn.

Currency notes now outstanding £301,040,321, against £298,070,155 a week ago and £295,565,901 a year ago. They are now at the highest point of the year to date, the lowest having been £281,165,917, on Feb. 28.

Banks No Longer Supporting Stocks—Repudiated Loan Struck From List.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The Boerse was on the whole weak in tendency last week, although with brief recoveries. The Frankfurter Zeitung's index of prices for typical dividend paying stocks as of July 24 once more fixed a low record for the year. The average was 74.12, as against 100 on Jan. 2, and a high level of 111.37 on Jan. 31.

Banks are no longer intervening to maintain quotations, having invested last Spring considerable sums in premature and ineffective interventions. The forced loan of 1922-23 has been struck out of the Boerse list, because the law, by excluding it from exchange into new bonds, practically repudiates it. On Friday the war loan was quoted at 0.2325, the 4 per cents. at 0.325, the 3½s at 0.275, the 3 per cents. at 0.46, and the Prussian 3 per cents. at 0.28.

FUTURE COURSE OF STERLING

No Great Decline in Autumn Expected by London.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—There is little apprehension on this market regarding a severe decline in sterling during the Autumn months, when European payments to America are always large. It is recognized, however, that any sharp rise in money rates at New York would, if sustained, probably disturb the American balances now employed in London and thus cause considerable sales of sterling.

But it is also felt that, while there may be some decline in the sterling rate when the normal Autumn pressure on exchange arises, sufficient support could be given to prevent any serious decline and any consequent embarrassment of the London money market.

The Van Sweringen Company
First Mortgage and Collateral Trust Sinking Fund 6% Gold Bonds

Dated August 1, 1925 Denominations $1,000, $500 and $100 Due August 1, 1935

Principal and interest (February 1 and August 1) payable at The Guardian Trust Company, Cleveland, Ohio, Trustee. Redeemable as a whole or in part at the option of the Company upon 30 days' notice at 102 and interest. Interest payable without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%. Personal Property Tax of any state under any present law, not in excess of five mills in any case, Michigan five mills tax, and the Massachusetts Income Tax on the interest not exceeding 6% of such interest per annum, refundable to resident holders upon timely and appropriate application.

GUARDIAN TRUST COMPANY OF CLEVELAND, OHIO, TRUSTEE

The Company Messrs. O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Director and President, respectively of The Van Sweringen Company, have been continuously and successfully engaged since 1905 in the development and sale of property in Shaker Heights, a part of Greater Cleveland. During this time 2,650 acres of land have been sold for a consideration in excess of $23,000,000. Expenditures made by The Van Sweringen Company, the municipal authorities, the public service corporations and property owners within the district are estimated at approximately $40,000,000.

Messrs. O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen have large interests aside from this company. The new Cleveland Terminal and Union Station now under construction is a development conceived by them and now being carried out under their direction.

These men, with associates, have been for nine years in active control of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company, which they have operated with marked success. Over three years ago they also purchased the controlling interest in the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, and Lake Erie & Western Railroads, and more recently have acquired substantial control of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Hocking Valley Railroads, as well as a very large interest in the Erie and Pere Marquette Railroads. Application is now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission for unification of all of these railroads comprising a system of over 9,000 miles of railroad under the single control of the Van Sweringen interests. As a result of their achievements in the acquisition, management and direction of railroad properties, the Messrs. Van Sweringen today occupy a position of national prominence and importance.

Security In addition to being a direct and general obligation of The Van Sweringen Company, this issue of bonds is specifically secured by a direct first mortgage on land, by the pledge of purchasers' obligations secured by land, and by the pledge of all of the capital stock and first mortgage note of the Cleveland Interurban Railroad Company valued as follows:

Land	$ 5,377,803
Land purchase contracts and mortgages	6,534,539
First mortgage note and stock of Cleveland Interurban Railroad Company	2,109,707
Total	$14,022,049

The land purchase contracts and mortgages cover land valued at $2,309,311 in excess of the balances payable upon them. This equity increases the total security for this issue of bonds to over $16,300,000.

A large part of the land purchase contracts is the obligation of responsible affiliated interests. Under the terms of the mortgage The Van Sweringen Company will agree to maintain with the Trustee, valid land contracts and mortgages receivable, at all times equal to the outstanding bonds of this issue.

Appraisals and Audits Appraisals of the land have been made by Mr. H. C. Robinson, Vice-President of The Guardian Trust Company, and Mr. Alexander S. Taylor of V. C. Taylor & Son, both of whom are well recognized authorities on real estate values in Cleveland.

The railroad valuation is the cost of construction plus allowance for right-of-way on the basis authorized by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Purpose of Issue This issue of First Mortgage and Collateral Trust bonds is being sold for the purpose of retiring certain corporate obligations, redeeming an issue of Land Trust Certificates, taking up purchase money mortgages, and for other corporate purposes.

Sinking Fund The Indenture provides for annual sinking fund payments commencing in 1927, which will, at the maturity of this issue have entirely liquidated the debt.

All legal matters incident to this financing will be passed upon and approved by Messrs. Tolles, Hogsett, Ginn & Morley of Cleveland

CHECK TO RECOVERY ON VIENNA MARKET

Halt Followed Average Advance in Stocks of 10 Per Cent. Over June.

ALPINE DIVIDEND A FACTOR

General Position Still Holds Steady at Vienna, Also at Budapest and Prague.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—The rising movement on the Vienna Stock Exchange, after continuing for the full month, has now been interrupted. It has resulted, however, in raising the index of Bourse prices to the level of last March before the severe decline began. This recovery has brought stocks on the average 10 per cent. higher than where they stood last June. The upward movement was interrupted when the returns of the Alpine Mining Company were published, announcing that this foremost of all Austrian iron-producing concerns not only earned no profits for the year but paid even taxes out of its reserve funds.

The company attributes the year's poor results to the prohibitory customs duties of neighbor States making exports impossible, but in financial circles the opinion prevails that while Stinnes was in personal command of the enterprise the company's debts accumulated to such an extent as to handicap it in the work of competition. The American loan of $5,000,000 granted to the enterprise a few months ago has been mostly devoted to repaying bank debts on a much higher interest basis.

News of the suspended dividend on Alpine Mining caused deep depression in the Stock Exchange, especially since other Austrian concerns have paid dividends on a basis not lower than the bank rate at its present reduced figure of 10 per cent.; some of them paying even more.

Notwithstanding this interruption to recovery on the Stock Exchange, the market is generally well disposed, and the markets of Budapest and Prague move quite as favorably, as large Vienna speculators in Prague are waiting for the bank rate to be reduced as had been promised. At Budapest a good deal of business was done last week, the prices rising to fairly high levels. Profits are now being realized by investors, however.

Estimates of the Austrian budget for the present month indicate an excess of receipts over expenditures amounting to 8,500,000. It is assumed that the investments will reach about the same amount and the budget may therefore be described as perfectly balanced.

LARGE GRAIN HARVESTS IN EASTERN EUROPE

One Danube State Finds Wheat Crop Too Large to Obtain Storage.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The German Ministry of Agriculture, discussing the home wheat crop last week, characterized Germany's prospective yield as very good but not a high record. In practically all the Eastern countries the crops are favorable. The Esthonian estimate, based on conditions as of July 1, puts the wheat yield 38 per cent. above the average of the last ten years. In Lithuania the wheat yield is reported 15 per cent. above 1924. The Bulgarian Food Ministry reports so exceptionally large a crop that difficulty is being found in storing it and states that the yield of wheat and rye per acre is the highest on record.

Crop reports from Russia continue favorable, but the official Ekonomitcheskaya Zhizn estimates that 46 to 72 per cent. of the crop was destroyed in part of the Ukraine, where the population is a million. In all the Soviet Federation a surplus of grain production over consumption is, however, officially estimated. The production figure named is 1,000,000,000 puds, or 600,000,000 bushels, of which wheat contributes 400,000,000 puds, rye 70,000,000, oats 172,000,000, barley 126,000,000 and corn 109,000,000.

VIENNA HOPES FOR CREDITS.

Favorable View of Austrian Situation by American Visitor.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—Since the Austrian National Assembly has now voted every law demanded from Austria by the League of Nations Council last September, it is assumed in financial circles here that when the League of Nations assembles in the Autumn it will proclaim the much desired cessation of financial control of Austria. Edward Filene of Boston declared during his sojourn at Vienna that, according to his belief, Austria both needs and deserves foreign capital.

He puts the matter thus: "As a man of business I should prefer investing my capital during the next ten years in Vienna rather than in any other city of Europe, always provided that I could feel safe that laws passed by the State and by the city would be in fair harmony with one another. Austria must not trust to short-term or extensive loans. Lasting peace is indispensable for all countries, including America; because if exports were to be cut down in all countries the standard of living would be depressed, and lower wages and longer hours of work would be the inevitable consequence for all commercial States."

GOLD MOVEMENT AT LONDON

Last Week's Imports Exceeded Exports by £943,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Last week's receipts of gold by the Bank of England were £1,000,000, all of which came from Holland. Withdrawals were £157,000.

Of the exports, Singapore took £76,000, Java £15,000 and India £20,000, while £46,000 went to unstated destinations.

LONDON MORE HOPEFUL OVER FRENCH SITUATION

Rise of French Public Bonds Reassures, Though Ascribed Wholly to French Public.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Last week's firmness of French bonds and the recovery of the franc were movements which reflected almost entirely the greater confidence of the French public itself in the future of French finance. London financial advices from Paris predict full success for the new conversion loan, while confidence in the franc and in French Government securities is stated to be fast returning to the investment community.

The latest reports, showing that the French Government has repaid £6,000,000 to the Bank of France within a fortnight, attracted particular interest here. This repayment has evidently been made possible only through the favorable reception of the new loan.

London, it may be said, would be only too glad to welcome signs of recovery such as may tend to ease the friction in the negotiations for a settlement of the French war debts. At the same time the London market prefers to let Paris make the pace, simply following its lead.

STILL FIGHTING FOR HIGHER VALORIZATION

German Creditors' Associations Planning to Exact Better Terms on City Loans.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The struggle for better terms of valorization on public loans has merely taken on new life as a result of the enactment of the law to which financial circles objected. The Creditors' Association was busy last week organizing "giant demonstrations" in favor of resubmitting the whole question both of public bonds and of private debts to a referendum. Further, a separate association of public bondholders has been founded whose efforts will for the moment be concentrated on municipal bonds.

The valorization law, while fixing the compensation for "old" municipal bondholders at 125 marks of new bonds for 1,000 marks of old bonds, nevertheless allows the bondholder to demand a court decision as to whether, in individual cases, prosperous municipalities should not be compelled to grant 250 marks. The new association announces that it will require such decision regarding all municipalities without exception.

Foreign bondholders are officially advised not to register themselves for the present or to send in bonds for exchange, because the new board which is to carry through the exchange is not yet constituted. When it is constituted notice will be given sufficiently long in advance to make exchange practicable.

HOPEFULNESS OVER THE FRENCH FLOATING DEBT

Paris Now Believes Great Part of Future Maturities Will Be Funded.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The success of the conversion loan thus far has removed uneasiness regarding future maturities of floating debt. It is expected that a large proportion of the 3,500,000,000 francs Treasury bonds which mature and become redeemable on Sept. 25 will be converted into the new perpetual issue.

After that date the next maturity date is Dec. 8, when 10,000,000,000 francs fall due. Judging by previous experience, it is probable that 4,000,000,000, or 40 per cent., of this issue will also be converted into the new loan. In May of 1926 the Treasury has to meet 6,000,000,000 of short-term bonds, and at that time it will be necessary to consider further plans of consolidation, because the present loan operation terminates in September.

HIGH LONDON BANK RESERVE

Why Holland Sends Gold to England —Note Issues Rise.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Bank of England's position last week was affected by the normal but very large holiday requirements of currency. This explains the week's increase of £1,359,160 in the note circulation. Since, however, the Bank's holdings increased £1,022,585, the actual cash reserve of the banking department went only £335,613 lower, while the ratio of reserve to deposits actually increased from 31.3 to 31.6, the highest since early in the war.

The whole of the gold taken in by the Bank last week came from abroad. Holland sent £1,000,000; altogether £5,000,000 has come from Holland since the resumption of gold payments by the Bank of England, the explanation for these shipments being that when Holland returned to the gold standard, it found that it held more gold than it required for internal use, and has therefore invested the surplus abroad largely in purchase of sterling bills. Another £500,000 in Bank of England notes was transferred to the currency note reserves last week.

Stock Market Expects Increased Activity This Month.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The foreign exchange market remained steady last week, with a slight tendency to weakness of other currencies and to firmness in the franc. Speculation, which had been fairly active on the stock market since the last preceding settlement, has again become quiet.

Last week the London purchases in the Paris market shifted from the favorite international stocks to the rising French bonds. International securities and those which move in line with foreign exchange rates lost favor to some extent and showed a tendency to ease on the approach of the settlement.

General expectation is for a very active movement on the Bourse during August.

★"Why Foundation Company Wins Where Others Fail"

Here's romance in business! This New York firm has won international fame by doing "impossible" jobs. It finishes up jobs that have smashed other firms. The Foundation Company has welcomed problems that no other firm in the world cared to tackle—and has solved them.

Down deep under the greatest skyscrapers are found its wonderful engineering feats—hidden but glorious. In foreign lands, it has modernized ancient cities, with American ideas. It has built bridges, dams, ships and subways. Hundreds of unusual feats stand to its credit,—and this story in Forbes tells how it was done. It is a tale of rare grit and nerve—and success. Every business man will enjoy it.

★"Why We Pay $200,000,000 More for Rubber This Year"

Here is an authentic inside story of the recent crude rubber boom—written by no less an authority than G. M. Stadelman, President of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Inc.

All motordom is naturally anxious to get at the facts behind the jumps in tire prices this summer—totalling well up in the millions. And mixed up in it all is a thrilling battle between two continents for control of the source of rubber supply. This interesting article in Forbes paints a remarkably clear picture of the present situation and also what lies ahead.

★"When to Try for Better Investment Returns"

—by John Moody

You want every dollar of return on your investments that you can possibly get. It's a perfectly natural desire. This article contains some interesting facts and sound advice from an eminent authority—President of Moody's Investors Service.

★"Kohler Model Community Factory"

There is such a thing as a model community! Kohler, Wisconsin, resembles a fashionable residential suburb in beauty. It's immaculately clean; not a home is rented; and there's contentment and happiness everywhere. The town is so perfect, it's hard to believe! All this is centered around a spotless factory that sends beautiful bathroom and plumbing supplies to all corners of the earth. Be sure to read the complete story of Kohler.

RISE IN WHEAT DUE TO HOME OUTLOOK

Great Interest Now Centres on the Coming Monthly Estimates of Yield.

EXPORT SURPLUS SMALL

Farmers Market Grain Only on the Bulges and Hold Them on the Breaks.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The wheat situation is becoming more bullish and the maintenance of values is expected until the Government report, which is due Monday, Aug. 10. The trade should get the four private reports on Monday. The Government in July gave the Spring wheat as 276,000,000 bushels and the Winter as 404,000,000 bushels, a total of 680,000,000 bushels, against 873,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

There is little improvement in Winter wheat yields over earlier expectations in the Middle West and a lowering of estimates in the Southwest on Winter and on Spring in the Northwest. One important factor in the Spring wheat crop situation is that there is a large acreage of durum in the Northwest which stood up better under the heat, drought and rust than has the bread wheat crop. The average Spring wheat crop is 245,000,000 bushels and Winter 592,000,000 bushels, the total for all wheat being 837,000,000 bushels. A world's wheat crop somewhat in excess of last year is expected to be harvested this season.

Estimates on corn have been lowered by some of the experts from the July returns of 3,095,000,000 bushels by the Government, while some of them show a moderate gain; but prospects are that unless there is a severe August drought and an early frost, the crop will eventually be around 3,000,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,437,000,000 bushels last year, while the average for the five years is 2,935,000,000 bushels.

The oats crop is to be a little less than the average, or around 1,300,000,000 bushels, although some of the estimates are for 100,000,000 bushels below that figure.

Farmers are not selling wheat fast and the trade expects that September wheat will go to a premium over December, and that the movement of the new Winter wheat to Chicago will not be heavy the balance of the season unless there is a material advance. It is expected that the wheat growers' pool in Indiana will handle around 15 per cent. of the crop of that State, which is not a large one, and that the farmers generally will sell wheat only as prices advance. On the present basis of the estimated crop, the United States has no burdensome surplus, and with the Canadian crop not regarded as likely to be more than 350,000,000 bushels, or 100,000,000 bushels more than last year, the market is susceptible to radical changes in prices as it passes from an oversold to an overbought condition.

Most of the corn traders are bearish on crop prospects, and December is around the lowest of the season, while September is at a good premium and is held by two strong operators, who believe that there will be a scarcity of cash corn before the end of the season. They also look for an increasing demand.

The oats and rye markets are looked upon as working to a carrying charge basis, with ample supplies for home requirements and a fair surplus for export should such a demand appear.

Skelly Oil's Quarterly Report.

The consolidated balance sheet of the Skelly Oil Company, as of June 30, shows current assets of $9,405,917, of which $1,920,227 is cash and Government securities. Current liabilities are $2,532,982. Total reserves are carried at $24,434,663. For the quarter ended June 30, the company reports net earnings of $1,578,209, or $1.91 per share on the common stock.

STEEL PRICES HOLD WELL IN MOST LINES

Rails, Pipe and Tin Plate Show No Decline From the Advance of Two Years Ago.

NAILS AND PLATES WEAKEST

Lack of Rail Orders and Light Fabricated Lettings Are Feature of the Market.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—Finished steel prices have held steady in the past week, without any reportable change. In sheets the market shows a little further stiffness. Since the middle of February the steel market has presented a declining aspect, but the actual ground lost has been small and the loss has been particularly small in the past six weeks. Rails, pipe and tin plate, as a matter of fact, have had no decline since the last advances more than two years ago. Late in June prices of nails and barb wire were openly reduced, in recognition of shading that had been widespread for weeks, and more recently plates became quotable $1 a ton lower and shapes $2 a ton lower.

While the steel mills have complained more or less in the past few months about the price situation, it was the trend rather than the extent of the declines that caused uneasiness. A complete stoppage of the decline would leave the steel market in fair shape on an average, but with prices such as to afford much more profit on some lines than on others.

Railroads Least Promising.

The railroads constitute the least promising class of customers of the steel industry, if it be held that the railroads ought constantly to be receiving new cars and locomotives. No important article consumes as much steel per dollar of expenditure of the ultimate buyer as do freight cars, which cost but little over 3 cents a pound and are almost wholly steel. Automobiles cost over 20 cents a pound for Fords and 40 to 50 cents for medium-priced cars and are only about half steel. There has been little locomotive buying for a long time and little freight-car buying for four months. Railroad expenditures for improvements on permanent way and at terminals are going forward much according to programs, while rail buying is all that would naturally be expected.

In all finished steel products the heaviest demand at the present time is for two very different lines, tin plate and oil country tubular goods. Canning crop prospects have increased further and some additional or extra specifications have been placed with tin plate mills, which are operating at approximately as high a rate as at any time this year, about 85 per cent., the odd 15 per cent. being represented chiefly by a few small plants which have been entirely idle for a long time. The lap weld furnaces of pipe mills, whose chief output is oil country goods, are running practically full, and much better than two or three months ago. The butt weld departments, representing merchant pipe chiefly, are running at 75 to 80 per cent.

No Change in Pig Iron.

Pig iron prices at valley furnaces have undergone no change since the middle of June. The $18 quotation on basic iron, about which there was some doubt, is now supported by two sales in the past week, 2,000 tons and 1,000 tons respectively. Foundry iron has been bought a little more freely, at $18.50, valley. Bessemer is dull as usual, the quotation being $19, valley.

There has been no mill buying of heavy melting steel scrap since the purchases reported a week ago, at $18.50 and $19 respectively. Dealers are paying close to these prices for small lots, to cover.

COTTON MARKET AND ENDING OF DROUGHT

Southern Opinion Is That Large Part of Threatened Loss Is Averted.

WIDE MOVEMENT OF PRICES

Forthcoming Government Report Is Expected to Show What Has Been the Actual Effect of the Rains.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—The past week in cotton trading has witnessed the culmination both of the advance which followed the sensationally bullish Government report issued Thursday, July 23, when October contracts touched 25.03 on Monday, as well as of the marked reaction to 23.44 for the same month reached on Friday. At its highest, October showed an advance over the price ruling just before the Government report was issued of 213 points, or more than $10 a bale. At the lowest of Friday a reaction of 159 points was shown.

Decline on Texas Rainfall

While it may logically be claimed that the advance following the bureau report of July 23 was fully justified by the serious conditions said to have prevailed in Texas and Oklahoma as a result of the drought, the decline which has since taken place can be justified on equally sound grounds. The Crop Reporting Board admitted in the explanatory summary which accompanied the last report that the unfavorable conditions existing in large portions of the two States mentioned might be greater corrected by timely rainfall.

The timely rains have been experienced during several days of the past week and the crop should be benefited not only in the West but in large portions of Louisiana and Mississippi, and even in the States further east. It is true that little rain has fallen in the southern half of Texas, and it is generally admitted that the crop in that particular section of the State is now largely beyond repair, even if further good rains should be experienced. But the crops elsewhere in the West had not deteriorated to any extent that would prevent prompt remedy in the event that the needed moisture should be forthcoming.

Cotton Crop Greatly Benefited

The rains of the past few days have been fairly heavy and general, extending over the whole of West, North and Northeast Texas, practically the whole of Oklahoma and Arkansas and over those portions of Louisiana and Mississippi where most needed. Rains have also been liberal in the eastern portions of the belt where they have been probably more generous than was wished.

It is the general opinion among traders that as a result of this break in the drought the cotton crop has been greatly benefitted, and since it came before the date for making returns for the next Government report, the opinion prevailed here at the week-end that something may be added to the size of the indicated crop as a result of the conditions prevailing on Aug. 1. Considering, therefore, the effect of the rains, the decline from the recent high point which has taken place has been justified.

Prague Stops Trading in Zloty.

The Stock Exchange of Prague, Czechoslovakia, has stopped until further notice the trading in Polish zlotys to prevent manipulation to lower the Polish exchange rate. News of the action is contained in a cablegram received by the Consulate General of Poland in New York.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

TO THE HOLDERS OF
THE UTAH FUEL COMPANY
Due March 1, 1931
SINKING FUND.

Notice is hereby given as provided in Article XII. of the mortgage of the Utah Fuel Company and Pleasant Valley Coal Company dated March 1, 1901, that written proposals will be received by the undersigned at its office, 140 Broadway, New York City, until 10 o'clock A. M., Tuesday, August 25, 1925, for the sale to it as Trustee, at the lowest prices at which such bonds shall be offered, not exceeding 110% of their principal amount, of sufficient of the above bonds to exhaust the sum of Eleven Thousand Five Hundred Ten Dollars and Eighteen Cents ($11,510.18). Interest on the bonds accepted will cease August 26, 1925.

The trustee reserves the right to reject any and all proposals in whole or in part. Each proposal must designate the bonds offered by their serial numbers, should state the post office address of the party making the proposal and should be enclosed in a sealed envelope and endorsed "Proposal for sale of Utah Fuel Company Bonds to Sinking Fund," and addressed to the TRUST DEPARTMENT.

Persons desiring to make offers of bonds to the Sinking Fund, whose responsibility is not known to the Trustee, should accompany their offers by a sufficient letter of introduction or guarantee of good faith by a bank, banker or others whose responsibility is established.

WORLD WHEAT YIELD CHANGED FROM 1924

Home and Foreign Position Reversed in the Present Season's Harvests.

EUROPE'S CROPS LARGER

Total Production Exceeds Even 1923, With the United States Showing Large Decrease.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The latest wheat crop estimates, both private and official, suggest that the United States will have a yield of around 660,000,000 bushels, or about 213,000,000 bushels less than was secured in 1924, while Canada will have around 375,000,000 bushels compared with 272,000,000 bushels last year, the total for the two countries being 1,035,000,000 bushels, or 110,000,000 bushels less than in 1924 and compared with 1,271,000,000 bushels in 1923, when the Canadian crop alone aggregated 474,000,000 bushels, the largest on record. The combined exportable surplus of the two countries for the 1925-26 season is estimated at 315,000,000 bushels at a maximum.

Weather conditions in Europe early in the season were much more favorable than last year, and the yield, exclusive of Russia, is considerably in excess of that of 1924, when the crop was damaged early by drought and hot weather and later by persistent rains. This year the crop escaped the intensely hot weather, but during the past week or so there have been heavy rains in parts of Western Europe, and the quality if not the quantity has been lowered, but hardly sufficient to materially lower the aggregate.

Russia promises to export considerable grain this season after having been forced to buy wheat and rye rather freely in the world's markets the previous season. Private estimates have suggested that possibly 25,000,000 bushels or more of wheat could be spared, to say nothing of rye.

Were it not for financial conditions the total wheat requirements of importing countries would probably differ little from that of the 1924-25 season, but the tendency for a number of weeks has been to run on small stocks abroad and await the movement of the new Canadian grain, which will start in September, and will be followed in January by the new Argentine and Australian grain.

Comparisons of the present 1925 crop estimates with actual yields for the past three years in countries of largest production, as compiled by Broomhall, except for the United States and Canada, follow in thousands of bushels:

Europe.	1925.	1924.	1923.
Germany	108,000	94,000	106,000
Great Britain	48,000	53,000	60,000
Italy	224,000	171,000	225,000
Spain	130,000	122,000	152,000
Rumania	100,000	74,000	101,000
Russia	400,000	333,000	329,000

Bulgaria	42,000	28,000	36,000
Others	129,000	104,000	124,000
Total	1,652,000	1,402,000	1,588,000
United States	660,000	872,000	798,000
Canada	375,000	272,000	474,000
North Africa	62,000	46,000	65,000
Total	1,097,000	1,190,000	1,337,000

World's total in 1925, 2,749,000,000; in 1924, 2,592,000,000, and in 1923, 2,925,000,000.

There are still some countries, notably Argentina and Australia, where the crop has still the critical period of its growth ahead of it, and no estimates are made as to the probable yields. Latest reports give Argentina 18,500,000 acres in wheat, or 2,500,000 acres more than last year, with weather conditions in that country and in Australia favorable.

REPAYMENT TO FRENCH BANK

Treasury's Borrowings Thus Far Not One-fourth of Authorization.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The increase of 275,000,000 francs in note circulation, reported on Thursday by the Bank of France, is attributable solely to the normal demands of the money market for the month-end settlements. The continued repayment of its bank debt by the Treasury creates a favorable impression.

The Treasury's borrowings from the bank against the additional credit of 6,000,000,000 francs granted by the agreement of June have not yet exceeded 1,250,000,000. This is in spite of the redemption of 2,000,000,000 francs of Credit National bonds in July and the necessity of taking up a large amount of defense bonds before the budget was voted.

CUTTEN'S BIG WHEAT STOCK

Chicago Operator Said to Have Had 5,000,000 Bushels at Command.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The wheat trade has had a little surprise in the magnitude of business in July delivery and the way it was handled by Arthur W. Cutten. He bought his wheat on the decline two months ago and did nothing in the July delivery until the last few days of the month, other than take delivery of cash wheat from elevator people as they got it in from the country.

It is estimated that Mr. Cutten paid for around 3,500,000 bushels of high-grade Winter wheat of the new crop and must have had around 5,000,000 bushels at the maximum.

Elevator people delivered all the cash wheat they had, leaving Mr. Cutten in possession of the cash grain, while the elevator people are without a stock of wheat with which to do business and cannot sell wheat for immediate delivery to mills or for export until a new supply arrives from the country.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The New York Trust Company has been appointed registrar of America Dry Corporation Class A stock of no par value.

Peter P. McDermott and Edward A. Purcell, formerly of Lynch & McDermott, have formed a copartnership to transact a general investment business under the firm name of Peter P. McDermott & Co. with offices at 7 Pine Street. Both Mr. McDermott and Mr. Purcell hold memberships on the New York Curb Market. Philip Lynch, formerly of Lynch & McDermott, and Edward J. Russell have formed a copartnership under the name of Lynch & Co. to transact a general investment business, with offices at 30 Broad Street.

The Bank of the Manhattan Company has been appointed transfer agent for the common and preferred stock of the American Demberg Corporation.

Dissolution of the firm of Brooks, Hyman & Co., on July 31, and the formation of its successor, under the firm name of Hyman & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, was announced yesterday. The new firm is composed of Bernard E. Hyman, Harry D. Austin and Harris Hyman.

JULY STEEL OUTPUT SHOWED SMALL DECLINE

But Production Was 50 Per Cent. Above That of July Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—With various slight changes at different steel mills the average rate of operation of the steel industry does not seem to have changed materially during July. This would represent an arrest of the decrease that began about April 1 and might presage an upturn for August, but it is too early to draw general conclusions. July production was between 5 and 10 per cent. under June production as a whole, there having been declining operations during June.

Since mill operations turned downward four months ago the disposition has been to make comparisons with last year. The fear has ever been present that there would be a similar slump, though there was no good reason, for last year's performance had been quite unprecedented. It is now possible to make an appraisal of some value because last year July was the low month, an increase in production being shown for August. In March of each year operations were the same, represented by a rate of steel ingot production of 50,000,000 tons per annum. Last year the July rate was 55 per cent. less, this year the July rate has been about 30 per cent. less, from which it follows that production in the month just ended has been more than 50 per cent. above the low point of last year.

This in itself is a good showing, if any respect be paid to the fear that seems to have prevailed that there might be as bad, or nearly as bad, a slump this year as last, but, on the other hand, it makes it less easy for mill operations now to turn upward. There is less occasion for a natural rebound.

It is an interesting fact that the rate of production in the last month, and at present, is as nearly as can be estimated just equal to the average rate of production in the six years since the war, up to this year. There may be objection to calling this six-year average a "normal," but it cannot be refused recognition as a reasonable standard for purposes of comparison. There has been, perhaps, too much disposition of late in the trade and in market comment to refer to steel mill operations in terms of percentages of "capacity," when the actual practical capacity cannot be determined closely and when the capacity, whatever it may be, is decidedly above the steel requirements of the country when the country is reasonably busy.

The six-year average, on the other hand, is a positive fact, representing what has been done and determinable to the last ton by official statistics of production. This average ingot production was about 112,000 tons per working day, or 35,000 tons per annum. The rate last March was 44 per cent. above it, and the present rate, as nearly as can be estimated, is just equal to it.

$6,500,000 OFFERING BY VAN SWERINGENS

NEW MUNICIPAL SECURITIES

Water and Paving Bonds Offered by Waterbury, Conn., and Northport, N. Y.

Three new bond issues, one real estate and two municipal, are announced for today. The largest is an issue of $6,500,000 first mortgage and collateral trust ten-year 6 per cent. bonds of the Van Sweringen Company of Cleveland, offered by a syndicate headed by the Pearsons-Taft Company of Chicago and including the Tillotson & Wolcott Company of Cleveland and West & Co. of New York.

The Van Sweringen bonds are secured by a first mortgage on land valued at $5,337,803, purchasers' obligations consisting of land contracts and mortgages totaling $6,534,539 and a first mortgage note of the Cleveland Interurban Railroad Company valued at $2,109,707, making a total security valuation of $14,022,049. The bonds are being issued to retire certain corporate obligations, to redeem an issue of land trust certificates, to take up purchase money mortgages and for other corporate purposes.

M. J. Van Sweringen is President of the Van Sweringen Company and O. P. Van Sweringen is a director. They have been engaged in the development and sale of properties since 1905 and have sold a total of 2,650 acres of land for $23,000,000. Other activities of the brothers include the development of the new Union Station in Cleveland and the Nickel Plate Railroad consolidation.

R. M. Grant & Co., Inc., are offering a new issue of $220,000 Waterbury, Conn., 4¼ per cent. water bonds maturing 1945 to 1954 at a price to yield 4.10 per cent.

A. M. Lamport & Co., Inc., are distributing $110,000 Northport, N. Y., 4¾ per cent. paving bonds maturing 1926 to 1936, at prices to yield from 3.75 to 4.10 per cent.

HALF-YEAR STATEMENT BY GENERAL MOTORS

Net Profits of $8.19 a Share on Common, as Compared With $4.57 in 1924.

The official statement of earnings of the General Motors Corporation for the first half of 1925, issued today, shows little change from the preliminary report a week ago. Net profits were equal to $8.19 a share, earned on the outstanding common stock compared with $4.57 a share in the first half of 1924.

The balance sheet on June 30, however, makes an interesting comparison with that of the close of 1924. The profit and loss surplus on June 30 was reported at $108,889,720 against $82,110,929 on Dec. 31, 1924. Detailed figures on current assets and liabilities follow:

REPORT OF PENN CENTRAL.

Power Company's Earnings Better Than for Last Year.

Gross earnings of the Penn Central Light and Power Company for the twelve months ended June 30 were $3,926,423, compared with $3,551,927 in the preceding year. Net applicable to reserves, income tax and dividends was $1,133,672, against $1,012,377.

The Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company and subsidiaries report a net applicable to reserves, income tax and dividends for the same period of $135,945, compared with $108,534 in the preceding year.

JULY TRADE IN WEST BETTER THAN JUNE

Reports From Retail Centres Indicate More Optimism as to the Future.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—July business was better than June and exceeded that of the same month in 1924. Reports covering the largest retail sections of the West and Northwest are fairly optimistic as to the future; merchants here in large numbers in the past week feel satisfied with present conditions. While crops in part of the Western States are smaller than last year, an advance in prices is giving farmers about as much money, and they are buying commodities in a way that makes the aggregate volume of trade fairly satisfactory.

Consumption of steel is heavy and new buying has given mills a larger tonnage, with the industry working 75 per cent. in the Chicago district and values holding steady. Implement and automobile makers are in the market for finished steel. Sales by automobile makers are keeping up at a good rate, with four of the largest manufacturers, however, shading values $50 or more. The oil markets are in good shape with a heavy consumption.

The most favorable prospects are noticeable in the building industry, with permits taken out in the Chicago district for the year to July 25 aggregating $222,413,460, compared with $176,630,390 the same time last year. The heavy building in the last year has removed the housing scarcity, and in some sections has eased rents. Buying of coal is picking up slowly and large consumers show no decided inclination toward the securing of Fall and Winter supplies.

Retail and mail order sales for the month of July were satisfactory, slightly exceeding last year. More buyers of dry goods were in the wholesale houses, with purchases in excess of last year, except for woolen goods, on which lower values have been placed by manufacturers; values otherwise are showing steadiness.

The money situation is holding fairly strong, with banks having plenty of money to loan for crop movement purposes. Rates on call loans were 3¾@4 and time 4@5¼ per cent. Gold holdings in the Seventh Federal Reserve District decreased, while loans and deposits increased, with the ratio of reserve 77.3 per cent., compared with 79.2 the previous week.

LABOR BANK LEASES TIFFANY BUILDING

Five-Story Structure at Union Square Made Necessary by Increasing Business.

FIRST OF ITS KIND HERE

Amalgamated, Owned by Clothing Workers, Has Gained $6,000,000 Resources in Three Years.

The Amalgamated Bank of New York, the city's first labor bank, has taken a thirty-one-year lease on the five-story Tiffany Building, at the southwest corner of Union Square West and Fifteenth Street. The property is owned by the Ardrich Holding Corporation, Harry B. Cutner, President.

Sidney Hillman, the President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who own and control the bank, said the great growth of the bank in two years to resources of $6,000,000, with 12,000 depositors, made larger quarters necessary. He spoke of the increase of depositors in both the checking and the 4 per cent. interest departments, and said the dollar remittance service to Europe brought thousands of persons to the bank.

"When it is known that we sent over 200,000 separate remittances for the workers to European coutries up to the end of 1924, and that the first three months of this year showed a 40 per cent. increase, the vital necessity for larger quarters will be understood," Mr. Hillman continued.

"In addition to this, our special small loan service brings thousands of persons to the bank. The new Amalgamated Bank Building will enable us to meet every demand that a continually increasing constituency makes upon us for years to come."

The lessees will make extensive alterations. The main floor will be reconstructed into a modern and commodious banking establishment with every facility.

The Amalgamated Bank of New York, operating on a New York State charter, was opened on April 14, 1923, with a capital of $300,000. Its first day's deposits amounted to more than $500,000. In the two years of its existence its deposits have passed the $6,000,000 mark. Raymond L. Redheffer, recently retired, was the first President.

Besides the New York bank, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America own and operate banks in Philadelphia and Chicago, the latter being the senior of the three. The Philadelphia bank was opened in April of this year.

The Tiffany Building was built for Tiffany & Co. in 1870 at a cost of $300,000, upon ground leased from the Van Buren estate. Tiffany's moved to Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street in 1905.

Tiffany & Co. assigned the lease to the Ardrich Holding Corporation on Sept. 15, 1922.

In the negotiations for the lease the Amalgamated Bank was represented by Maxwell D. Brandwene of Lowenthal, Szold, Perkins & Brandwene, and Louis J. Zimmerman of the real estate firm of Stephen H. Tyng Jr. & Co. The Ardrich Holding Corporation, the lessor, was represented by Joseph L. Young.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Grains and Metals Improve—Cotton, Rubber, Lard and Sugar React.

Business in last week's cash markets presented an interesting array of price advances and declines spread irregularly over the subjoined list of staples. The decline in the cash grains in the previous week was turned to a forward swing on speculation and renewed buying in the contract grades, while spot rubber and lard gave up a sizable part of their earlier gain. Additional shipments of crude rubber at the month-end, which relieved those who had July contracts to cover, and profit-taking in lard were the factors which accounted for the easier tone in these staples.

Refined sugar went to new low for the last several years at 5.25 cents, a decline of 10 points from the previous week. Spot cotton also sustained a sharp reaction on the latest statement, which showed the crop to be one of the largest within recent years. Higher values were found in coffee, lead, zinc and tin, while firmness prevailed in eggs, pork, beef, iron, steel billets and printcloths.

Saturday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities in the New York market, unless otherwise noted, were:

GASOLINE LOSS CUT BY USE OF BALLOONS

Huge Bags Attached to Storage Tanks Restore Fuel Lost by Evaporation.

STANDARD OIL INVENTION

Progress in Reducing Annual Loss of 50,000,000 Gallons to Be Revealed at Chemists' Convention.

"Breathing losses" of gasoline, estimated at 50,000,000 gallons a year by the Bureau of Mines, are being rapidly cut down by "breathing bags" developed for gasoline tanks by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, according to a statement made public here yesterday by the American Chemical Society.

"Breathing losses" are the evaporation of gasoline in tanks due to the sun's heat. This must be allowed to escape from the tank through a vent, otherwise the pressure would injure or destroy the tank.

The Standard Oil invention, which will be described in detail at the convention of the American Chemical Society, which meets at Los Angeles today, consists of a balloon which captures the escaping gas during the day and gives it back to the tank at night, so that the same gas is breathed over and over again without loss. The process was worked out by Robert E. Wilson, H. V. Atwell, E. P. Brown and E. W. Chenicek of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, whose joint paper on the subject says:

"Chemists throughout the industry have been alive to the importance of this problem, but its practical solution has proved very difficult. Considerable improvement has been made by substituting steel for wooden roofs and making them tight enough to keep wind from blowing through, and these improvements have been quite generally made.

What Causes the Loss.

"There still remained, however, the 'breathing loss,' amounting to over 3 per cent. a year. This is due to the daily changes in temperature, the heat of the sun during the day expanding the air above the gasoline and vaporizing enough gasoline during the day to expel, through the vent pipe which must be provided, several thousand cubic feet of rich gasoline-saturated air from a modern storage tank holding around 3,000,000 gallons.

"At night the vapor space cools 30 or 40 degrees and sucks back fresh air, which in turn becomes saturated with gasoline and is breathed out the next day. While spraying or insulating the tanks various other methods have been used to reduce this loss, but no satisfactory and economical way of preventing it has been found until now.

"A special gasoline-proof fabric has been developed and from it have been constructed large balloons, or 'breather bags,' which are housed in galvanized iron buildings and connected to the vapor space of the storage tank.

Goes Back Into Tank.

"When the gasoline-saturated air in the top of the tank expands it merely goes into the breather bag while the temperature is rising and is sucked back again when the tank cools off at night, thus preventing any loss. The breather bag is weighted by a special system which keeps the pressure in the top of the tank substantially balanced at all times, preventing losses through small openings, which it is hard to eliminate entirely.

"One 18,000 cubic foot balloon will care for two or more large gasoline storage tanks and save about 14,000 gallons of gasoline per month under average weather conditions. Automatic release and intake valves are provided to care for pumping to and from the tank or exceptionally large 'breaths' beyond the capacity of the balloon."

Two of these balloons have been in use for over two years by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana without, it was said, showin signs of deterioration, and recently over sixty balloons have been installed by that company to protect all its large gasoline storage tanks as well as a number of working tanks.

LABOR BANK PLAN WINS.

Addition of $1,000,000 to Capital Is Approved by Stockholders.

The proposed increase in the capital and surplus of the Federation Bank of New York to $1,500,000 was approved by stockholders at a special meeting in Washington Irving High School, it was announced yesterday. As a result, Peter J. Brady, President, said, the bank's capitalization will be larger than that of any other labor bank.

"The addition of another $1,000,000 in capital and surplus will give an opportunity to every labor organization and other groups sympathetic to organized labor to participate in one of the most constructive labor undertakings," said Mr. Brady. More than 3,500 shares of the increased capital stock have already been applied for and present stockholders have thirty days to exercise their options on the new issue.

NEXT REPORT ON COTTON.

New Orleans Doubts Wisdom of Bi-Monthly Estimates.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—With the next Government report only a little more than a week off the market will again pass under the influence of pre-bureau conditions. The doubt and hesitation that precedes every report during the growing season has induced many traders to believe that the issue of reports twice a months instead of monthly as formerly is a serious mistake.

Usually the frequent estimates are of little or no benefit to the growers and a substantial detriment to traders and spinners. But the forthcoming report will at least be interesting as measuring the effect of last week's rainfall.

STANDARD GAS & ELECTRIC.

To Redeem 6½% Gold Bonds Sept. 1 at 105 and Interest.

The Standard Gas and Electric Company has called for redemption on Sept. 1 at 105 and accrued interest, its outstanding convertible 6½ per cent. gold debentures, due Jan. 1, 1954, amounting now to approximately $2,400,000 par value. It is expected that practically all of these debentures will be converted into common stock before Sept. 1, at the favorable conversion prices.

The company has announced that in financing for future requirements the management will permit stockholders to purchase stock on a favorable basis.

The Week in Provision Markets.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Provision prices had a setback on liquidation. They have advanced to a high level of late in sympathy with hog prices and have reached a point where consumption has been checked, and the domestic and export trade has lessened within the last few weeks.

Stocks of lard increased 5,000,000 pounds last month, but are 19,000,000 pounds less than last year, being 76,000,000 pounds. Total stocks of meats, 115,112,000 pounds, show a decrease of 11,000,000 pounds for last month, compared with 140,000,000 pounds last year. High prices are bringing out a better run of hogs every other week, although receipts are below last year.

PRICE AVERAGE HIGHER.

Last Week's American Index Up Slightly; Rise in British Average.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 2.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of American commodity prices last week, based on 100 as the average of 1913, is 160.8, which compares with 160.4 a week ago, 160.5 two weeks ago, 159.3 three weeks ago and 158.9 four weeks ago. The highest weekly average reached this year to date was 164.4 on Jan. 31, which was also higher than any point reached in 1924; the lowest was 154.1, on May 2. Last year's high point was 156.7 on Dec. 27; its lowest 142.3 on June 29. The highest percentage since the war was 247, in May, 1920; the lowest, 130, in January, 1922.

The average for the full month of July is 160.3, comparing with 158.1 for June, with 156.9 for May, 156.4 for April, 161.3 for March, 162.6 for February and 161.9 for January.

Crump's British index number as cabled for the past week is 153.7, comparing with 151.9 a week ago, 152.1 two weeks ago, 151.5 three weeks ago and 151.4 four weeks ago. The average of 166.5 on Jan. 10 was the highest reached this year to date; the lowest was 149.6 on June 27.

The Crump British average for the full month of July is 152.1, comparing with 150.5 for June, with 152.7 for May, with 155.2 for April, 159.3 for March, 162.5 for February and 164.5 for January.

BEEF 60 CENTS HIGHER.

Go to Best Price Since 1920—Hogs and Sheep Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Choice heavy beef steers advanced 60 cents for the week and sold at $15.25, the highest since 1920, owing to scarcity. Other grades of beef cattle were in liberal supply and prices averaged lower, which held down the average of all beef steers for the week to $12.40 against $12.25 the previous week and $10.25 last year. Butchers' stock, on the whole, averaged lower and feeding steers closed 25 to 50 cents higher.

Hogs closed 25 to 30 cents lower for the week, with the top around $14.20 at te close and te week's average of $13.25 was the same as the previous week and compared with $9.10 last year. A widening of the spread between the light and heavy grades was a feature, supplies of the former being small.

Sheep values were 50 cents to $1 lower, with the average $7.25, against $8 the previous week and $6.50 last year. Lambs were up 50 cents to $1 with the top $16 and the average $15.20, against $14.40 the previous week and $13.35 last year.

Receipts of cattle at Chicago for the week were larger—47,300, against 47,556 last year. There were 124,400 hogs received, against 105,000 the previous week and 126,871 last year. Sheep receipts were 62,900, an increase of more than 9,000 for the week and a decrease of 1,000 from last year.

Estimated receipts this week are: Cattle, 50,000; hogs, 120,000; sheep, 65,000. Receipts last week were: Cattle, 52,413; hogs, 134,436; sheep, 86,333.

OFFER $8,277,500 ISSUE.

Bankers to Market 235,000 Lehn & Fink Common Shares.

Offering will be made today of 235,000 shares of common stock of the new Lehn & Fink Products Corporation amounting, at a price of $36.50 a share, to $8,277,500. The offering is by Goldman, Sachs & Co., Lehman Brothers, and Bond & Goodwin, Inc.

Lehn & Fink Products Corporation is a new holding concern organized to own and manage Lehn & Fink, Inc., and A. S. Hinds Company, which has just been acquired. The new company will inaugurate dividends of $3 a share a year on the common stock in the near future, according to the bankers.

The management of the new company will be in charge of Edward Plaut, who has been President of Lehn & Fink, Inc., for five years.

The consolidated balance sheet of the new company as of July 1, 1925, after giving effect to the sale of common stock and other transactions, shows current assets of $1,227,311 against current liabilities of $125,814.

Consolidated net profits on the basis of the new company amounted to $1,253,933 in 1923 and $1,467,473 in 1924. For the first six months to July, this year, net earnings were $707,233. The management believes that the profits for the full year will exceed those of 1924.

HAS 36 FOREIGN MEMBERS.

Cotton Exchange Here Truly a Cosmopolitan Market.

The New York Cotton Exchange may justly claim to be one of the greatest international market places in the world. Eight nations are represented in its foreign membership and it has thirty-six members whose offices are in foreign countries, including Great Britain, represented by England, India and Canada; France, Belgium, Switzerland and Spain.

Great Britain leads the foreign nations in the number of memberships with twenty-nine. France has two and the other nations each one. Four Japanese firms, with members residing here, also hold memberships.

"The increasing number of foreign memberships is a recognition of the vital function the Exchange performs in the marketing and distribution of America's great cotton crop," Richard T. Harriss, President of the Exchange, said. "The uses to which cotton is put are constantly growing, and as its consumption in different parts of the world increases a necessity is created for a more direct contact with exchange operations."

3,400 WORKERS OWN HOMES.

Bethlehem Steel's Aid to Employes Involves $13,000,000 Projects.

Employes of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation under the company's home-owning plan have purchased 3,400 homes, valued at $13,000,000, according to the current issue of The Bethlehem Review. Eugene G. Grace, President of the corporation, commenting upon building and home-owning activities, said:

"Bethlehem's employe housing activities have developed into a general plan which is in operation, with certain modifications, at the company's major plants. It is administered by a real estate organization at each of these plants and includes among its activities the improvement of existing homes owned by the company, the construction of new houses at plants where housing was inadequate or where other conditions made such housing necessary, and aid to employes in the purchase or erection of homes."

UTILITY FIRM GAINS.

American Water Works and Electric Co. Nets $206,934 in June.

The American Water Works and Electric Company's net income for June was $206,934, compared with $130,847 for June, 1924.

For the year ended June 30, net income was $2,797,161, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to 10.8 per cent. on 100 shares of participating preferred and 500,000 shares of common stock. This compares with a net of $3,093,544, or 12.3 per cent. per share, for the preceding year.

The West Penn Company, a subsidiary, reported a gross for the year of $25,428,802, a decrease of $61,465 from the previous year.

INTEREST IN COTTON CONSUMPTIONESTIMATE

Trade Discussing Figures of Carry-Over From the Last Crop.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—The cotton market's tendency to rally, toward the close of last week, was ascribed here to expectation that the world's consumption estimate for the past season, to be announced by Secretary Hester at the close of the week, would make a bullish showing, and that the carry-over at the end of the season will be shown to be small considering the size of the last crop. Any excess in the carry-over compared with a year ago will probably be found in European stocks as it has been for some time evident that foreign spinners were reverting to the old-time policy of accumulating reserve supplies.

During the past week exports exclusive of shipments to Canada crossed the 8,000,000 bale line, and at the season's close the total stood at 8,044,411 bales, as compared with total exports last season of 5,657,614 bales, an excess this season over last of 2,386,797 bales. After the exports to Canada have been added, it is probable that the total will reach 8,250,000 bales or slightly more. In a word, the large crop of last year has been consumed by the world, leaving a carry-over slightly larger than a year ago, but still far below what was considered a normal carry-over in pre-war times.

With the world likely to consume even more cotton during the coming season than it did during the season just closed, it is evident that even should the crop now beginning to come to market prove as large as 14,000,000 bales it will be none too large to meet requirements.

STEEL EARNINGS REASSURE.

Pittsburgh Infers Remunerative Prices From the Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—That prices in the steel trade have not been unremunerative is indicated by the Steel Corporation's earnings reports. The increase from the March quarter to the June quarter, when shipments of steel products to customers decreased between 10 and 15 per cent., may be assigned to other infliences than increased prices or lower units costs, and in particular to earnings of transportation companies in connection with iron ore movement.

With the company's earnings of $39,882,992 in the March quarter and $40,824,221 in the June quarter, the corporation had $80,507,213 for the half year, while its shipments averaged about 85 per cent. of capacity. The rate was $161,000,000 for a year. In 1923 the corporation operated at 88 per cent. and showed $179,846,674, while in 1924 the figures were 70 per cent. and $153,114,812.

LEE RUBBER & TIRE PROFIT.

$152,685 Net in June Quarter, as Against Loss in 1924.

For the quarter ended June 30, the Lee Rubber and Tire Corporation reports net profits of $152,685, against a net loss of $39,348 in the same period last year. Net sales aggregated $3,584,187. The profit and loss surplus on June 30 was $2,111,246.

According to the company's statement, the truck tire business increased 260 per cent. in the second quarter, compared with last year. This department is now operating at capacity and has capacity orders up to Oct. 1. The company plans to enlarge its output to provide for increasing business.

Traffic Better on Western Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Western railroads handled considerable more business in July than in June and in July last year. An increase in the grain traffic helped a few of the lines and there were general increases in all commodities, except live stock, which was below the average.

Western railroads are not meeting with success in their movement for an advance in freight rates in the Northwest and in the Middle West, as the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered a suspension in the advance, which was to become effective Aug. 1.

Notice of Redemption of

The General Gas & Electric Company

Six Per Cent. Ten-year Secured Gold Bonds

Due September 1, 1929.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to Section 1 of Article Sixth of the Trust Agreement of The General Gas & Electric Company to The New York Trust Company, as Trustee, dated September 1st, 1919, which Trust Agreement was assumed by General Gas & Electric Corporation by agreement dated September 28, 1922, General Gas & Electric Corporation has elected to redeem, on September 1, 1925, THREE MILLION, FOUR HUNDRED THIRTY-SEVEN THOUSAND, FIVE HUNDRED FIFTY (3,437,550) DOLLARS principal amount of its Six Per Cent. Ten Year Secured Gold Bonds, being ALL OF THE BONDS issued under and secured by the said Trust Agreement, at the price of One Hundred (100) per cent. of the principal amount of said bonds with accrued interest to the date of redemption.

Upon presentation of said bonds, and the coupons belonging thereto, for cancellation at the office of The New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York City, New York, on or after September 1, 1925, the principal of said bonds and the interest due thereon up to such redemption date will be paid to the person entitled to receive the same.

Pursuant to Section 2 of Article Sixth of the said Trust Agreement, all bonds so called for redemption shall cease to bear interest after September 1, 1925.

The owners of the Six Per Cent. Ten Year Secured Gold Bonds, if they so desire, may immediately obtain the principal of the said bonds and the interest due thereon up to the date of surrender upon presentation of the said bonds, and the coupons belonging thereto, for cancellation at the office of The New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York City, New York, at any time prior to September 1, 1925.

The New York Trust Company, as Trustee under Trust Agreement of The General Gas & Electric Company, dated September 1st, 1919.

Dated, New York, July 30, 1925.

General Gas & Electric Corporation

Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to Section 2 of Article Fifth of the Trust Agreement of General Gas & Electric Corporation to The New York Trust Company, as Trustee, dated September 1, 1922, General Gas & Electric Corporation intends to redeem, on September 1, 1925, TWO MILLION, TWENTY THOUSAND, TWO HUNDRED (2,020,200) DOLLARS principal amount of its Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, being ALL OF THE BONDS OUTSTANDING under the said Trust Agreement, at the price of One Hundred and five (105) per cent. of the principal amount of said bonds with accrued interest on such principal amount to the date of redemption.

Interest on the bonds to be redeemed as aforesaid will cease on September 1, 1925, and all of such bonds with all unmatured coupons, are required to be then presented at the office of The New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York City, New York, for payment and redemption.

The owners of the Seven Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series A, if they so desire, may immediately obtain the redemption price of the said bonds and the interest due thereon up to the date of surrender upon presentation of the said bonds with all unmatured coupons, for cancellation at the office of The New York Trust Company, 100 Broadway, New York City, New York, at any time prior to September 1, 1925.

CITY DELAY RENDERS OWNERS HOMELESS

Long Island City Residents Must Move but Will Not Get Paid for Sites Until Next Spring.

BUSINESS MEN LOSE TRADE

Property for School Addition Was Condemned Last September—Homes to Be Razed Soon.

More than a dozen families and business owners who have been rendered homeless by the action of the city in acquiring the block bounded by Radde Street, Academy Street and Payntar Avenue in Long Island City were surprised when they learned yesterday that it will be next Spring at the earliest before they will receive the money for their property. The block had been taken over as an addition to the site of Bryant High School after condemnation proceedings in the Queens Supreme Court. Title was vested in the property in September, 1924. Work of demolishing the homes will be started shortly, preliminary decree of the Supreme Court officials.

Joseph G. Mathews, assistant corporation counsel, who is in charge of the condemnation bureau in Queens, in reply according to notices given by the city to a query from the owners, said the fixing the awards has yet to be filed with the County Clerk. After that is done, he said, time will have to be taken for advertising in the City Record and to enable property owners to make objections to the awards, if they so desire. After that the final decree of the court must be entered before the Board of Estimate will appropriate money for the property.

The property is in one of the oldest sections of Long Island City. Some has been in the families more than a century. Since September, 1924, those who remained in their homes have been paying rent to the city, while others have been paying rent to other landlords. This is expensive, and, it is said, actually will reduce the amount that the owners will receive from the city. Owing to developments in the section, property values are rising and owners say it will be impossible, even now, to replace their homes for the sum they will receive. This will force them into cheaper sections.

Henry Beck, who for a lifetime has been building up a business for his paint store, at 134 Radde Street, said he had been paying the city $65 a month to remain in his old property as long as possible. Now he is compelled to find another location. Nicholas Blasius, who was the community undertaker, has been compelled to move and lose contact with the people among whom he has lived since he was a boy. W. Treblicock had to move his drug store three blocks from its old location. James Hunt is trying to re-establish his dry goods store on Beebe Avenue. Mrs. Bowman, who conducted a hardware business, was unable to find a suitable location and is said to have decided to retire. All of the former residents are paying from $75 to $100 a month rent pending the receipt of their money from the city.

Kendall Denies Senate Ambition.

DES MOINES, Aug. 2 (AP).—Nate E. Kendall, former Governor of Iowa, will not be in the running at the next election for the United States Senate, he has definitely asserted. In letters to two friends the Governor expressed thanks for their "consideration" in mentioning him as a possible candidate and for promising their support, but said he had never "for a moment considered a candidacy for United States Senate in 1926, or afterward."

DENIES PROHIBITION ADDS TO DEATH LIST

Fatalities Due to Alcoholism Were Rising Before War, Says Anti-Saloon League.

LOWER THAN IN WET ERA

Increase From 1920 to 1924 Due to "Deliberate Risking of Life," Statistician Declares.

A denial that the figures recently made public by State Health Commissioner Nicholl indicate that deaths from alcoholism were decreasing before prohibition, but were now increasing, is contained in a statement by the Anti-Saloon League, which declares that although deaths from alcoholism are increasing every year they are still lower than before prohibition.

The highest number of deaths from this cause in every thousand from 1910 to 1916 was thirteen. The lowest prohibition year was 1920, when the deaths from alcoholism were only 1.7 per thousand, and they have increased steadily to 7.1 per thousand in 1924.

The statement of the league is based upon a study of vital statistics by Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of Boston, Executive Secretary of the Scientific Temperance Federation of Boston. The steady increase in deaths in prohibition years, Miss Stoddard says, is due to "deliberate risking of life by those who are ignorant or wilful."

"The New York newspapers report that according to a table in the July 13 Bulletin of the State Board of Health, issued by Dr. Nicholl, State Commissioner of Health, 'the deaths from alcoholism were decreasing in New York City and State before prohibition but have been steadily increasing since 1920,'" says Miss Stoddard.

War Years Not Normal.

"The bulletin itself does not say that deaths from this cause were decreasing before prohibition, and its table is too incomplete to prove it, because it begins only with 1915. In 1916 there was an increase over 1915. And these are the last two normal pre-prohibition years, the only ones in the table with which the prohibition period can properly be compared.

"During a large part of 1917 and all of 1918 war restrictions on the liquor traffic were in effect; there were constant appeals for sobriety, 'to help win the war.' The restrictions continued through six months of 1919, followed by 'war' national prohibition. No one of these three years, therefore, is a normal pre-prohibition year.

"The following table carries the story further back into normal 'wet' years and shows that through this period there was no real decrease. The death rate per 100,000 in 1916 in both State and city was higher than the average for the seven-year period 1910-1916.

"The table shows also that alcoholism is not now taking as many lives as before prohibition, whether the loss is reckoned in actual deaths or in death rates, even granting that there has been an increase since 1920. In 1924, for example, had the alcoholic death rate in New York City been as large as in the normal 'wet' year there would have been 861 known victims of alcoholism instead of 513, as reported by the City Board of Health to the writer. Had alcoholic deaths continued in New York City during the five prohibition years at even the lowest rate of the last seven normal pre-prohibition years (10.7 in 1915), there would have been 3,148 deaths instead of the 1,431 actually reported. The table showing deaths per 100,000 of population follows:

	Source—United States Census Bureau.	N. Y. State Board of Health	N. Y. City Board of Health
Normal Pre-Prohibition Years:
1910	6.6	....	13.0
1911	5.7	....	13.0
1912	6.1	....	11.5
1913	7.3	....	13.0
1914	5.9	....	12.8
1915	5.2	7.9	10.7
1916	8.2	10.1	12.8
War Years:
1917	6.4	8.3	10.4
1918	3.0	3.8	4.6
Prohibition Years:
1920	1.2	1.4	1.7
1921	1.5	1.7	2.1
1922	2.9	3.5	4.7
1923	4.3	4.7	5.8
1924		5.7	7.1

Figures May Be Incomplete.

"The assertion is made by one newspaper editorial that these mortality figures undoubtedly do not represent all of the deaths. That is true, but the fact is not peculiar to the prohibition period.

"A medical officer connected with the coroner's office in one of our largest cities wrote me a few months ago, 'Prior to the passage of the Volstead act, it was political suicide foran officeholder in any way to show the evil of drinking. Now the deputy coroner, in taking evidence, can go into the history of alcoholism without fear of criticism.'

"This changed psychology toward alcoholism does not account, of course, for all the increase in deaths which has been reported since the low rate of the first prohibition years. But the facts, as they stand, show that New York, despite indifference and opposition to prohibition on the part of some, has profited in reducing deaths by alcoholism during the prohibition years, and can profit still more if and when her people decide to avail themselves of the health protection that the prohibition law is designed to give, and pass a State enforcement law."

OFFERS CAMP BONDS.

Jewish Institute to Sell $100,000 Issue to Extend Program.

The Central Jewish Institute, 125 East Eighty-fifth Street, through its President, Jacob Rubin, launched a $100,000 bond issue yesterday at its camp near Port Jarvis to finance the erection of additional camps without the necessity of resorting to a fund-raising campaign. Yesterday was the second parents' visiting day of the camp season and about 1,000 mothers and fathers were the guests of the more than 500 children who are enrolled in the camp.

The sale of the bonds, according to Mr. Rubin, will enable the institute to build more camps without appealing to the public by means of the "much abused drives." The camp was established so that children of moderate means could have vacations off the streets of New York. The children are enabled to continue throughout the Summer the Hebrew studies which they pursue in the Winter months. Mr. Rubin said that with the money raised by the bond issue, the camp would be extended next season to provide for the waiting list of more than 300 boys and girls.

Held for Theft of Bonds.

Accused of having stolen on July 21 500 shares of capital stock of the Mercantile Credit Plan Company, Inc., of Boston, from Thomas Sheridan, who has offices at Madison Avenue and Sixtieth Street, John Ford, 50 years old, of 330 West Eighty-sixth Street, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Jesse Silberman in Harlem Court and held in $5,000 bail for further examination Wednesday.

ELECTRICAL TRADE BANS WAGE BOOST

Time for the Public to Support the Building Employers Before Costs Again Soar, Says Eidlitz.

LIVING COSTS LOWER NOW

First of Workers' Requests for Higher Pay Meets With Rebuff in Response to Demand for Cuts.

Forerunners of wage demands that will be made by various trades in the New York building construction industry have been evidenced by those submitted by the electrical workers, writes Allen E. Beals in the current Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

Under current agreements various unions have a specified time before the expiration of wage understandings in which to indicate their desire for revision. Failing to file such requests before those respective dates automatically extends the existing wage schedules for another term. This accounts for the fact that the electrical workers filed theirs on July 1, as under their agreement they must give six months' notice before expiration of an agreement covering wage schedules of their intention to ask for a change.

The journeymen ask an increase in wages from $10.50 a day, the present rate paid, to $12. The helpers ask an increase from the present rate of $7 a day to $8 for eight hours' work, and double for all overtime.

Believing that such a rate of wage would have a decided tendency to increase the cost of electrical equipment in buildings, the employers of these men, the most responsible of whom are members of the Electrical Board of Trade of New York, Inc., have decided to oppose any increase whatever and by so doing give notice to other trades that as far as the electrical industry is concerned they believe it is time to call a halt to the constantly increasing cost of building construction.

The electrical industry takes the position that while increases were granted freely by them as living costs advanced after the war there is now no logical reason for any further progression. Wages of electrical mechanics today are far beyond the increase in living costs and employers in this trade argue that some one must take a stand if surging building costs are to be halted at all.

A comparison of daily wages paid in the electrical industry in New York as compared with living costs from 1913 to the end of 1924 follow:

Year.	Journeymen.	Helpers.	*Living Costs.
1913	$4.50	$1.50&$2.20	...
1914	4.80	1.50& 2.20	103
1915	4.80	2.20	105.1
1916	5.00	2.50	118.3
1917	5.20	2.50	142.4
1918	6.00	3.00	174.4
1919	7.00	3.50	199.3
1920	9.00	5.50	200.4
1921	9.00	5.50	174.3
1922	9.00	5.50	169.5
1923	10.00	6.50	173.2

*United States Bureau of Labor Statistics Cost of Living in December of each year.

The relations between the electrical contractors and their employes have been friendly and there have been practically no strikes or lockouts for many years, and so a definite policy now of refusal to increase is looked upon by the rest of the electrical industry as a sane and logical stand.

Charles L. Eidlitz, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Electrical Board of Trade, Inc., when asked what would be the result of such refusal said:

"No matter what the result may be it is a question of right or wrong and employers are absolutely right in making a stand. Furthermore, I know that some of the officials and influential men of the union feel that any attempt to enforce this demand would be ill advised as the men in the electrical industry are satisfied that they are receiving all that the traffic will bear.

"The trouble is that they are not free-lances in a matter of this kind and are instructed to make the demand by the Building Trades Council. When you realize that a delegate member of the Council receives $75 per week and expenses regardless of whether the men are working or are idle and that an increase in daily rate will automatically increase the delegate's salary it does not seem so unexplainable. Of course, a quarrel over wages and hours is not, as a rule, a popular one with the public, but the public is complaining bitterly about building costs and rents, and it must, I believe, now look with favor on anything that will tend to stop or halt advance in building costs as well as in commodities."

None of the other building trades have so far filed their demands, but it is believed that the council has instructed them to do so and that it is only a matter of weeks when these demands will be filed.

The electrical men and the electrical industry have always been pioneers in organized movements, and it is significant that they should take the lead in a position which should have the hearty approval and cooperation of the public at large, which, by rent or taxes, ultimately pays for the construction of buildings.

AIR MAIL CARRIED 13,500 POUNDS IN JULY

New York-Chicago Service Will Require Two Planes Nightly Soon—No Serious Mishaps.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 2.—In the first month, ending at midnight of July 31, of the United States mail service from New York to Chicago 6,500 pounds of mail was posted at the New York terminus at Hadley Field here, successfully carried to Cleveland and relayed to Chicago.

There was no serious mishap and no break in the schedule during the month. On the night the service began, July 1, Pilot Richard Amos was forced by engine trouble to make a landing about eighteen miles from the flying field in Cleveland, but he was not injured nor was his plane damaged, and since he had been flying ahead of schedule the mail arrived in Cleveland on time. This was the only accident on record.

Postage amounting to $68,900 was paid on the outgoing mail from Hadley Field. This is about one-third of the yearly business of the New Brunswick postoffice. The incoming mail was even larger, about 7,000 pounds coming from Cleveland. The mail both ways grows heavier every day, and at the present rate of increase two planes will be needed every night in another month.

A new hangar, accommodating six planes, has been constructed at Hadley Field. The old hangar also accommodates six planes, and there are twelve planes attached to the field.

Thousands of visitors are drawn to the field every week-end. According to the Postal Department rules, any army or navy plane may land, get repairs or obtain fuel, provided it pays the regular Government prices. A civilian plane may also land and receive service at the regular prices, provided the mechanicians are not busy with Government planes.

Lieutenant C. H. Hodges, attached to Bolling Field, landed today in a new all-metal De Haviland, staying only a short while on his way from the field to Washington, D. C.

UNAWARE OF GARY'S OFFER TO ANDREWS

Members of Committee of 1,000 Think Liquor Phase Overstressed in Crime Drive.

No New York member of the National Citizens' Committee of One Thousand who could be found yesterday knew of the offer said to have been made to General Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of the new prohibition régime, by John D. Rockefeller and Judge Elbert H. Gary to supply him with "dollar-a-year" men for the campaign against bootleggers. If Judge Gary or Mr. Rockefeller met General Andrews recently none of them knew of it. One member said he thought the report was misleading. It was also evident that there was some feeling here that the new National Crime Commission's plans were being sidetracked by undue emphasis on bootlegging.

The plans of the Crime Commission will be brought to the attention of President Coolidge soon by Richard Washburn Child, according to Mark O. Prentiss of the commission. He said yesterday that Mr. Child had called him from Pennsylvania to say that he would write at once to Judge Gary, offering to lay the plans before President Coolidge and seek support, if Judge Gary would accept the chairmanship of the commission and crystallize the elements into a working organization.

Lubitsch

The World's Greatest Moving Picture Director
WARNER BROTHERS

The next Ernst Lubitsch Picture will be an adaptation of Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan"—a play that has thrilled and amused thousands. Production has been started by Mr. Lubitsch with a cast of screen favorites.

THE AMERICAN SCREEN long needed a great producing genius who would lead the industry to the attainment of its marvelous opportunities; to the realization of its ideals.

The man needed appeared in the person of Ernst Lubitsch.

LUBITSCH brought to the Screen new vision and new courage. He exposed shams and shallow notions about pictures. He saw that all too often that which was heralded as "greatness" was merely "bigness," with mob scenes and lavish settings, wholly lacking in faithful presentation of the deeper passions and impulses of human life.

LUBITSCH understands human emotions in all their subtleties. And because his understanding is unerring, he directs the picturization of life with masterful fidelity. Whether directing a tremendous stage creation or a simple heart-touching drama from everyday life, Lubitsch develops with amazing finesse the utmost dramatic power in every situation.

LUBITSCH'S masterful simplicity makes Lubitsch pictures understandable to the child mind and delightful to the sophisticated man and woman of the world.
